Critical Maneuvers Face Astronauts

Temperatures Near Freezing In Apollo

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Temperatures were near freezing in the Apollo spacecraft today. It was uncomfortable for the astronauts but the cold was not expected to harm them or cause further damage to their disabled craft.

The command ship Odyssey has been slowly chilling since the astronauts shut off the power to save electricity after Apollo 13's emergency developed Monday night.

Lovell Notices Change

Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell Jr. noticed it first.

He awoke shivering out of a deep sleep in the darkness of the command module Tuesday.

Superb insulation kept the command ship fairly warm for more than a day, but then the supercold of space, where the temperature of objects shaded from the sun may drop to minus 250 degrees Fahrenheit, began creeping into the craft.

To astronaut John L. Swigert Jr. it was cold indeed.

"I don't know if we'll be able to sleep up there tonight," he said. "It must be 35 or 40 degrees."

"At the time he said that," said an official who was in Mission Control, "temperature in the cabin was actually 52 degrees. But I'm sure it felt like 35 or 40 to him."

60 Degrees In Cabin

The temperature in the lunar module cabin was not much better—it read 60 degrees at the time. It later rose three degrees, but was still far from comfortable.

The crew told the ground they were going to don extra pairs of coveralls and an official said they also had extra "long john" underwear.

Officials said temperatures in the command module—which is now used only as a bedroom by the spacemen—may drop as low as 40 degrees.

If it becomes this severe, the astronauts could put on their insulated pressure suits.

Cabin Grows Frosty

While the cabin grew frosty, equipment and electronics gear between the cabin wall and the outside spacecraft skin was subjected to bitter cold.

"Toward the end of the mission, we'll see a freeze in the lunar module descent stage and in the service module," said flight director Gerald Griffin, but he added that this would present no problems.

"I don't expect any temperatures close to freezing" for the command module equipment, he said.

System Checked

Flight controllers powered up the command module briefly Wednesday to check the systems and found all of them working.

Critical components of the command ship were punished in temperatures down to minus 20 degrees when it was being built.

The most delicate of the instruments, the guidance system, was put through this test and lost accuracy of only a few tenths of one degree.

To keep equipment from getting colder than the tested minus 20 degrees, the spacecraft are rolled so that all sides are evenly exposed to sunlight, which is very intense in space.

All Attention Focused On Good Re-Entry Friday At 1:07 P.M.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts recharged a weak battery and prepared other systems in their command ship today for the unique and critical maneuvers needed to bring their crippled craft back to earth Friday.

James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. streaked toward a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean after an engine firing Wednesday night shifted them off a course that would have left them stranded in space.

Lovell At Controls

With the veteran Lovell at the controls, they triggered their lunar module engine 15 seconds and successfully changed course. Had that firing and later course corrections failed, Apollo 13 would have missed earth by 104 miles and skipped off into space.

With that hurdle cleared, the spacemen turned all attention to Friday's re-entry and landing, scheduled for 1:07 p.m. EST.

Using flashlights to find their way in the dark and chilly cabin, the astronauts checked the three batteries in the command ship that will provide the power for the blazing dive through the atmosphere. They found two of them at full 40-amp-hour strength, but the third with only about half that power available.

Cable Hooked Up

On a normal re-entry, they would require 70 to 80 amp hours. So Mission Control told them to hook up a cable to the power system of the lunar module and recharge the weak battery. This process will take about 15 hours and draw eight amps from the LM.

Although the temperatures in the command ship, which was drawing oxygen from the sturdy LM, were down around 50 degrees, flight director Gerald Griffin said the craft's systems all appeared to be in good shape.

The pressures and temperatures in the plumbing system "looked fine," he reported. "Two of the thrusters have temperatures low enough so we'll have to heat them before pressurizing the system. But all these temperatures are going to rise when

Mrs. Haise Taking Everything Calmly

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Silently, anxiously, the two Apollo 13 wives listened as their husbands steered their stricken spaceship onto a homeward path.

"I was relieved it went so well," said Mary Haise after the critical burn of the tiny lunar lander engine. "But I was confident it would go well."

With the important maneuver completed, the families of James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert could relax—a little.

Children Stay Home

Mrs. Haise decided to keep her children home from school again today and said she would attend a brunch at the home of boss astronaut Donald Slayton.

With friends, relatives and other astronauts' wives Mrs. Haise and Marilyn Lovell tuned in via home television sets and NASA squawkboxes as the crew guided the ship back on course and homeward from its aborted moon landing mission.

Neither wife spoke during the critical 15-second rocket engine burn.

House Guests Leave

As house guests left the Haise and Lovell homes late Wednesday night a NASA public affairs officer said Mrs. Haise was going to bed. "She's really tired and she's starting to show it," he remarked.

Mrs. Haise is expecting her fourth child in June. She attended a luncheon Wednesday at the home of Sue Bean, wife of Apollo 12 astronaut Alan L. Bean.

Apollo 10 astronaut Thomas P. Stafford telephoned Mrs. Lovell before the rocket burn to brief her on the maneuver.

Mrs. Mary Haise

Mother Visited

Mrs. Lovell and her daughter, Susan, 11, visited Lovell's widowed mother at nearby Friendswood Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Lovell said she made the short trip to reassure her mother-in-law that she was "confident of a safe return by the crew."

The parents of Swigert, a bachelor, have also expressed confidence that the astronauts will make it home safely. The elder Swigert is a Denver, Colo., dentist.

Peaceful Moratorium Spoiled By Radicals

Vietnam Moratorium rallies Wednesday drew tens of thousands for generally peaceful protests in cities across the nation. But in a number of instances groups of radical youths rampaged afterward and clashed with police.

The worst violence came in Cambridge, Mass., where some 1,100 riot police used tear gas, dogs and clubs to battle 6,000 demonstrators who set fires, broke windows and threw rocks from rooftops in Harvard Square.

They had assembled after an earlier peaceful rally by 60,000 persons on Boston Common—the day's largest crowd.

At the Berkeley campus of the University of California 1,000 demonstrators tried to storm the Navy ROTC headquarters. Forty law enforcement officers were bombarded with rocks, bottles and water balloons. They replied with repeated barrages of tear gas.

The latest moratorium was timed to coincide with the April 15 federal income tax filing deadline. Many demonstrations protested the use of taxes to support the war.

Moratorium organizers expressed dismay that the voices of antiwar "moderates" were submerged by the strident demands of smaller groups of radicals.

In New York City some 20,000 demonstrators turned out in Bryant Park but radicals in the crowd pushed forward to try and take the stage and shift the focus from Vietnam to the cause of imprisoned Black Panthers.

At Columbia University Wednesday night 200 youths, many not students, broke windows, splattered red paint and set off stink bombs after a rally demanding that the university put up bail for 11 jailed Panthers.

70 Feared Dead As Avalanche Hits Building

SALLANCHES, France (AP) — Seventy persons — most of them tubercular boys under the age of 15— were feared dead today, buried under a massive avalanche that swept down on them as they slept.

The Ministry of Interior reported rescuers had found only 17 bodies 11 hours after the wall of rock and snow — 60 feet high and 600 feet wide—roared down in the darkness on two dormitories and a nurses' residence at a tuberculosis sanatorium.

"There is no hope of anyone surviving under that mass of snow and earth," said one police lieutenant as hundreds of rescue workers dug with picks, shovels, cranes and bulldozers.

The huge slide also smashed into one wing of the sanatorium's main building, but 14 children and three adults in that section were rescued unhurt.

Special Plans Being Studied For Re-Entry

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Engineers have developed special re-entry techniques for the troubled Apollo 13. They are being tested in simulators, but officials believe this to be the sequence in the hours before landing on earth:

Six hours before: The astronauts board the command module and begin turning on its power.

Five hours: A course correction is performed if needed.

Three and one-half hours: The service module, which is the disabled part of the spacecraft, is jettisoned.

Three hours: Begin preparation to jettison the lunar module.

Two hours: Seal off the lunar module by closing its hatch and that of the command module.

One hour: Jettison the lunar module.

After the lunar module is discarded, only the cone-shaped command ship is left. This craft carries the crew through the atmosphere to a parachute landing in the Pacific as in a normal re-entry.

The astronauts will be picked up by the aircraft carrier Iwo Jima and later flown to American Samoa by helicopter.

They will be taken by jet to Ellington Air Force Base in Houston Saturday.

3 Bessemer Boys Make $17,000 Haul

BESSEMER (AP) — Police have recovered almost all of the $17,000 stolen from a strong box which a retired miner kept next to his bed in a rural Gogebic County farm house.

Sheriff's deputies said three 16-year-old Bessemer area boys broke into the vacant house of Steven Bielecki, 77, and cracked open the strongbox.

Bielecki, a bachelor, lives in Bessemer during the winter and had not moved back into the farm house. He discovered the theft Sunday.

The youthful burglars were apprehended Tuesday, and all but "a small portion of the money was recovered in a basement of one of the boys' homes.

Police said relatives have persuaded Bielecki to put his money in a bank.

Russians Begin Naval Maneuvers

MOSCOW (AP) — The big Soviet naval and air maneuvers have started in the North Atlantic, the Mediterranean and the Sea of Japan, the Defense Ministry newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda—Red Star—reported today.

The ministry announced two days ago that the maneuvers would be held until the end of May but did not say when they would start. There also has been no announcement of how many ships and planes are taking part, but most of the Soviet navy is believed to be involved.

39 Subpoenaed In My Lai Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel has subpoenaed 39 military witnesses in its probe of the alleged My Lai massacre after Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor refused to allow them to testify voluntarily.

Resor told a special House armed services subcommittee he feared the investigation will prejudice the rights of defendants in the case and urged a delay until courts martial of those charged are completed.

But Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the panel, said Congress and the public have the right to "an independent study with conclusions independently arrived at."

Tropical Storm Has Dissipated

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm in the South Pacific has dissipated and poses no threat to the troubled Apollo 13 astronauts, the space agency said today.

Tropical Storm Helen earlier appeared to be plodding toward the splashdown site southeast of Samoa but space officials in Houston and weather observers elsewhere said it had broken up.

At one point earlier in the week this ship's forecasters said the storm could have grown into a hurricane.

Helen or its side effects provided frogmen with rough weather training Wednesday on their final recovery exercise.

Swim teams worked in a driving rainstorm and said they were ready for the astronauts' return.

"We wanted a rough weather simex," said one helicopter pilot. Simex means simulated exercise.

Despite downpours that cut visibility to less than three miles at times, waves were moderate. The exercise took only about 45 minutes.

Scattered clouds at 2,000 feet and easterly winds at 15 miles per hour were predicted for Friday's splashdown. No rain was expected, a space agency spokesman said.

Collins Faces Murder Charge In Coast Death

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — John Norman Collins, accused of slaying an Eastern Michigan University coed and indicted on another first degree murder charge in California Wednesday night, cannot receive a fair trial here, his attorney has charged.

Collins, 22, of Center Line, Mich., is scheduled to stand trial in June for the slaying of 18-year-old Karen Sue Beineman, the last of seven young women murdered in the Ann Arbor area in a two-year period. There have been no other arrests.

A grand jury at Salinas, calif., returned a first degree murder indictment against Collins in the strangulation death of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, of Milwaukie, Ore.

Her body was found in a dumping ground outside Carmel, Calif., last July.

Miss Beinemann, a fellow student of Collins at Eastern Michigan University in nearby Ypsilanti, was slain last July 25.

Collins was arrested a few days later in the strangulation-sex slaying of the Grand Rapids, Mich., coed and has been held at the Washtenaw County Jail here ever since.

8-Cent Stamp?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to raise the cost of mailing a letter to eight cents instead of 10 cents as originally proposed and called for establishment of a new United States Postal Service.

Arabs Set Up Guards At Yank Embassy

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Arab guerrillas with submachine guns helped guard the U.S. Embassy in Amman today as hundreds marched again through Jordan's capital to protest the Middle East visit of U.S. Assistant Secreatry of State Joseph Sisco.

The guerrillas stood alongside Jordanian troops behind coils of barbed wire thrown around the embassy compound following a mob attack on the embassy and the American cultural center Wednesday.

The cultural center was bombed and destroyed by fire. Police stood guard today over the blackened shell.

The unified command of the guerrilla movement has distributed leaflets calling for a general strike Friday to coincide with Sisco's arrival from Israel. Today more than 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators, escorted by armed guerrillas, marched through Amman chanting "Sisco, Sisco, go home, Sisco."

It was the third day of anti-American demonstrations in the city.

The Arab guerrilla movement has denounced Sisco's visit to the Middle East, charging he is trying to impose a political settlement on the Arabs. The guerrillas oppose any peaceful settlement with Israel.

Across the border in Israel, Sisco met with Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon before flying to the Beisan Valley to have a first-hand look at the Jordan River cease-fire line. The American visitor meets tonight with Premier Golda Meir.

Bodies Continue To Float Down Mekong

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian Army spokesman said today he knew nothing about the hundreds of Vietnamese bodies seen in the Mekong River southeast of Phnom Penh for the past two days. But he said the killing of Vietnamese civilians in Cambodia "could be considered punitive actions because of Viet Cong attacks in Cambodia.

"If Vietnamese go with the Viet Cong they must take the consequences for this is our country," Lt. Col. Kim Eng Kouroudeth told newsmen at the inauguration of regular military briefings by the leaders who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The colonel said Vietnamese are being rounded up for security checks, and "we will take measures against the other Vietnamese to insure they remain quiet. It is not racial, it is just a precautionary move."

Another 30 Vietnamese bodies floated this morning past the Mekong River ferry point at Neak Leung, 50 miles down the river from Phnom Penh. Like the hundreds that passed there Wednesday, the bodies had bullet wounds in several places and the hands of many were bound.

Nobody would say where the bodies came from. But foreign sources in Phnom Penh said an estimated 600 Vietnamese men had been arrested early Monday in the village of Xon Bien, near the Cambodian capital, loaded on boats and taken away.

Cambodian military sources at Neak Leung said 200 Cambodian troops were trapped on the Mekong banks farther south near the frontier, and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships, ground troops and tanks had pushed across the border in an attempt to help the Cambodian troops.

This was the first report that South Vietnamese troops are operating in that part of Cambodia, west of the Plain of Reeds. Previous cross-the-border operations have been reported in the Parrot's Beak area some 70 miles to the east.

BODIES, TIED AND ROPED TOGETHER, are shown floating down the Mekong River at Neak Leung, Cambodia, Wednesday. Reports from the area said the bodies of 400 Vietnamese had floated past Neak Leung Wednesday morning and more dotted the waters for a mile up the river. (AP Wirephoto via Radio from Hong Kong)

The guerrillas stood alongside Jordanian troops behind coils of barbed wire thrown around the embassy compound following a mob attack on the embassy and the American cultural center Wednesday.

The cultural center was bombed and destroyed by fire. Police stood guard today over the blackened shell.

The unified command of the guerrilla movement has distributed leaflets calling for a general strike Friday to coincide with Sisco's arrival from Israel. Today more than 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators, escorted by armed guerrillas, marched through Amman chanting "Sisco, Sisco, go home, Sisco."

It was the third day of anti-American demonstrations in the city.

The Arab guerrilla movement has denounced Sisco's visit to the Middle East, charging he is trying to impose a political settlement on the Arabs. The guerrillas oppose any peaceful settlement with Israel.

Across the border in Israel, Sisco met with Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon before flying to the Beisan Valley to have a first-hand look at the Jordan River cease-fire line. The American visitor meets tonight with Premier Golda Meir.

Bodies Continue To Float Down Mekong

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian Army spokesman said today he knew nothing about the hundreds of Vietnamese bodies seen in the Mekong River southeast of Phnom Penh for the past two days. But he said the killing of Vietnamese civilians in Cambodia "could be considered punitive actions because of Viet Cong attacks in Cambodia.

"If Vietnamese go with the Viet Cong they must take the consequences for this is our country," Lt. Col. Kim Eng Kouroudeth told newsmen at the inauguration of regular military briefings by the leaders who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

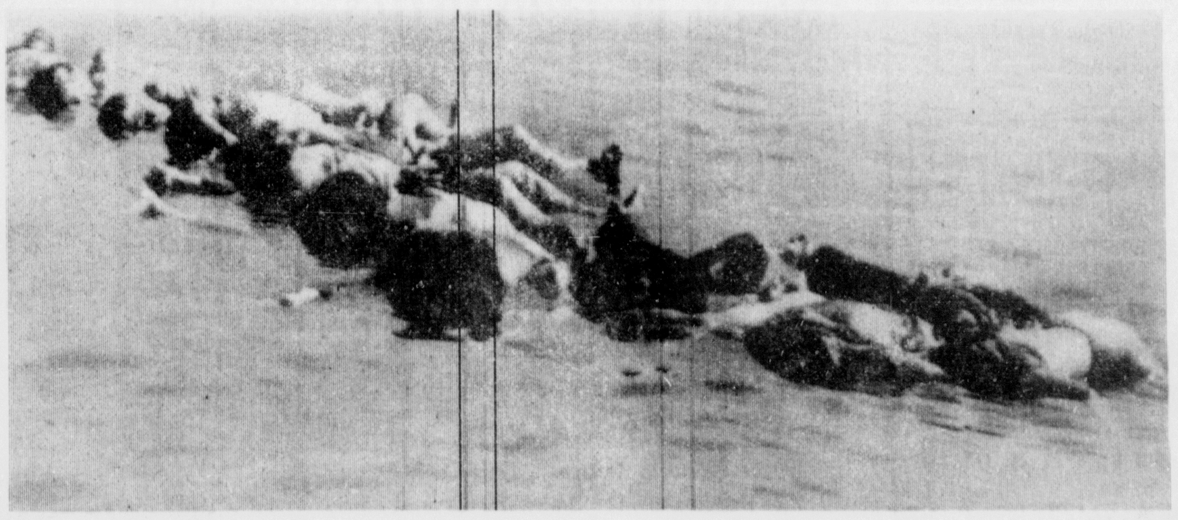
The colonel said Vietnamese are being rounded up for security checks, and "we will take measures against the other Vietnamese to insure they remain quiet. It is not racial, it is just a precautionary move."

Another 30 Vietnamese bodies floated this morning past the Mekong River ferry point at Neak Leung, 50 miles down the river from Phnom Penh. Like the hundreds that passed there Wednesday, the bodies had bullet wounds in several places and the hands of many were bound.

Nobody would say where the bodies came from. But foreign sources in Phnom Penh said an estimated 600 Vietnamese men had been arrested early Monday in the village of Xon Bien, near the Cambodian capital, loaded on boats and taken away.

Cambodian military sources at Neak Leung said 200 Cambodian troops were trapped on the Mekong banks farther south near the frontier, and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships, ground troops and tanks had busned across the border in an attempt to help the Cambodian troops.

This was the first report that South Vietnamese troops are operating in that part of Cambodia, west of the Plain of Reeds. Previous cross-the-border operations have been reported in the Parrot's Beak area some 70 miles to the east.



BODIES, TIED AND ROPED TOGETHER, are shown floating down the Mekong River at Neak Leung, Cambodia, Wednesday. Reports from the area said the bodies of 400 Vietnamese had floated past Neak Leung Wednesday morning and more dotted the waters for a mile up the river. (AP Wirephoto via Radio from Hong Kong)

Museum Opening To Mark Start Of Busy Season

Plans for participation in Michigan Week observance and for a busy season of activities were made by the Delta County Historical Society at its directors meeting Wednesday night.

Mrs. Clint Dunathan, Michigan Week Heritage Day chairman and president of the Historical Society, announced that the Historical Museum in Ludington Park will be opened — as in past years — on Heritage Day, May 19.

There will be open house from 2 to 5 p. m., tea will be served, and there will be several new exhibits, including one of the early history of aviation in Delta County. Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder is museum committee chairman and has called for a work-bee at 7:30 p. m. April 22, at the museum.

Exchange Program

Mrs. Robert Schmeling and Mrs. Frank Bender Jr. will arrange for the tea and among hostesses for the open house will be Mrs. John Nystrom, Mrs. J. E. Turner, Miss Eva Flemstrom, Mrs. Luther Barrett and others.

Mrs. Mosenfelder reported that Miss Jeannine Schmeling has accepted one of the two positions as museum guides for this season. She was employed there last year and is a student at Michigan State University. More than 5,000 persons from many states and several foreign countries registered at the museum in 1969.

The Historical Society's program "The Elliott Letters" continues to be requested for showing, and will be presented at Northville (near Detroit) on April 22, and at Munising to the Alger County Historical Society's annual meeting on May 19.

Historic Trail

An exchange program from the Northville Historical Society will be presented to the Delta County Society next fall.

The annual summer program of the Historical Society is planned to be held at a picnic grounds on the Whitefish River trail, with the U. S. Forest Service cooperating and the Alger County Historical Society joining in the event.

Floyd Roberts of Rapid River is chairman of the program arrangements committee. Roberts, a director of the Historical Society and a descendant of Louis Roberts, the first white settler in Delta County, was also chairman of the committee that erected the historical marker designating the south end of the Whitefish Trail.

The summertime picnic program will be devoted to the history of the trail, which served first as a pathway for the Indians and explorers, then for pioneers and now as a recreation trail restored by the Forest Service.

Camp Inmates Use Telephones

LANSING — Prisoners held in two of Michigan's prison camps can call home now when they get lonesome.

They reverse the charges, however.

Corrections Director Gus Harrison said a morale problem developed in northern Michigan camps because relatives cannot visit regularly.

"So we installed pay telephones at two locations, at the Parole Camp at Jackson and Camp Souble near Ludington," he said. "We gave each man a dime from the inmate welfare fund.

"We've found that a telephone call can accomplish almost as much as a visit."

Harrison said inmates make 20 to 30 calls each night from the two camps. Plans are underway to install telephones at Camp Lehman, near Grayling, and at Camp Pellston.

After working out technical difficulties, he said telephones will be installed at Camp Baraga and Camp Cusino, near Shingleton, in the Upper Peninsula.

"It has worked much better than we even hoped," Harrison said.

Government Day Activities Open

Senior Government Day as a tradition at Escanaba Area High School goes back more than a quarter of a century.

However, it is a tradition that still has meaning and value today, for it is a laboratory-type learning activity for students in government classes. The activities include circulation of nominating petitions, student voter registration, a mock civil service exam, an all-school nominating assembly, and an election.

These events will culminate in the "Day" when students will attempt to parallel Escanaba city government in a condensed form. The student officials will be selected in accordance with the Escanaba City Charter.

Five "council members" are to be elected by the registered student voters and all appointive positions are to be filled through simulated civil service system, scores achieved on a general test based on the Escanaba City Charter.

Student candidates must give a short campaign speech at the all-school assembly to be held Wednesday, April 22. A short campaign will end on election day, April 30.

Senior Government Day will be held Thursday, May 7. About 20 students from Escanaba Area High School will actually take part in government day.

Each student official will meet with the corresponding Escanaba city official for a brief session concerning the work of his department, and the Council and manager will hold a mock city council meeting. Then those participating will go on a tour of the city government offices.

Mrs. Milliken To Speak Here

The Escanaba area will host Mrs. William G. Milliken, wife of the Governor, at a dinner which she will address on Tuesday, May 5, in the House of Ludington at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Milliken will speak on the environment campaign.

Mrs. Milliken will be accompanied on her Upper Peninsula tour by Mrs. John Riecker of Midland, first vice chairman of the Republican State Ceneral Committee, said Mrs. William Butt of Escanaba, dinner committee chairman.

Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson are ticket chairmen and reservations may be made by phoning 786-6881.

Mrs. Milliken will come to Escanaba from a luncheon at Iron Mountain and will hold a press conference at the Ludington before the dinner in the evening.

A native of Colorado who met her husband when he was a staff sergeant in the Air Force at Lowry Air Force Base in her home town of Denver, Mrs. Milliken has become active in the civic and political life of Michigan.

She is a graduate of Smith College, has done graduate studies at Michigan State University and is a member of the League of Women Voters, the Michigan Children's Aid Society, the Michigan Council of the Arts and Audubon Society.

Dinner seating is limited to 90.

Ship Crewman Is Injured In Fall

Francis W. Crowl, 38, of Bay City, was injured in an accident aboard the Str. Adam Cornelius in Escanaba at 7:05 a.m. today.

Crowl, crewman on the Cornelius, apparently fell down a flight of metal stairs on the boat while it was docked at the C. Reiss Coal Co. terminal. He suffered fractured ribs and a punctured lung and is in St. Francis Hospital.

Welfare Bill Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's sweeping welfare reform legislation appeared headed today toward a major victory in the House despite efforts by opponents to strip some of its costly provisions.

The opposition, however, fought a rear-guard action after the House voted 204 to 183 Wednesday to sustain its Rules Committee in barring all floor amendments.

Conservatives wanted to knock out provisions for families with breadwinners and for a spelled-out income assurance— $1,600 for a family of four.

They argued the cost would rise far beyond the $4.4 billion official estimate. Some liberals sought a chance to increase the assured income level. Opponents also argued the incentives for welfare recipients to train for and take self-suffifcient jobs would be ineffective.

But their combined strength was not enough to upset the rule that the House must vote the whole package up or down or send it back to the Ways and Means Committeee for more work.

Richard H. Johnson

R. Johnson Accident Victim

Richard Hilding Johnson, 29, formerly of Gladstone and an employe of the Cudahy Tanning Co., Cudahy, Wis., was dead on arrival at Trinity Memorial Hospital at 8:03 p.m. Wednesday following an accident at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Tanning Co.

He drowned in a vat containing 4,400 to 6,000 pounds of hides and a weak solution of lime-sodium sulphide and water as he tried to remove some of the hides before a wooden paddle wheel, used to stir the hides, had completely stopped.

He was born June 6, 1940. Survivors include: two sons, Richard and Timothy, both of Rapid River; his mother, Mrs. Lyli Johnson of Gladstone; six sisters, Mrs. Donald (Ila) Pearson of Excelsior, Minn., Mrs. M. (June) Rafiullah of Racine, Wis., Mrs. Harold (Gerta) Plouff of Escanaba, Mrs. Richard (Karen) Benz of Joliet, Ill., Mrs. Keith (Linda) Sengstock of West Allis, Wis., and Mrs. Kelly (Inga) Ray of Milwaukee; his grandmother, Mrs. Edla Erickson of Gladstone and an uncle, George Johnson of Grand Rapids.

Friends may call at the Anderson-Johns Funeral Home from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday and funeral services are tentatively set for 11 a.m. Saturday at the First Lutheran Church of Gladstone with the Rev. Reuben Carlson officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery.

Senior Government Day will be held Thursday, May 7. About 20 students from Escanaba Area High School will actually take part in government day.

Each student official will meet with the corresponding Escanaba city official for a brief session concerning the work of his department, and the Council and manager will hold a mock city council meeting. Then those participating will go on a tour of the city government offices.

Mrs. Milliken To Speak Here

The Escanaba area will host Mrs. William G. Milliken, wife of the Governor, at a dinner which she will address on Tuesday, May 5, in the House of Ludington at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Milliken will speak on the environment campaign.

Mrs. Milliken will be accompanied on her Upper Peninsula tour by Mrs. John Riecker of Midland, first vice chairman of the Republican State Ceneral Committee, said Mrs. William Butt of Escanaba, dinner committee chairman.

Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson are ticket chairmen and reservations may be made by phoning 786-6881.

Mrs. Milliken will come to Escanaba from a luncheon at Iron Mountain and will hold a press conference at the Ludington before the dinner in the evening.

A native of Colorado who met her husband when he was a staff sergeant in the Air Force at Lowry Air Force Base in her home town of Denver, Mrs. Milliken has become active in the civic and political life of Michigan.

She is a graduate of Smith College, has done graduate studies at Michigan State University and is a member of the League of Women Voters, the Michigan Children's Aid Society, the Michigan Council of the Arts and Audubon Society.

Dinner seating is limited to 90.

Ship Crewman Is Injured In Fall

Francis W. Crowl, 38, of Bay City, was injured in an accident aboard the Str. Adam Cornelius in Escanaba at 7:05 a.m. today.

Crowl, crewman on the Cornelius, apparently fell down a flight of metal stairs on the boat while it was docked at the C. Reiss Coal Co. terminal. He suffered fractured ribs and a punctured lung and is in St. Francis Hospital.

Welfare Bill Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's sweeping welfare reform legislation appeared headed today toward a major victory in the House despite efforts by opponents to strip some of its costly provisions.

The opposition, however, fought a rear-guard action after the House voted 204 to 183 Wednesday to sustain its Rules Committee in barring all floor amendments.

Conservatives wanted to knock out provisions for families with breadwinners and for a spelled-out income assurance— $1,600 for a family of four.

They argued the cost would rise far beyond the $4.4 billion official estimate. Some liberals sought a chance to increase the assured income level. Opponents also argued the incentives for welfare recipients to train for and take self-suffifcient jobs would be ineffective.

But their combined strength was not enough to upset the rule that the House must vote the whole package up or down or send it back to the Ways and Means Committeee for more work.

State To Spend Over $3 Million On U.P. Prison

LANSING — Michigan will spend more than $3 million on new buildings at Marquette State Prison in a fresh effort to restore some of its toughest inmates to society.

The plan will immediately affect up to 80 prisoners held in maximum security cellblocks who rarely leave their cells.

"Even with these people, we want to treat them differently," said Corrections Director Gus Harrison. "Eventually we want to take them back into the general inmate population."

New Cell Block

He said the first project will be a $1.8 million 100-bed maximum security cellblock designated as an "adjustment center" either on the east of the entrance or on a hill behind the powerhouse.

Harrison said Daverman Associates, of Grand Rapids, are designing the block and promise completion within two years. It will have counseling offices, classrooms, a visiting area and exercise yards.

"They will have supervised and limited activity, something they've never had before," Harrison said. "An effort will be made to work them back, to change some thinking.

The cost, he said, will be under the national average per cell, now between $15,000 and $20,000 each. The cost will be cut down because as part of the prison it will not need a laundry, dining room, kitchen or a separate powerhouse.

Conversion Planned

It will replace the two present maximum security blocks, which hold inmates who now are a threat to other prisoners.

Harrison also disclosed plans to convert abandoned cellblock A, left of the rotunda from the entrance, into a medical facility, hospital, a dental treatment center and counseling area.

The building—known for its "bucket brigade" because of the lack of toilet facilities—was dropped from use a decade ago.

In addition, he said, the inmate reception area would be enlarged and its cells rebuilt. Marquette originally receives all Upper Peninsula prisoners for processing, then transfer to other institutions.

Harrison said, however, that the new construction would not increase the size or inmate population.

"We don't want to make Marquette any larger than it is," he said. "If we enlarged it, we would lose the supervisory capability and the chance to know the inmates as individuals."

District Court

Joseph M. Rawson, 315 S. 13th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery, reduced from felonious assault, and was ordered to pay a fine of $25, costs of $50 and judgment fees of $3. He was also placed on probation for 18 months.

Steenberg Mobile Homes, Rte. 1, Fond du Lac, Wis. paid a $100 fine and $28 costs for transporting a trailer too wide for the road.

Leo E. Kanerva, Rock, pleaded guilty to DUIL and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 or spend 14 days in jail along with $47 costs and $3 judgment fees.

Ronald W. Johnson, Rte. 2 Rapid River, pleaded guilty to conservation charges of spearing fish and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 or spend 10 days in jail. He was also ordered to pay $16.50 in costs.

Lynn L. Richards, Rte. 1 Gladstone, pleaded guilty to careless driving, reduced from reckless driving, and was given until April 24 to pay a $50 fine or spend seven days in jail and pay $15 cost and $3 judgment fees.

Lester J. Sexton, Gladstone, was charged with unlawful possession of a spear near a closed stream for spearing. The charge was not denied and sentencing was delayed for 24 months, but he must exhibit a valid license each year in January.

Harkness Named Coach Of Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Ned Harkness, who led Cornell University to two national championships, was named coach today of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Wings' general manager Sid Abel relinquished the coach's job to Harkness after serving almost an entire season as general manager-coach. Abel replaced Bill Gadsby, who was fired early in the campaign.

The Wings finished in third place in the NHL's eastern division and lost their Stanley Cup playofff series to Chicago in four straight games.

Harkness, 48, is an old friend of Abel. The two servied together in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Shouldice Heads Family Relations Meeting Agenda

The conference will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. on Friday in Iron Mountain at the Dickinson Hotel and conclude with a business meeting about 3:15 p.m.

Keynote speaker, Dr. Kenneth Shouldice, president of Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, will set the stage for small group discussions on the roles and responsibilities of family members in decision making. He will discuss ways in which parents and youth can bridge the communication gap and improve communications generally.

The conference is designed to interest parents and persons working with youth. The conference fee is $1.50. The public is invited to attend.

Social Security Benefits Paid To 5,500 In County

A total of 5,500 people received social security checks in Delta County during the past year, David Pugliese, assistant director of the Social Security Administration, told the members of the Escanaba Business & Professional Women's Club Tuesday night at the Sherman Hotel.

Of this number, 3600 were over 65 years of age. A total of $400,000 a month is paid to all beneficiaries in the county, said Pugliese, "which is a substantial pay roll."

There are three things that happen to individuals that could affect their benefits — the individual will die; the individual will become disabled; or he will become too old to work and will retire.

Pugliese pointed out that the social security tax can be used to pay the benefits under the program and to pay for the administration of the program. For each dollar paid, 97.5 cents is used for payments to beneficiaries and 2.5 cents goes toward the administration of the program.

Benefits To Survivors

Benefits that are payable when a person dies are payable to the surviving dependents, Pugliese said. Children under age 18 can receive payments and children over 18 and up to their 22nd birthday can receive payments if they are students in a recognized school.

The Social Security Administration has an exact record of an individual's earning's credit and this determines what the benefits are. If the wife passes away and was working steadily, the husband can receive benefits for children. The minimum social security payments now is $64 and if the surviving husband does not file a claim he has lost that amount.

As far as disability benefits are concerned, if a person becomes disabled at 40 or 50 years of age, he is permanently disabled and cannot work, he may be eligible for disability provided his condition is medically determinable. The dependents of a disabled worker are eligible to receive checks, including the wife and children up to 18 or if in school, up to 22 years.

Retirement Discussed

In the retirement category, Pugliese said a person must have worked long enough to be eligible to receive payment. If an individual has been farsighted enough to invest in stocks or bonds or rental property, if they have provided for themselves, this is not considered earnings but income and when they have retired, this will not affect their social security payments.

Mrs. Nancy Petry, chairman of the Finance Committee, introduced the speaker.

President Angeline Hakes conducted the business meeting. Antoinette Sanhuber and Laura Schoen were accepted as members of the club.

Report On Meeting

Mrs. Hakes reported on the district meeting held at the Falls Hall Sunday, April 12. Attending from Escanaba were Mrs. Hakes, Probate Judge Marie D. Peters, Mrs. Jean Kasun, Mrs. Pearl Witte, Mrs Emily Williams, Mrs. Ruth Sedenquist, Mary McDonough, Mrs. Ardyth Flaherty and Miss Alice Kvam. Judge Peters was elected to represent the district on the state nominating committee at the state convention of the Michigan Federation of Business & Professional Women's Clubs at the Detroit Hilton May 15, 16 and 17.

Mrs. Hakes and Mrs. Witte will serve on the elections committee at the convention. Attending from Escanaba will be Mrs. Hakes, Judge Peters, Mrs. Witte and Mrs. Emily Williams.

Mrs. Hakes called attention to the Georgia Emery Scholarship Fund offered by the state federation and which is available to any B&PW member who needs a refresher educational course. The attention of B&PW members also was called to the cancer fund administered by the state federation which is available to any club member needing funds for treatment.

Officers elected at the district two meeting at Newberry were Mrs. Mayme Eubank, St. Ignace, district director; Mrs. Alice Aley, Munising, assistant director; and Mrs. Alice Warren, St. Ignace, secretary-treasurer.

Local Airman Receives Honor

K. I. SAWYER AFB — Sgt. Lester J. Cody, a native of Escanaba and a member of the 410th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, has been named Maintenance Man of the Month for March in the 410th Bomb Wing. He will now compete for the title among 40th Air Division maintenance men.

Sgt. Cody was cited for his performance as a member of the tanker launch team. "He has proven to be a prime example of the type of airman of which the monthly award is intended to recognize and reward," said Col. Joseph M. McHale, deputy commander for operations.

Sgt. Cody, a KC-135 crew chief, was lauded for his development of a "launch kit" which places all the equipment and tools used during the preflight inspection of each KC-135.

RENTING MACHINERY

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A few Madison County farmers are finding that leasing farm machinery is one way of controlling ones resources. Farmers have found that rapid changes in technology and the expanding farm business have created a need for new machines. This can cause a severe strain on the normal sources of investment capital.

Custom hiring to get the job done or renting the machine by the job or by the season can relieve a tight capital situation and keep capital free for other uses in the farm business.

we apply some power to the command module with the batteries. The whole command module looks good." he said.

The command ship was disabled Monday night by an oxygen tank rupture in the attached service module. The accident knocked out fuel cells which would have provided long-life power. Without the cells, the moon landing had to be canceled and the astronauts turned to the lunar module supplies to keep them alive and bring them home.

Lovell, Haise and Swigert continued to ration vital oxygen, water and power as they raced closer to earth. They had ample margins in all systems to complete the flight. But they knew a sudden loss of any system would imperil them in the final hours of their abortive journey.

140,000 Miles Away

At midmorning they were 140,000 miles from home and accelerating as earth's gravity tugged them on an increasing speed.

By the time Apollo 13 hits the atmosphere at 400,000 feet Friday, they'll be traveling 24,623 miles an hour.

The landing site in the Pacific is about 580 miles southeast of Samoa. The carrier Iwo Jima was steaming toward the area and expected to be on station Friday morning.

Sleep Six Hours

All the astronauts slept for about six hours today as they rested for the return home.

Before re-entering the atmosphere, the astronauts must discard the powerless service module and the lunar module which has been their lifeboard.

Then they must power up the command ship on its re-entry batteries for the blazing dive back to earth, the last act in the most perilous drama in the history of space flight.

A team of Mission Control specialists has been working around the clock to perfect the highly technical procedures for bringing the spacemen back from the brink of disaster.

Astronauts on the ground were to practice the procedures in simulators here this afternoon before instructions are relayed to Apollo 13.

Local Airman Receives Honor

K. I. SAWYER AFB — Sgt. Lester J. Cody, a native of Escanaba and a member of the 410th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, has been named Maintenance Man of the Month for March in the 410th Bomb Wing. He will now compete for the title among 40th Air Division maintenance men.

Sgt. Cody was cited for his performance as a member of the tanker launch team. "He has proven to be a prime example of the type of airman of which the monthly award is intended to recognize and reward," said Col. Joseph M. McHale, deputy commander for operations.

Sgt. Cody, a KC-135 crew chief, was lauded for his development of a "launch kit" which places all the equipment and tools used during the preflight inspection of each KC-135.

RENTING MACHINERY

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A few Madison County farmers are finding that leasing farm machinery is one way of controlling ones resources. Farmers have found that rapid changes in technology and the expanding farm business have created a need for new machines. This can cause a severe strain on the normal sources of investment capital.

Custom hiring to get the job done or renting the machine by the job or by the season can relieve a tight capital situation and keep capital free for other uses in the farm business.

we apply some power to the command module with the batteries. The whole command module looks good." he said.

The command ship was disabled Monday night by an oxygen tank rupture in the attached service module. The accident knocked out fuel cells which would have provided long-life power. Without the cells, the moon landing had to be canceled and the astronauts turned to the lunar module supplies to keep them alive and bring them home.

Lovell, Haise and Swigert continued to ration vital oxygen, water and power as they raced closer to earth. They had ample margins in all systems to complete the flight. But they knew a sudden loss of any system would imperil them in the final hours of their abortive journey.

At midmorning they were 140,000 miles from home and accelerating as earth's gravity tugged them on an increasing speed.

By the time Apollo 13 hits the atmosphere at 400,000 feet Friday, they'll be traveling 24,623 miles an hour.

The landing site in the Pacific is about 580 miles southeast of Samoa. The carrier Iwo Jima was steaming toward the area and expected to be on station Friday morning.

Sleep Six Hours

All the astronauts slept for about six hours today as they rested for the return home.

Before re-entering the atmosphere, the astronauts must discard the powerless service module and the lunar module which has been their lifeboard.

Then they must power up the command ship on its re-entry batteries for the blazing dive back to earth, the last act in the most perilous drama in the history of space flight.

A team of Mission Control specialists has been working around the clock to perfect the highly technical procedures for bringing the spacemen back from the brink of disaster.

Astronauts on the ground were to practice the procedures in simulators here this afternoon before instructions are relayed to Apollo 13.

Allocation Time

The annual battle of the budgets — more correctly known as Tax Allocation Board time — comes up this month and from all advance indications this year's struggle between Delta County and the school districts is going to be one of the more interesting.

In the past couple of years, the Allocation Board in Delta County has had a relatively easy time dividing up the county's 15-mill pie between the county, the schools, townships and the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School district. But things may be different this time around.

Unlike last year when Delta County carried a surplus, this year the county is projecting a deficit, a factor that is likely to liven up the auction. The school districts, spearheaded by the big Escanaba Area district, continually show a greater "need" than possibly can be allocated. But the more millage that can be allocated to the schools, the lower any special proposals to taxpayers can be.

And so the battle lines are drawn.

The Allocation Board, composed of the County Treasurer, the Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners' Finance Committee, the superintendent of the Intermediate School district, a representative of the largest city (Escanaba), a representative of the largest school district (Escanaba Area) and a member at large from the county appointed by the Probate Judge, is charged with dividing between the county, schools, townships and intermediate school district 15 mills, the Constitutional limit in Michigan.

Townships, if they can show need through budgetary statements, have a legal right of up to 1.0 mill. The Intermediate school district is allocated one tenth of a mill under statute for operational purposes. This leaves only 13.9 mills to divide between the school districts and the county.

Last year, the county received 5.2 mills and the school districts 8.7. To balance the 1971 county budget of $995,766, which includes picking up the projected deficit of over $80,000 from 1970, the county would require 6.88 mills. If granted by the Allocation Board in full, the school district allocation would be trimmed by 1.68 mills to 6.02 mills. It doesn't sound like much, but when 1.68 mills is levied on the total county tax base of $113,557,500 it means nearly $200,000 in revenue to somebody.

The problem facing the Allocation Board is that the total needs which will be displayed this year as in the past exceed the 15 mills available for allocation. But beyond this, the Board is faced with the uneviable task of determining the credibility of county and school district budgets which have shown a tendency to be inflated beyond the more realistic figures adopted later in the year. For example, in the area of capital improvements, the school board or county board might include in the budget a project or projects which are highly desirable, but in determining ultimate need the Allocation Board may have to ask whether such a project or projects are critically necessary to the successful operation of the governmental unit, or whether they might be delayed or pro-rated over several years.

The Allocation Board must also take a long look at the accuracy of revenue projections from other sources, a particularly difficult problem when dealing with school budgets because the State Legislature rarely gets around to passing a state aid measure by allocation time. It would be a whole lot easier for everyone if the Legislature would settle that problem before the Allocation Board has to act.

There is no easy solution to the problems of the Allocation Board in Delta County and in most other counties of the state aside from giving the boards a blank check on millage.

The county presently operates on a calendar year (Jan. 1 to Dec. 31) while school districts run on a fiscal year (July 1 to June 30). Taxes collected from December, 1970, billings, for example, will finance 1971 county operations and 1970-71 school operations. But it doesn't seem to be sound financial practice for the county to have to estimate expenses as far off as December, 1971, and for school districts to project expenses as far away as June, 1971, in April of 1970.

It might be more reasonable to change the financial calendars of both units three months, shifting both schools and county onto a Sept. 1-Aug. 30 setup. This would put both units on an even basis as far as inflationary considerations and with an extra three months before school districts start a new accounting period it might even allow Allocation Board dates to be pushed back until later in the year — perhaps late enough for the Legislature to act on a school aid bill.

Legally, of course, some changes would be needed and some provision would have to be made for the changeover period. But such a change appears largely to be a bookkeeping problem. And if county and school officials can budget now as far as 14 and 20 months in the future, it doesn't seem that it would be that difficult to handle.

The Houghton County Road Commission and its employes joined in observance of the commission's 60th anniversary at a dinner at which four long-time employes, with a total of 131 years' service, were honored. Oldest of the four, in point of service, was Adrian Beauchene, who began working for the commission in Calumet in 1927. He watched the Calumet facility grow from a one-stall rented garage to a station which houses equipment with a value of about three-quarters of a million dollars.

Another Stevenson Running For Senate

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The dynatsic idea in American politics has hard sledding.

Occasionally there has been a two-generation success: John Adams and his son, John Quincy, both made it to the White House, and there have been father and son La Follettes in the Senate and in the Wisconsin Governor's chair. Massachusetts has had its Lodges followed by a couple of Kennedys.

But other aspiring dynasts have had indifferent success. Teddy Roosevelt Jr. could never really emulate his father, and Franklin's sons, Jimmy, Franklin Jr., and Elliott, had to be satisfied with minor offices.

Now a new Stevenson, Adlai the Third, is aiming to become a Democratic U.S. Senator from Illinois.

Adlai the First was a Vice President, and Adlai the Second, a successful Governor, was twice nominated for the Presidency. The name of Stevenson is supposed to be something to conjure with in Illinois, and Adlai the Third's recognition value has him starting ahead of his Republican opponent, Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith, in the polls. This is despite the fact that Smith, a former Speaker of the Illinois House, who was Gov. Richard Ogilvie's appointee to succeed the late Everett Dirksen, has just won a primary by a wide margin and has the benefit of being the incumbent Senator.

Adlai III wants to be a dynast, but the American people don't necessarily take to the dynastic idea. Besides, if political ancestry counts for anything, Sen. Smith has a bit of dynastic blood of his own. His middle name comes from one of his ancestors, John Tyler, who happened to be the 10th President of the United States.

A few months ago the word went out in Washington that Sen. Smith was not the man to fill Ev Dirksen's shoes. The conservatives were dubious about him when he indicated that he wasn't going to support Richard Nixon's choice for the Supreme Court, Judge Clement Haynsworth.

There had been a scandal in the Illinois Supreme Court, and Smith was quoted as saying that he couldn't in good conscience vote for any judge who was tainted with even a suspicion of impropriety. But, when the crunch came, Smith did vote for Haynsworth. He said he had been misquoted in the first place. In the second court go-around Smith supported Carswell.

Still, the more adamant conservatives in Illinois were grudging about accepting Smith. In the Rockford region, a conservative stronghold, they held his connection with Gov. Ogilvie against him. Ogilvie had supported the state income tax, a hated measure in conservative circles.

Once again they had Smith wrong. When Sen. Gore of Tennessee introduced an amendment increasing individual tax exemptions from $600 to $800, Smith pointed out what he called its fraudulent nature. For the Gore amendment would have also cut deductions to the point where individuals in the lower middle brackets would actually be paying more taxes than before. The Gore amendment was defeated. Individual deductions were left intact, and the exemption was increased by $150 over the years. Smith has proved himself no enemy of the taxpayer.

★ ★ ★

Smith is optimistic about overtaking Adlai the Third for a number of cogent reasons. To begin with, the alliance between Adlai III and Mayor Dick Daley, the Democratic boss of Chicago, is a marriage of convenience, and, like all such marriages, it carries no enthusiasm with it.

It would be strange if Daley's men really got out the vote for young Adlai, who has never hidden his aversion to Cook County's brand of politics.

Then there is the curious fact that the Stevenson name has never really been a great vote-catcher in Illinois. Eisenhower beat Adali the Second by a 55 per cent vote in 1952 and a 59 per cent vote in 1956. Four years ago, Adlai the Third defeated Harris Rowe for the office of State Treasurer by a scant 50.5 per cent margin.

And this, so Smith's supporters point out, was when Rowe ran out of money toward the end of his campaign. Rowe actually carried 69 counties to Stevenson' 33.

It's a long time to November, plenty of time to give people a chance to meditate on the fate of dynasts in American politics. If a third Adlai can make it, he will be doing something that eluded a third Adams and a third Lodge.

We have yet to face third generation Kennedys and Roosevelts.

Stockholders' Meetings Not Like They Used To Be

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Annual meetings used to be pleasant affairs, both corporate officers and shareholders generally will agree, at least when the profits were satisfactory.

Attendance at the annual get-together was one of the rites of spring, like going to the opening baseball game or raking the lawn or cleaning out the cottage. Poor as they were, box lunches were consumed with gusto.

Companies that really wished to impress their shareholders held extravagant all-day affairs under enormous striped canopies that billowed like sails above the manicured lawn of the latest plant addition.

Routine business was rushed through before a bored audience of old timers. Nobody criticized.

About the worst the board of General Electric or General Motors had to face was the badgering of Wilma Soss or the Brothers Gilbert or other professional shareholders who made the circuit of annual meetings.

Annual meetings this year will not be picnics, for shareholders have become activists in behalf of causes that include peace, clean environment, women's rights, minority rights, stockholder rights, even leftist rights.

It may not be wise to turn off the mike.

War protestors have let it be known they intend to disrupt meetings of companies holding military contracts. Groups concerned with the environment plan to put profit-minded corporate officers on the spot, to test their sincerity.

Name any topic and you'll likely find a shareholder group organized to promote it. While the emphasis still may remain on profits and losses, discussion of social problems will rule many meetings this year.

And perhaps next year and for many years after. Corporate officers are aware that pressure groups have discovered that shares of stock are tickets to annual meetings. A trend is developing.

Seven individuals who call themselves The Project On Corporate Responsibility, Inc. purchased at least 12 shares of common stock early this year and managed to put up two proposals for voting by General Motors shareholders.

This and other groups have provoked GM into placing newspaper ads that pose questions such as "Does GM Care About Cleaner Air?" and which answer, "You bet we do!"

The Corporate Responsibility group's proposals, if passed, would create a committee to represent special interest groups and increase the size of the board of directors by three.

Purpose of the increased board, in the words of GM, would be to place "three representatives elected not on the basis of their interest in the success of General Motors but rather on the basis of their sympathy with the special interests of the sponsors."

Management opposes both measures, of course. It believes the purpose of the committee "is to harass the corporation and its management to promote the particular economic and social views" of the sponsors.

Times have changed . . . very suddenly.

Everyone periodically runs into the problem of the two-way finesse for a queen. It is therefore not amiss to examine the delicate situation encountered by South in this deal where all he has to do to insure the slam is guess the location of the queen of clubs.

West leads the ten of spades, won in dummy with the queen, and South commences his adventure by cashing three rounds of trumps and three more spade tricks.

Then comes the moment of truth when he must decide whether East or West is more likely to have the queen of clubs. If South takes a club finesse in the right direction, he is sure of making six, possibly seven, but if he finesses in the wrong direction, he is sure to go down, losing a club and a diamond.

There is no hard and fast guarantee, but South should definitely play West for the queen of clubs. In the course of cashing the first seven tricks he learns that West started with two hearts and two spades, and East with three hearts and four spades.

West therefore has nine unknown cards that may include the queen of clubs, while East has only six unknown cards that may include the queen.

It follows as a matter of probability that West is more likely to have the queen than East, and declarer should consequently adopt the percentage play of finessing through West.

At trick eight South should lead the ace of clubs, unblocking the ten from dummy, and then continue with the nine of clubs, letting it ride. When the nine wins, South repeats the finesse, and the outcome is that he winds up with all the tricks as a direct result of selecting the percentage play.

Departing Employe Raps Farewell Fete

Dear Ann Landers: Your column on gifts for departing employes hit me where I live. A few months ago I became completely disenchanted with my job. Personnel changes created three armed camps in our company. (In all fairness I must admit I was not blameless in the office unpleasantness.) When it became apparent I could no longer work effectively in such a hostile environment, I resigned.

Even though I was not on speaking terms with several colleagues, the office do-gooder took it upon herself to solicit money from EVERYONE for a going-away gift. The farewell party was in the worst possible taste and the costly gift an embarrassment. I tried to handle the situation with grace but it was a nightmare.

Most people who leave jobs would prefer to go quietly. The gift I received was intended to make me feel better. It only made me feel worse. It serves as a reminder that my fellow workers were glad to get rid of me.

Please pass the word, Ann — no farewell parties, please, unless the person is retiring or moving, with a heavy heart, to another city, for a beautiful promotion. — F. N.

Dear F. N.: Here's your letter. Consider the word passed.

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to "His Wife" concerning her non-reading husband who had been bluffing his way through life was kind — but not sufficiently helpful to live up to your usual high standards.

It is estimated that at least six per cent of the adults in this country are functional illieterates and in need of immediate rescue. Cincinnati has a group of 60 volunteer tutors who are trying to help some of our 30,000 adult non-readers. The program is on a one-to-one basis. It costs nothing except the price of a book. Ten hour courses for the tutors were given in various churches and at the Y.M.C.A.

One of my students is 45. He raised a family without knowing a single letter in the alphabet. Another student had his secretary phone the Y to find a tutor for him. The stories are beyond belief.

You should have advised "His Wife" to write to Director of U.S. Programs, Laubach Literacy, Inc. Box 131, Syracuse, N.Y. 13210. The Laubach system is presently at work in 36 states. The results have been phenomenal. Tell your readers, Ann. You could do a world of good. — Cincinnati Tutor

Dear Cin: Thanks for your letter. I was completely unaware of the number of non-readers who have been faking their way through life. My desk is loaded with letters from everywhere in praise of the Laubach system. (Washington and Oregon do a superb job.) Many sent workbooks as well.

Dozens of readers wrote about Adult Education classes which are also free. These classes are held both afternoon and evening in Canada as well as in the United States. Chattanooga has a splendid program. In Flint, Michigan, the Mott Adult Reading Center offers a tutored reading program for new Americans or anyone else who is interested.

Today there is no excuse for illiteracy. A phone call to the principal of any public school can open the doors to a whole new world.

The annual battle of the budgets — more correctly known as Tax Allocation Board time — comes up this month and from all advance indications this year's struggle between Delta County and the school districts is going to be one of the more interesting.

In the past couple of years, the Allocation Board in Delta County has had a relatively easy time dividing up the county's 15-mill pie between the county, the schools, townships and the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School district. But things may be different this time around.

Unlike last year when Delta County carried a surplus, this year the county is projecting a deficit, a factor that is likely to liven up the auction. The school districts, spearheaded by the big Escanaba Area district, continually show a greater "need" than possibly can be allocated. But the more millage that can be allocated to the schools, the lower any special proposals to taxpayers can be.

And so the battle lines are drawn.

The Allocation Board, composed of the County Treasurer, the Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners' Finance Committee, the superintendent of the Intermediate School district, a representative of the largest city (Escanaba), a representative of the largest school district (Escanaba Area) and a member at large from the county appointed by the Probate Judge, is charged with dividing between the county, schools, townships and intermediate school district 15 mills, the Constitutional limit in Michigan.

Townships, if they can show need through budgetary statements, have a legal right of up to 1.0 mill. The Intermediate school district is allocated one tenth of a mill under statute for operational purposes. This leaves only 13.9 mills to divide between the school districts and the county.

Last year, the county received 5.2 mills and the school districts 8.7. To balance the 1971 county budget of $995,766, which includes picking up the projected deficit of over $80,000 from 1970, the county would require 6.88 mills. If granted by the Allocation Board in full, the school district allocation would be trimmed by 1.68 mills to 6.02 mills. It doesn't sound like much, but when 1.68 mills is levied on the total county tax base of $113,557,500 it means nearly $200,000 in revenue to somebody.

The problem facing the Allocation Board is that the total needs which will be displayed this year as in the past exceed the 15 mills available for allocation. But beyond this, the Board is faced with the uneviable task of determining the credibility of county and school district budgets which have shown a tendency to be inflated beyond the more realistic figures adopted later in the year. For example, in the area of capital improvements, the school board or county board might include in the budget a project or projects which are highly desirable, but in determining ultimate need the Allocation Board may have to ask whether such a project or projects are critically necessary to the successful operation of the governmental unit, or whether they might be delayed or pro-rated over several years.

The Allocation Board must also take a long look at the accuracy of revenue projections from other sources, a particularly difficult problem when dealing with school budgets because the State Legislature rarely gets around to passing a state aid measure by allocation time. It would be a whole lot easier for everyone if the Legislature would settle that problem before the Allocation Board has to act.

There is no easy solution to the problems of the Allocation Board in Delta County and in most other counties of the state aside from giving the boards a blank check on millage.

The county presently operates on a calendar year (Jan. 1 to Dec. 31) while school districts run on a fiscal year (July 1 to June 30). Taxes collected from December, 1970, billings, for example, will finance 1971 county operations and 1970-71 school operations. But it doesn't seem to be sound financial practice for the county to have to estimate expenses as far off as December, 1971, and for school districts to project expenses as far away as June, 1971, in April of 1970.

It might be more reasonable to change the financial calendars of both units three months, shifting both schools and county onto a Sept. 1-Aug. 30 setup. This would put both units on an even basis as far as inflationary considerations and with an extra three months before school districts start a new accounting period it might even allow Allocation Board dates to be pushed back until later in the year — perhaps late enough for the Legislature to act on a school aid bill.

Legally, of course, some changes would be needed and some provision would have to be made for the changeover period. But such a change appears largely to be a bookkeeping problem. And if county and school officials can budget now as far as 14 and 20 months in the future, it doesn't seem that it would be that difficult to handle.

Another Stevenson Running For Senate

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The dynatsic idea in American politics has hard sledding.

Occasionally there has been a two-generation success: John Adams and his son, John Quincy, both made it to the White House, and there have been father and son La Follettes in the Senate and in the Wisconsin Governor's chair. Massachusetts has had its Lodges followed by a couple of Kennedys.

But other aspiring dynasts have had indifferent success. Teddy Roosevelt Jr. could never really emulate his father, and Franklin's sons, Jimmy, Franklin Jr., and Elliott, had to be satisfied with minor offices.

Now a new Stevenson, Adlai the Third, is aiming to become a Democratic U.S. Senator from Illinois.

Adlai the First was a Vice President, and Adlai the Second, a successful Governor, was twice nominated for the Presidency. The name of Stevenson is supposed to be something to conjure with in Illinois, and Adlai the Third's recognition value has him starting ahead of his Republican opponent, Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith, in the polls. This is despite the fact that Smith, a former Speaker of the Illinois House, who was Gov. Richard Ogilvie's appointee to succeed the late Everett Dirksen, has just won a primary by a wide margin and has the benefit of being the incumbent Senator.

Adlai III wants to be a dynast, but the American people don't necessarily take to the dynastic idea. Besides, if political ancestry counts for anything, Sen. Smith has a bit of dynastic blood of his own. His middle name comes from one of his ancestors, John Tyler, who happened to be the 10th President of the United States.

A few months ago the word went out in Washington that Sen. Smith was not the man to fill Ev Dirksen's shoes. The conservatives were dubious about him when he indicated that he wasn't going to support Richard Nixon's choice for the Supreme Court, Judge Clement Haynsworth.

There had been a scandal in the Illinois Supreme Court, and Smith was quoted as saying that he couldn't in good conscience vote for any judge who was tainted with even a suspicion of impropriety. But, when the crunch came, Smith did vote for Haynsworth. He said he had been misquoted in the first place. In the second court go-around Smith supported Carswell.

Still, the more adamant conservatives in Illinois were grudging about accepting Smith. In the Rockford region, a conservative stronghold, they held his connection with Gov. Ogilvie against him. Ogilvie had supported the state income tax, a hated measure in conservative circles.

Once again they had Smith wrong. When Sen. Gore of Tennessee introduced an amendment increasing individual tax exemptions from $600 to $800, Smith pointed out what he called its fraudulent nature. For the Gore amendment would have also cut deductions to the point where individuals in the lower middle brackets would actually be paying more taxes than before. The Gore amendment was defeated. Individual deductions were left intact, and the exemption was increased by $150 over the years. Smith has proved himself no enemy of the taxpayer.

★ ★ ★

Smith is optimistic about overtaking Adlai the Third for a number of cogent reasons. To begin with, the alliance between Adlai III and Mayor Dick Daley, the Democratic boss of Chicago, is a marriage of convenience, and, like all such marriages, it carries no enthusiasm with it.

It would be strange if Daley's men really got out the vote for young Adlai, who has never hidden his aversion to Cook County's brand of politics.

Then there is the curious fact that the Stevenson name has never really been a great vote-catcher in Illinois. Eisenhower beat Adali the Second by a 55 per cent vote in 1952 and a 59 per cent vote in 1956. Four years ago, Adlai the Third defeated Harris Rowe for the office of State Treasurer by a scant 50.5 per cent margin.

And this, so Smith's supporters point out, was when Rowe ran out of money toward the end of his campaign. Rowe actually carried 69 counties to Stevenson' 33.

It's a long time to November, plenty of time to give people a chance to meditate on the fate of dynasts in American politics. If a third Adlai can make it, he will be doing something that eluded a third Adams and a third Lodge.

We have yet to face third generation Kennedys and Roosevelts.

Stockholders' Meetings Not Like They Used To Be

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Annual meetings used to be pleasant affairs, both corporate officers and shareholders generally will agree, at least when the profits were satisfactory.

Attendance at the annual get-together was one of the rites of spring, like going to the opening baseball game or raking the lawn or cleaning out the cottage. Poor as they were, box lunches were consumed with gusto.

Companies that really wished to impress their shareholders held extravagant all-day affairs under enormous striped canopies that billowed like sails above the manicured lawn of the latest plant addition.

Routine business was rushed through before a bored audience of old timers. Nobody criticized.

About the worst the board of General Electric or General Motors had to face was the badgering of Wilma Soss or the Brothers Gilbert or other professional shareholders who made the circuit of annual meetings.

Annual meetings this year will not be picnics, for shareholders have become activists in behalf of causes that include peace, clean environment, women's rights, minority rights, stockholder rights, even leftist rights.

It may not be wise to turn off the mike.

War protestors have let it be known they intend to disrupt meetings of companies holding military contracts. Groups concerned with the environment plan to put profit-minded corporate officers on the spot, to test their sincerity.

Name any topic and you'll likely find a shareholder group organized to promote it. While the emphasis still may remain on profits and losses, discussion of social problems will rule many meetings this year.

And perhaps next year and for many years after. Corporate officers are aware that pressure groups have discovered that shares of stock are tickets to annual meetings. A trend is developing.

Seven individuals who call themselves The Project On Corporate Responsibility, Inc. purchased at least 12 shares of common stock early this year and managed to put up two proposals for voting by General Motors shareholders.

This and other groups have provoked GM into placing newspaper ads that pose questions such as "Does GM Care About Cleaner Air?" and which answer, "You bet we do!"

The Corporate Responsibility group's proposals, if passed, would create a committee to represent special interest groups and increase the size of the board of directors by three.

Purpose of the increased board, in the words of GM, would be to place "three representatives elected not on the basis of their interest in the success of General Motors but rather on the basis of their sympathy with the special interests of the sponsors."

Management opposes both measures, of course. It believes the purpose of the committee "is to harass the corporation and its management to promote the particular economic and social views" of the sponsors.

Times have changed . . . very suddenly.

Opening lead—ten of spades.

Everyone periodically runs into the problem of the two-way finesse for a queen. It is therefore not amiss to examine the delicate situation encountered by South in this deal where all he has to do to insure the slam is guess the location of the queen of clubs.

West leads the ten of spades, won in dummy with the queen, and South commences his adventure by cashing three rounds of trumps and three more spade tricks.

Then comes the moment of truth when he must decide whether East or West is more likely to have the queen of clubs. If South takes a club finesse in the right direction, he is sure of making six, possibly seven, but if he finesses in the wrong direction, he is sure to go down, losing a club and a diamond.

There is no hard and fast guarantee, but South should definitely play West for the queen of clubs. In the course of cashing the first seven tricks he learns that West started with two hearts and two spades, and East with three hearts and four spades.

West therefore has nine unknown cards that may include the queen of clubs, while East has only six unknown cards that may include the queen.

It follows as a matter of probability that West is more likely to have the queen than East, and declarer should consequently adopt the percentage play of finessing through West.

At trick eight South should lead the ace of clubs, unblocking the ten from dummy, and then continue with the nine of clubs, letting it ride. When the nine wins, South repeats the finesse, and the outcome is that he winds up with all the tricks as a direct result of selecting the percentage play.

Departing Employe Raps Farewell Fete

Dear Ann Landers: Your column on gifts for departing employes hit me where I live. A few months ago I became completely disenchanted with my job. Personnel changes created three armed camps in our company. (In all fairness I must admit I was not blameless in the office unpleasantness.) When it became apparent I could no longer work effectively in such a hostile environment, I resigned.

Even though I was not on speaking terms with several colleagues, the office do-gooder took it upon herself to solicit money from EVERYONE for a going-away gift. The farewell party was in the worst possible taste and the costly gift an embarrassment. I tried to handle the situation with grace but it was a nightmare.

Most people who leave jobs would prefer to go quietly. The gift I received was intended to make me feel better. It only made me feel worse. It serves as a reminder that my fellow workers were glad to get rid of me.

Please pass the word, Ann — no farewell parties, please, unless the person is retiring or moving, with a heavy heart, to another city, for a beautiful promotion. — F. N.

Dear F. N.: Here's your letter. Consider the word passed.

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to "His Wife" concerning her non-reading husband who had been bluffing his way through life was kind — but not sufficiently helpful to live up to your usual high standards.

It is estimated that at least six per cent of the adults in this country are functional illieterates and in need of immediate rescue. Cincinnati has a group of 60 volunteer tutors who are trying to help some of our 30,000 adult non-readers. The program is on a one-to-one basis. It costs nothing except the price of a book. Ten hour courses for the tutors were given in various churches and at the Y.M.C.A.

One of my students is 45. He raised a family without knowing a single letter in the alphabet. Another student had his secretary phone the Y to find a tutor for him. The stories are beyond belief.

You should have advised "His Wife" to write to Director of U.S. Programs, Laubach Literacy, Inc. Box 131, Syracuse, N.Y. 13210. The Laubach system is presently at work in 36 states. The results have been phenomenal. Tell your readers, Ann. You could do a world of good. — Cincinnati Tutor

Dear Cin: Thanks for your letter. I was completely unaware of the number of non-readers who have been faking their way through life. My desk is loaded with letters from everywhere in praise of the Laubach system. (Washington and Oregon do a superb job.) Many sent workbooks as well.

Dozens of readers wrote about Adult Education classes which are also free. These classes are held both afternoon and evening in Canada as well as in the United States. Chattanooga has a splendid program. In Flint, Michigan, the Mott Adult Reading Center offers a tutored reading program for new Americans or anyone else who is interested.

Today there is no excuse for illiteracy. A phone call to the principal of any public school can open the doors to a whole new world.

Wildlife Serves As 'Indicator' On Environment

By JOSEPH VOGT
District Game Biologist
Dept. of Natural Resources

Wild animals are indicators of environmental quality. As rats in the urban ghetto are evidence of blighted human living conditions, so is the presence of timber wolves an indication of wilderness, and brook trout a guarantee of cold, sweet water.

Sadly enough, our environment is becoming increasingly degraded with polluted air, fouled water and more crowded with mankind and the machines and constructions of his technology. Where once the proud bald eagle commonly coursed our airways, now we watch the starling and house sparrow. Where formerly leaped the trout, the carp and alewife now roil the muddy waters.

Man should pay heed to wildlife, as a warning of the dangers to his own existence.

Coal miners once carried canaries into the bowels of the earth as sentinels against deadly mine gasses. Because their sensitivity was much greater than man's, they served to warn him early of danger.

In this manner we are served by the disaster occurring in some of our bird populations. Many bald eagles, ospreys, peregrines and other fish or flesh-eating birds are suffering reproductive failures or death due to pesticide contamination of their foods. Robins, eating worms pulled from ground contaminated by DDT sprayed to control Dutch Elm disease, have developed tremors and died in great numbers.

Slowly we are beginning to comprehend the complex interdependencies of all life on this good earth. Along with the luxuries and comforts provided us by technology have come problems and dangers. Man has tried to subjugate nature only to find that he himself is a part of nature, dependent upon her as is all living matter.

With the new-found knowledge that he is merely a fragile link in the diverse structure of nature, although capable of infinite mischief, man perhaps will more carefully nurture this earth and its myriad other creatures.

PROVIDING ASSISTANCE in land use planning is one of the duties of Jack Kreiner, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. He is shown here preparing a conservation plan for a cooperating member of the Delta County Soil Conservation District. A total of 45 conservation plans and 26 special land use inventories and evaluations were completed for county landowners during 1969.

Wants Opinion On U-M Black Plan

LANSING (AP)— Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, says he will request an attorney general's opinion on moves at the University of Michigan to increase black enrollment to 10 per cent.

"I have poor, white college-age students living in my rural district who are as culturally and economically deprived as anyone else in this state," Swallow said Wednesday. "If blacks are entitled to a special quota, so are they, and one could extend this theory to include Mexican-Americans and many other deprived groups."

"The end result would be chaos and should obviously point out that the only possible theory is the application of academic standards without regard to race, color or creed."

Now Is The Time To Consider Conservation Improvements

Now is the time to be thinking about needed conservation practices including ponds, open ditches, tile drains, irrigation systems, grassed waterways and other structures reminds Jack Kreiner, District Conservationist, and Howard Wilson, Engineer, of the Soil Conservation Service.

Later this spring when the weather has mellowed persons who will assist in the layout and construction inspection of conservation practices will have many other demands upon their time, Kreiner said. Because of these demands, the time remaining for planning and design is necessarily reduced.

In a Soil Conservation District, the Soil Conservation Technician must budget his time.

Planning Necessary

Good planning involves both good timing and good designs. The quality of a pond, for example, is no better than the quality of the planning and design prior to the construction. A pond planned and installed correctly will provide many more benefits and less chance of failure than those installed without a design.

"Using the pond as an example, let's look at some of the individuals involved in the successful completion of the project," Kreiner and Wilson said.

First, the land owner. He must think of the amount of money he has available and is willing to use to finance the project. In many cases he will only have a limited amount. He must think of the timing of construction to make sure it fits in well with other demands upon his time. Certainly most land owners want to be able to be present on the job site while it is being installed.

The pipe fabricating company's operations must also be planned. They appreciate orders well in advance of the delivery date. Normally, it will take four to six weeks after an order is submitted before the plant can deliver principal spillway pipes for ponds.

File Requests Early

The conservation contractor must include the project in his usually well filled schedule of work. His success is built around good scheduling of the jobs he is to do. In many cases he may be able to do a job more economically if he does not have long travel distances between jobs. Also, he is more able to satisfy his customers by being there when he says he will come if agreements and plans have been completed well in advance.

County ASCS committees receive an annual allocation of money to help property owners establish conservation practices on a cost sharing basis. The land owner should file his request for assistance at the county ASCS office early. Time is needed for the County ASCS committee to approve or disapprove the request for cost sharing before the SCS does their planning work.

Investigation Needed

The Soil Conservation Service Technician must, on many jobs, make accurate site investigations and contour surveys and maps of the pond area. From these surveys the pond area is plotted to scale, contours are drawn and the water line, top of fill, emergency spillways, and pipe outlet elevations are laid out on the map to best fit the lay of the land.

The technician measures the size of the drainage area (watershed) that flows into the pond site, along with determining the type of soil and type of cover and hillyness of the land in the drainage area. These all affect the amount of flood waters that have to be planned for.

A preliminary design is then drawn up using U.S. Weather Bureau records for the proper rainfall frequencies typical of that area. The amounts and sizes of spillway pipes, fittings, toe drains, core trench locations, and cubic yards of fill necessary must be determined from these surveys. The estimated cost is also computed.

Costs Reviewed

The preliminary designs and estimated costs are then reviewed with the landowner. If he indicates a firm intent to procede with the project then a detailed plan is prepared showing all of the required elevations, quantities and materials. An extra sheet is provided for the pipe fabricator to construct the primary spillway pipes. The job is then ready for the contractor and layout crew to prepare for the actual construction.

There are many operations and many people involved, Kreiner pointed out. Cooperation between these people is important. Early planning helps to get the job started so that the construction is completed on schedule. It helps eliminate the possibility of having to have a constractor return to install the correct length of pipe, or make flatter side slopes on the pond banks to meet ASCS and safety specifications. Good planning makes for a better and more economical pond.

Where once the proud bald eagle commonly coursed our airways, now we watch the starling and house sparrow. Where formerly leaped the trout, the carp and alewife now roil the muddy waters.

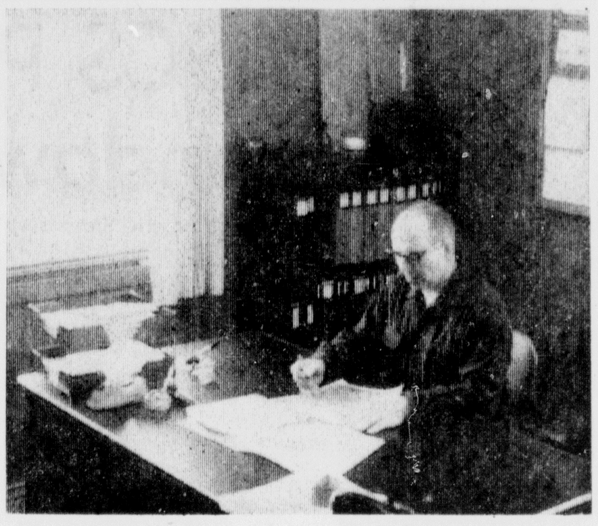
Man should pay heed to wildlife, as a warning of the dangers to his own existence.

Coal miners once carried canaries into the bowels of the earth as sentinels against deadly mine gasses. Because their sensitivity was much greater than man's, they served to warn him early of danger.

In this manner we are served by the disaster occurring in some of our bird populations. Many bald eagles, ospreys, peregrines and other fish or flesh-eating birds are suffering reproductive failures or death due to pesticide contamination of their foods. Robins, eating worms pulled from ground contaminated by DDT sprayed to control Dutch Elm disease, have developed tremors and died in great numbers.

Slowly we are beginning to comprehend the complex interdependencies of all life on this good earth. Along with the luxuries and comforts provided us by technology have come problems and dangers. Man has tried to subjugate nature only to find that he himself is a part of nature, dependent upon her as is all living matter.

With the new-found knowledge that he is merely a fragile link in the diverse structure of nature, although capable of infinite mischief, man perhaps will more carefully nurture this earth and its myriad other creatures.



PROVIDING ASSISTANCE in land use planning is one of the duties of Jack Kreiner, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. He is shown here preparing a conservation plan for a cooperating member of the Delta County Soil Conservation District. A total of 45 conservation plans and 26 special land use inventories and evaluations were completed for county landowners during 1969.

Wants Opinion On U-M Black Plan

LANSING (AP)— Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, says he will request an attorney general's opinion on moves at the University of Michigan to increase black enrollment to 10 per cent.

"I have poor, white college-age students living in my rural district who are as culturally and economically deprived as anyone else in this state," Swallow said Wednesday. "If blacks are entitled to a special quota, so are they, and one could extend this theory to include Mexican-Americans and many other deprived groups."

"The end result would be chaos and should obviously point out that the only possible theory is the application of academic standards without regard to race, color or creed."

Now Is The Time To Consider Conservation Improvements

Now is the time to be thinking about needed conservation practices including ponds, open ditches, tile drains, irrigation systems, grassed waterways and other structures reminds Jack Kreiner, District Conservationist, and Howard Wilson, Engineer, of the Soil Conservation Service.

Later this spring when the weather has mellowed persons who will assist in the layout and construction inspection of conservation practices will have many other demands upon their time, Kreiner said. Because of these demands, the time remaining for planning and design is necessarily reduced.

In a Soil Conservation District, the Soil Conservation Technician must budget his time.

Planning Necessary

Good planning involves both good timing and good designs. The quality of a pond, for example, is no better than the quality of the planning and design prior to the construction. A pond planned and installed correctly will provide many more benefits and less chance of failure than those installed without a design.

"Using the pond as an example, let's look at some of the individuals involved in the successful completion of the project," Kreiner and Wilson said.

First, the land owner. He must think of the amount of money he has available and is willing to use to finance the project. In many cases he will only have a limited amount. He must think of the timing of construction to make sure it fits in well with other demands upon his time. Certainly most land owners want to be able to be present on the job site while it is being installed.

The pipe fabricating company's operations must also be planned. They appreciate orders well in advance of the delivery date. Normally, it will take four to six weeks after an order is submitted before the plant can deliver principal spillway pipes for ponds.

File Requests Early

The conservation contractor must include the project in his usually well filled schedule of work. His success is built around good scheduling of the jobs he is to do. In many cases he may be able to do a job more economically if he does not have long travel distances between jobs. Also, he is more able to satisfy his customers by being there when he says he will come if agreements and plans have been completed well in advance.

County ASCS committees receive an annual allocation of money to help property owners establish conservation practices on a cost sharing basis. The land owner should file his request for assistance at the county ASCS office early. Time is needed for the County ASCS committee to approve or disapprove the request for cost sharing before the SCS does their planning work.

Investigation Needed

The Soil Conservation Service Technician must, on many jobs, make accurate site investigations and contour surveys and maps of the pond area. From these surveys the pond area is plotted to scale, contours are drawn and the water line, top of fill, emergency spillways, and pipe outlet elevations are laid out on the map to best fit the lay of the land.

The technician measures the size of the drainage area (watershed) that flows into the pond site, along with determining the type of soil and type of cover and hillyness of the land in the drainage area. These all affect the amount of flood waters that have to be planned for.

A preliminary design is then drawn up using U.S. Weather Bureau records for the proper rainfall frequencies typical of that area. The amounts and sizes of spillway pipes, fittings, toe drains, core trench locations, and cubic yards of fill necessary must be determined from these surveys. The estimated cost is also computed.

Costs Reviewed

The preliminary designs and estimated costs are then reviewed with the landowner. If he indicates a firm intent to procede with the project then a detailed plan is prepared showing all of the required elevations, quantities and materials. An extra sheet is provided for the pipe fabricator to construct the primary spillway pipes. The job is then ready for the contractor and layout crew to prepare for the actual construction.

There are many operations and many people involved, Kreiner pointed out. Cooperation between these people is important. Early planning helps to get the job started so that the construction is completed on schedule. It helps eliminate the possibility of having to have a constractor return to install the correct length of pipe, or make flatter side slopes on the pond banks to meet ASCS and safety specifications. Good planning makes for a better and more economical pond.

There are 14,000 ship passages through the Sault Ste. Marie locks during an average eight month shipping season. The locks raise ships 21 feet from the level of Lake Huron to Lake Superior. Viewing stands enable visitors to practically touch the ships as they lock through.

Guard the Future of Our Land and Water!

Good conservation techniques work like a watchdog in the fields, guarding against erosion . . . and in our rivers and lakes, guarding against pollution . . . a natural enemy. Both problems have been on the increase, and threaten your personal prosperity and your growth. Conserve, maintain, improve our lands and waters today with conservation for a prosperous tomorrow!

Six Directors Of First Board To Be Honored

In commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Delta County Soil Conservation District, the Board of Directors will honor the first six men elected to the Board in those beginning years of 1950 and 1951 who still live and own land in Delta County.

A personalized membership sign will be presented to each in appreciation of their services to the District during those difficult early years. Those to be honored are:

Edwin Bergman, of Bark River. He was elected to the first Board of Directors in 1950 and served continuously for the next nine years. He was chairman of the Board for eight of those years. He operates a dairy farm and has had a conservation plan for his land in effect since 1955.

Robert Watchorn, of Fayette. He was elected to membership on the first Board in 1950 and served through 1957. He has owned several farms and currently has conservation plans on all of the lands he owns. In 1956 he donated 10 acres of his land near Fayette State Park to the Delta County Soil Conservation District which the District still owns. It has been used as an outdoor classroom for students and 4-H Clubs.

Harold Gustafson, Supervisor of Ensign Township, was elected to the first Board in 1950 and served for one term. He owns 120 acres of land at Ensign.

Clayton Ford, of Cornell, was elected to membership on the first Board in 1950 and was treasurer through 1957. He operates a 480-acre dairy farm and has had conservation plans in effect on his lands since 1958.

Elmer Lepisto, of Rock, was lected to the first Board in 1950 and served for one term and then was elected again to the Board in 1958 and has served continuously since then to the present time. He is presently vice-chairman of our Board. He operates a 480 acre beef farm and has had conservation plans for his lands since 1958.

Anthony Purzol, of Stonington, was elected to the Board of Directors in 1951 and served for one term of office. He operated a large farm in those days but has since discontinued farming operations. He now owns 40 acres on which he has had a conservation plan since 1962.

ASCS Programs Serve Landowners Of County

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) is under the direction of a county committee composed of three farmers. The committee is responsible for program administration and policy determinations. The ASCS is headed by a county executive director who is responsible to the county committee.

The Agricultural Conservation program is one of the programs administered by the ASCS. ACP is the oldest of the farm programs presently in effect and annually works with and provides cost shares with eligible land owners in the county to carry out needed conservation practices on their farms.

ACP is America's best pollution-control program. Cost-share funds have contributed to abating pollution of streams, rivers, and lakes. The program has helped keep the soil where it can feed future generations and greatly reduced pollution of the Nation's waterways. This has benefited wildlife, increasing hunting, fishing and other recreational opportunities for all the people.

Major Change

One of the major changes for 1970 is the authorization to cost share the carrying out of two pollution - abatement practices. The first practice, reducing pollution of water by farm wastes, applies to barnyards, feed lots, milkrooms and other areas from which run-off constitutes an actual or potential pollution hazard. The other practice, controlling sedimentation, applies to critical areas on farms adjacent to streams, ponds and lakes, which are subject to erosion and which constitute a significant pollution hazard.

Land-owners participating in ACP received assistance ranging from 30 to 80 per cent of the cost of needed conservation practices. Included are practices for establishing and improving vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, or trees for soil protection, installing erosion control structures and practices for the conservation and more efficient use of water. Also included are practices especially beneficial to wildlife.

Assistance Required

The majority of the practices require technical assistance as well as financial assistance. In many cases the technical assistance is of a far greater value and importance to the completion of these conservation measures than the cost-shares paid to the land owners.

For example, the installation of tile drains, open ditches or erosion control structures requires the assistance of technical people. This service is provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

Forestry planting and forestry improvement require the assistance of trained foresters. These men are trained technicians and are provided by the Department of Natural Resources, Forestry Division, for the protection and propagation of our forests.

If the private landowner had to pay the going rate for trained technicians, the conservation and protection of our natural resources would be sadly neglected.

Stability Is Goal

The Feed Grain and Wheat programs are also administered by ASCS. The purpose of these programs is to stabilize production by reducing acreages. By diverting land to other uses, this reduces government costs by not having to store vast quantities of surplus grains; thus agricultural production is stabilized to meet our National needs and our export commitments, and have a reasonable, safe surplus on hand.

Participants in the cropland adjustment program receive payment for diverting eligible cropland to protective conservation use under long-term agreements. Additional payments are made to participants who agree to permit free access for fishing, hunting, hiking and trapping.

The wool incentive payment program, also administered by ASCS, is an incentive program to incerase production. The payments are set so as to bring the national average price received by producers for their wool up to a national average incentive price.

Another responsibility of ASCS is the defense readiness program. U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies have undertaken defense preparedness as a part of their regular and continuing activities. The program is designed to maintain continuity of the supply of food and agricultural products and to protect agricultural resources in a wartime emergency.

OCTAVE CARIGNAN of Cornell, right, and Roland Peterson of Escanaba, soil conservation service technician, inspect a stand of trees at Carignan's farm. The trees were planted as part of an overall soil conservation program at the farm for which Carignan will be honored as "Outstanding Conservationist for 1969" at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation District Friday.

Carignan Will Receive Conservationist Award

Octave Carignan of Cornell will be awarded a plaque as Delta County's Outstanding Conservationist for 1969 at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation District Friday at 8:00 p.m. at the Perkins Legion Hall.

The award will be presented by Elmer Lepisto of Rock, last year's award winner and a member of the Board of Directors.

Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) will be the main speaker at the meeting.

Carignan has been a cooperating member of the Delta County Soil Conservation District since 1952. He operates 660 acres of farmland that includes 177 acres of cropland, 75 acres of hay and pasture-land, and 375 acres of forested lands. He raises beef cattle and potatoes for a cash crop.

He has conservation plans on all of these lands and has done an excellent job adjusting the use of these lands to the capabilities of the soils. Some of the practices he has installed to make sure lands are not abused include:

- The planting of trees on 35 acres of rolling sand not suited to more intensive uses;
- Installing a contour strip cropping system on 37 acres of rolling but otherwise fertile cropland;
- Installing over 2,000 feet of grassed waterways to prevent erosion and gullies from forming on croplands. He has also constructed 500 feet of deep ditches to drain low lying croplands;
- He limits the use of 75 acres of marginal cropland to the production of hay and pasture crops only to protect the soils from harm;
- He uses improved woodland management practices on all 375 acres of forest land;
- He manages all forest lands and odd areas for the maximum benefit of wildlife. This includes the protection and preservation of beaver ponds and dams to provide improved habitat for aquatic wildlife;
- He has reserved some waterfront areas on the Escanaba river for recreational developments.
- He has and is clearing snowmobiling trails through woodlands to improve the recreational benefits from these lands.

Carignan has not stopped planning and making improvements on his lands. He has plans to construct a combination wildlife and livestock watering pond and also plans to plant a homestead and feedlot windbreak soon.

Besides setting an example of good land use on his farm Octave has also been a leader in the Delta County Soil Conservation District. He served on the Board of Directors for eight years from 1958 through 1965.

In appreciation of his continued dedication to intelligent land use and to his leadership in District activities the Board of Directors honors him as the Outstanding Conservationist for 1969.

Preserve Property, Landowners Urged

This is the time of the year when people are eager to start working out of doors, and this is particularly true if they have a cottage by the lake or river.

Owners of waterfront property can preserve the value of their property by taking proper steps to maintain the quality of the water to which their property is contiguous.

The most important step, of course, is to keep nutrients from entering the lake or stream. The nutrients for the most part come from improperly installed septic tanks.

Nutrients are food for plants. Some plant growth is desirable for fish cover but if plant growth is not controlled it will eventually fill a lake or slow down the flow in a stream. Growing plants give off oxygen during the day, but use up oxygen during the night. This process causes great fluctuations of dissolved oxygen in the water.

Some fish, especially trout, cannot tolerate these fluctuations. Nutrients causing the most problems are phosphates and nitrates. Both of these nutrients come as effluent from septic tank systems and soil erosion.

If lake and stream banks are planted to trees and shrubs and disposal field tile of septic tanks are kept away from the water's edge the water should remain at the same quality for an indefinite period of time.

If planning a water supply for a cottage, always put the well up a slope from any septic tank and disposal field. The reason is obvious. Your chances of pollution to the well is greatly reduced.

When planning for an adequate water supply at a cottage site, seek advice before starting to spend money. If inside plumbing is planned, the septic tank and tile field should also be planned.

Proper planning can save money and headaches later. It will also prevent pollution.

LANSING (AP) — George M. Foster Jr. of Lansing, an insurance executive and son of a former highway commissioner for Michigan and Indiana, has been named president of the Michigan Good Roads Federation. Foster succeeds James R. Vivian Sr. of Houghton as head of the federation, which, since 1938 has served as the principal state organization uniting road builders and users.

Pond Safety Is Essential

All ponds, lakes and rivers are potentially dangerous, especially to children.

But many accidental drownings could be prevented if the necessary precautions are taken. Installing water safety stations at ponds and dangerous river and lake frontage is one precaution that may well save lives.

Information on safety stations can be obtained at the Soil Conservation Service office at 2013 1st Ave. N., Escanaba. Ask for Farm Pond Safety Job Sheet 309 and PA-396, "Make Your Farm Pond Safe." These documents explain in detail the proper method of installing a treated fence post with a warning sign, 10 foot pole, life ring buoy, weather proof rope, and the brackets and bolts that are needed to properly equip a rescue station.

The Delta County Soil Conservation District is also aiding landowners to install safety stations by offering for sale pond safety signs that help meet the requirements of a safety station.

These can also be obtained at 2013 1st Ave. N. They will be on display at the Annual Meeting of the Soil Conservation District at Perkins Friday and may be purchased or ordered at that time.

Having a pond or dangerous water area on your land means additional responsibility. Posting the pond against trespassers does not necessarily relieve the owner of this responsibility. Each owner has a moral obligation to his family, friends and neighbors to make his water areas as free from dangers as possible by providing safety stations and other safeguards to help prevent accidental drownings.

Nearly three-quarters of the nation's agricultural graduates now come from cities, according to New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand.

OCTAVE CARIGNAN of Cornell, right, and Roland Peterson of Escanaba, soil conservation service technician, inspect a stand of trees at Carignan's farm. Yugoslavia's Socialism Working Well; Russ Irked

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Yugoslavia never had it so good economically. For that reason as much as any other, it is fearful. The Russians are annoyed.

From the look of things, Moscow and its bloc allies are neck-deep in intrigue aimed at toppling Yugoslavia's system of socialism. Moscow says it isn't socialism at all. For the Kremlin there is only one socialism—Soviet.

Work Against Each Other

Two brands of Yugoslav Communists are working one against the other—the go-go boys of the new era and the die-hard conservatives, many of whom now seem to yearn for the uncomplicated old days of Stalin's domination. The conservatives may be getting ready for a power struggle with Soviet help, perhaps after Tito dies. Should they succeed, the drastic change in the stratetic picture will shake Europe.

Tito turns 78 next month. His strong personality accomplished almost a miracle in Yugoslavia. The country is a federation of six "Socialist republics" with a variety of creeds and nationalities. It has a Balkan history of feuds, fragmentation, foreign domination and wars. Tito has kept it together for a quarter century and at the same time stayed out of the embrace of the Russian bear.

Popovic No. 2 Man

In the normal course of events, if Tito should die, the presidency would be assumed under the constitution by Col. Gen. Koca Popovic, 62, the former foreign minister who is now vice president. He would hold it until elections, and would then be in a strong position to stay. He is a tough, long-time confidant of Tito who doesn't care for the Russians.

But there could be a good deal of trouble, perhaps even before Tito passes from the scene.

The Yugoslav League of Communists, as the ruling party calls itself, obviously is worried by pressure from external sources at a time when internal political difficulties could generate the sort of confusion in which the Russians like to operate.

Leading party newspapers speak frequently these days of the "Cominformists," who include those never reconciled to the economic reforms and the political system which encourage workers' self-management and incentives.

The name refers to the Cominform—the now defunct Communist Information Bureau organized by Moscow under Stalin in 1947 to insure bloc obedience. The Cominform pronounced Tito a heretic for talking back to Stalin and read him out of the family. The term "Cominformist" today does not necessarily refer to veterans of 1948 as such, but to a state of mind.

Outside Yugoslavia the Cominformists are the present Moscow rulers and some men in other bloc parties. Inside Yugoslavia they include many in the party, government and army bureaucracies who fear the economic reforms which permitted Yugoslavs to enjoy markedly better living standards than their Communist-dominated neighbors. The Yugoslav press says often that Moscow is afraid of the influence of the Yugoslav system on other countries.

Encouraged By Criticisms

The party newspaper Politka, commenting early this year, claimed the Cominformists within were encouraged by criticisms of the regime "from the East."

The worries are compounded by an internal political situation generated by pressure from below for less centralization of authority. Croatia's Communists, for example, demand more autonomy.

The party has been losing members from expulsion or resignation at the rate of 23,000 a year for four years, largely because of apathy. Most losses are from ranks of workers and youth. Party membership remains stable at about 1,150,000 with new admissions, but the leaders are displeased with the caliber.

Obedience To Moscow?

What seems to anger Belgrade most about the Russians is that support of the Cominformists is accompanied by Muscovite insistence that every "Socialist" country owes unquestioning obedience to Moscow. Czechoslovakia in 1968 was an example to those who deviated.

As if suggesting that Yugoslavia was subjected to the threat of military pressure, the press commented angrily on recent military maneuvers in the western part of the U.S.S.R. The Yugoslavs said these were "motivated by bloc policy" and were along a "strategic operational route in central Europe."

The official Belgrade press displayed much anger at a West German newspaper report of a military coup in the making in Yugoslavia. Belgrade's press suggested that such stories were planted by outside enemies.

It all added up to considerable sensitiveness in Belgrade, whose suspicions of planted rumors, aimed at keeping politics churned up and politicians off balance, might be well founded.

Tito turns 78 next month. His strong personality accomplished almost a miracle in Yugoslavia. The country is a federation of six "Socialist republics" with a variety of creeds and nationalities. It has a Balkan history of feuds, fragmentation, foreign domination and wars. Tito has kept it together for a quarter century and at the same time stayed out of the embrace of the Russian bear.

Popovic No. 2 Man

In the normal course of events, if Tito should die, the presidency would be assumed under the constitution by Col. Gen. Koca Popovic, 62, the former foreign minister who is now vice president. He would hold it until elections, and would then be in a strong position to stay. He is a tough, long-time confidant of Tito who doesn't care for the Russians.

But there could be a good deal of trouble, perhaps even before Tito passes from the scene.

The Yugoslav League of Communists, as the ruling party calls itself, obviously is worried by pressure from external sources at a time when internal political difficulties could generate the sort of confusion in which the Russians like to operate.

Leading party newspapers speak frequently these days of the "Cominformists," who include those never reconciled to the economic reforms and the political system which encourage workers' self-management and incentives.

The name refers to the Cominform—the now defunct Communist Information Bureau organized by Moscow under Stalin in 1947 to insure bloc obedience. The Cominform pronounced Tito a heretic for talking back to Stalin and read him out of the family. The term "Cominformist" today does not necessarily refer to veterans of 1948 as such, but to a state of mind.

Outside Yugoslavia the Cominformists are the present Moscow rulers and some men in other bloc parties. Inside Yugoslavia they include many in the party, government and army bureaucracies who fear the economic reforms which permitted Yugoslavs to enjoy markedly better living standards than their Communist-dominated neighbors. The Yugoslav press says often that Moscow is afraid of the influence of the Yugoslav system on other countries.

Encouraged By Criticisms

The party newspaper Politka, commenting early this year, claimed the Cominformists within were encouraged by criticisms of the regime "from the East."

The worries are compounded by an internal political situation generated by pressure from below for less centralization of authority. Croatia's Communists, for example, demand more autonomy.

The party has been losing members from expulsion or resignation at the rate of 23,000 a year for four years, largely because of apathy. Most losses are from ranks of workers and youth. Party membership remains stable at about 1,150,000 with new admissions, but the leaders are displeased with the caliber.

Obedience To Moscow?

What seems to anger Belgrade most about the Russians is that support of the Cominformists is accompanied by Muscovite insistence that every "Socialist" country owes unquestioning obedience to Moscow. Czechoslovakia in 1968 was an example to those who deviated.

As if suggesting that Yugoslavia was subjected to the threat of military pressure, the press commented angrily on recent military maneuvers in the western part of the U.S.S.R. The Yugoslavs said these were "motivated by bloc policy" and were along a "strategic operational route in central Europe."

The official Belgrade press displayed much anger at a West German newspaper report of a military coup in the making in Yugoslavia. Belgrade's press suggested that such stories were planted by outside enemies.

It all added up to considerable sensitiveness in Belgrade, whose suspicions of planted rumors, aimed at keeping politics churned up and politicians off balance, might be well founded.

NMU To Appoint Citizens Panel On Broadcasting

MARQUETTE — Northern Michigan University President John X. Jamrich is presently seeking out community leaders from throughout the Upper Peninsula to serve on a Broadcast Advisory Board for the university's WNMR television and radio outlets.

The decision to establish this Board was based on the President's desire to "realize the university's aspiration to establish an educational television broadcasting station for the benefit of the Upper Peninsula."

The Board will be composed of approximately 15 members.

In general, the role of the Broadcast Advisory Board will be to assist station management and the university administration in developing public broadcasting in the U.P., so that it may best serve the needs and desires of the citizens of the area.

Hobby Fair Set For Saturday

The annual Hobby Fair sponsored by the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce will be held at the James T. Jones School Saturday from 3 to 9 p. m. Many new and different items have been added to this year's show under the chairmanship of Thomas Elegeert.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Thomas Elegeert, Mrs. Milburn Nolan and Mrs. Ray Norberg. They are pleased with the response to the project and wish to encourage, not only Gladstone residents but, all Delta County residents, to participate by either entering their hobby or attending the community affair.

Registration blanks should be turned in to Mrs. Elegeert at her home, 709 Michigan Ave. as soon as possible. They may be obtained at Dehlin's Drug Store, Tang's Color Headquarters, Ben Franklin Store, Joe Butch's Hardware or Vere's Variety Store.

Several unusual displays have already been registered, including Fred Schram's collection of driftwood birds; Robert Hartman's model ship encased in glass; Bobby Hartman's collection of war relics and medals, and Walter McClintock's display of Early American pressed glass. Other items include knitting, crocheting, painting, leathercraft and many others.

Something new has also been added to the Fair. Live demonstrations of jewelry making by Mrs. Ruth Nobel, Rapid River; 10 year old Kathy Dooman will create her unusual stationary by using wild flowers and leaves; Carol View, a Rapid River student will be making colorful flowers from wool fibers, and Mrs. Robert Bricker will show her skill in cake decorating.

Exhibitors are asked to bring their displays to the school between 9 a. m. and noon Saturday and to bring whatever special equipment they may need to display their hobbies to the best advantage. However, tables will be available for simple displays.

Judging by Mrs. Mel Carlson, Mrs. Robert Stack and Mrs. Ron Watson will take place between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. and ribbons for first and second place as well as honorable mention will be awarded at that time.

All displays will be welcome with the exception of live animals and children under the age of 14 will not be admitted unless accompanied by parents or an adult, officials in charge said.

The Foreign Study Group at Gladstone High School will sell coffee and doughnuts in the multipurpose room during the afternoon and evening hours.

Bicycle Safety Check Planned

Two bicycles will be awarded at the Bicycle Rodeo to be held at the All Saints School Saturday, April 25, from 1 to 4 p. m. The Rodeo is being sponsored by the Gladstone PTA and the All Saints Home and School Association.

All children in the first grade and above are eligible to participate in the rodeo and safety check. It is not necessary for the youngsters to own a bicycle but all youngsters must pass the safety test in order to be eligible to win one of the many prizes which will be awarded.

Mrs. Samuel Hoyt is general chairman of the event and representatives of the following organizations will be assisting with the work: Rotary and Lions Clubs, Girl and Boy Scouts, Gladstone 4-H Club, VFW, Minnewasca Chapter of the Eastern Star, DeMolay and Jobs Daughters.

Minor repairs will be made to the bicycles after the inspection and members of the VFW will apply reflector tape to the bikes.

Anyone wishing to donate prizes for the Rodeo, or money to purchase prizes, may contact Mrs. Hoyt.

300 Firemen Fight Big Detroit Fire

DETROIT (AP) — More than 300 firemen and all available equipment were used Wednesday to fight a spectacular blaze in a downtown Detroit building.

The fire, which began in a grease shaft in a restaurant kitchen, burned for hours and caused heavy damage to the six-story Golden Building. Several stores, the restaurant and a bar were destroyed.

Three firemen suffered smoke inhalation; two were treated at Detroit General Hospital and released and the third was held for observation. There were no civilian injuries.

Acting Fire Chief Lester Emery said the fire was five-alarms plus. Detroit only allows five alarms, but after the fifth alarm was sounded, additional men, equipment and cadets from the Fire Academy were were called in.

The fire, which was still burning fiercely when an antiwar rally began in Kennedy Square nearby, combined with the rally to reduce rush hour downtown traffic to a creeping pace.

War Casualty

WASHINGTON (AP) — One Michigan soldier was among 19 U.S. servicemen killed recently in Vietnam, the Defense Department said Wednesday.

Killed was Spec. 4 Phillip A. Harris, son of Mrs. Eleanor Harris of Detroit.

Library Week Plans Readied

Every week is Library Week at the Gladstone Library, but this special week gives national recognition to the role of the library in the school and community.

The theme: Reading is for Everybody, is demonstrated in our own library with its broad variety of subjects and its allowances for reading levels from the picture books for pre-schoolers to the most advanced technical and professional books.

Library Week also points out that libraries have materials for looking and listening also. Records and tapes are available.

Mrs. Doreen Anderson, librarian, reports the circulation of all library materials has increased over last year by more than 4,000 items during the period from June 1, 1969 to March 31, 1970. Most of this increase is in the adult and Audio visual materials according to Mrs. Anderson.

Inflation Changes Our Sense Of Value

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The Martini is probably the leading cause of unemployment among executives over 40.

If a fellow never does anything, he never has to apologize for what he did.

People who like to chew chocolate caramels usually owe money to their dentists.

It is less nerve-racking to submit to a mugging than it is to sit through lunch with a guy who has the habit of drumming on the table with his fingers.

The two kinds of hobbyists I'd hate most to spend an evening listening to are weightlifters and sky divers.

Inflation inevitably changes our sense of values. The odds are 3 to 1 that if you drop a penny on the sidewalk the person behind you won't stoop and retrieve it—that is, unless you happen to be a pretty girl. In that case the odds are about even.

The height of sophistication is the ability to yawn in the boss's face while being given a merit raise.

In giving a child a name, the wise parent should think first not of how cute it sounds now but how it will look 70 years later on a tombstone.

A man is judged by what he has in his head, a woman by what she keeps in her refrigerator.

Nothing makes a fellow feel more greedy than inheriting money. He hates to pay tax on it even more than if he had earned it himself.

Here's another difference between men and women. A man will usually look up in the telephone directory a number he can't remember. A woman will simply dial the operator and get her to look it up.

Whenever I overhear a man in a restaurant order a breaded veal cutlet for dinner, I figure he has a pretty sodden imagination.

One of the major disappointments of our civilization is that the harder it is to open a package you get the less likely it has in it anything worth keeping.

Whenever you meet a man who pays $100 for a pair of shoes, you can be certain of one thing about him: sooner or later he will tell you about it.

Among the girls in the office typist pool, the one with the longest fingernails usually turns out the fewest letters.

The biggest problem of housewives today is how to use profitably the time they must spend waiting for a frozen steak to thaw out on the drainboard.

A father wouldn't mind so much how his son's flapping locks make him look if the lad would simply pay his own way through college with the haircut money he saves.

If during a single day all of us carried out our daydreams and fantasies, nobody in the nation would be alive by nightfall.

No Indictment

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—A Tazewell County, Ill., grand jury has declined to indict Delmar Nagle, 17, of Creve Coeur, Ill., in the shooting death of another soldier Glen Kapulos, 18, of Albion, Mich., State's Atty. Bernard Oltsman reported Tuesday.

Kapulos was shot March 16 in Nagle's home while the two Vietnam veterans, who were absent without leave from Ft. Collins, Colo., were handling a pistol.

In one hour a modern combine can harvest enough wheat to bake 20,000 loaves of bread, according to New Holland Division of Sperry Rand engineers.

Hobby Fair Set For Saturday

The annual Hobby Fair sponsored by the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce will be held at the James T. Jones School Saturday from 3 to 9 p. m. Many new and different items have been added to this year's show under the chairmanship of Thomas Elegeert.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Thomas Elegeert, Mrs. Milburn Nolan and Mrs. Ray Norberg. They are pleased with the response to the project and wish to encourage, not only Gladstone residents but, all Delta County residents, to participate by either entering their hobby or attending the community affair.

Registration blanks should be turned in to Mrs. Elegeert at her home, 709 Michigan Ave. as soon as possible. They may be obtained at Dehlin's Drug Store, Tang's Color Headquarters, Ben Franklin Store, Joe Butch's Hardware or Vera's Variety Store.

Several unusual displays have already been registered, including Fred Schram's collection of driftwood birds; Robert Hartman's model ship encased in glass; Bobby Hartman's collection of war relics and medals, and Walter McClintock's display of Early American pressed glass. Other items include knitting, crocheting, painting, leathercraft and many others.

Something new has also been added to the Fair. Live demonstrations of jewelry making by Mrs. Ruth Nobel, Rapid River; 10 year old Kathy Dooman will create her unusual stationary by using wild flowers and leaves; Carol View, a Rapid River student will be making colorful flowers from wool fibers, and Mrs. Robert Bricker will show her skill in cake decorating.

Exhibitors are asked to bring their displays to the school between 9 a. m. and noon Saturday and to bring whatever special equipment they may need to display their hobbies to the best advantage. However, tables will be available for simple displays.

Judging by Mrs. Mel Carlson, Mrs. Robert Stack and Mrs. Ron Watson will take place between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. and ribbons for first and second place as well as honorable mention will be awarded at that time.

All displays will be welcome with the exception of live animals and children under the age of 14 will not be admitted unless accompanied by parents or an adult, officials in charge said.

The Foreign Study Group at Gladstone High School will sell coffee and doughnuts in the multipurpose room during the afternoon and evening hours.

Bicycle Safety Check Planned

Two bicycles will be awarded at the Bicycle Rodeo to be held at the All Saints School Saturday, April 25, from 1 to 4 p. m. The Rodeo is being sponsored by the Gladstone PTA and the All Saints Home and School Association.

All children in the first grade and above are eligible to participate in the rodeo and safety check. It is not necessary for the youngsters to own a bicycle but all youngsters must pass the safety test in order to be eligible to win one of the many prizes which will be awarded.

Mrs. Samuel Hoyt is general chairman of the event and representatives of the following organizations will be assisting with the work: Rotary and Lions Clubs, Girl and Boy Scouts, Gladstone 4-H Club, VFW, Minnewasca Chapter of the Eastern Star, DeMolay and Jobs Daughters.

Minor repairs will be made to the bicycles after the inspection and members of the VFW will apply reflector tape to the bikes.

Anyone wishing to donate prizes for the Rodeo, or money to purchase prizes, may contact Mrs. Hoyt.

300 Firemen Fight Big Detroit Fire

DETROIT (AP) — More than 300 firemen and all available equipment were used Wednesday to fight a spectacular blaze in a downtown Detroit building.

The fire, which began in a grease shaft in a restaurant kitchen, burned for hours and caused heavy damage to the six-story Golden Building. Several stores, the restaurant and a bar were destroyed.

Three firemen suffered smoke inhalation; two were treated at Detroit General Hospital and released and the third was held for observation. There were no civilian injuries.

Acting Fire Chief Lester Emery said the fire was five-alarms plus. Detroit only allows five alarms, but after the fifth alarm was sounded, additional men, equipment and cadets from the Fire Academy were were called in.

The fire, which was still burning fiercely when an antiwar rally began in Kennedy Square nearby, combined with the rally to reduce rush hour downtown traffic to a creeping pace.

War Casualty

WASHINGTON (AP) — One Michigan soldier was among 19 U.S. servicemen killed recently in Vietnam, the Defense Department said Wednesday.

Killed was Spec. 4 Phillip A. Harris, son of Mrs. Eleanor Harris of Detroit.

Library Week Plans Readied

Every week is Library Week at the Gladstone Library, but this special week gives national recognition to the role of the library in the school and community.

The theme: Reading is for Everybody, is demonstrated in our own library with its broad variety of subjects and its allowances for reading levels from the picture books for pre-schoolers to the most advanced technical and professional books.

Library Week also points out that libraries have materials for looking and listening also. Records and tapes are available.

Mrs. Doreen Anderson, librarian, reports the circulation of all library materials has increased over last year by more than 4,000 items during the period from June 1, 1969 to March 31, 1970. Most of this increase is in the adult and Audio visual materials according to Mrs. Anderson.

Inflation Changes Our Sense Of Value

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The Martini is probably the leading cause of unemployment among executives over 40.

If a fellow never does anything, he never has to apologize for what he did.

People who like to chew chocolate caramels usually owe money to their dentists.

It is less nerve-racking to submit to a mugging than it is to sit through lunch with a guy who has the habit of drumming on the table with his fingers.

The two kinds of hobbyists I'd hate most to spend an evening listening to are weightlifters and sky divers.

Inflation inevitably changes our sense of values. The odds are 3 to 1 that if you drop a penny on the sidewalk the person behind you won't stoop and retrieve it—that is, unless you happen to be a pretty girl. In that case the odds are about even.

The height of sophistication is the ability to yawn in the boss's face while being given a merit raise.

In giving a child a name, the wise parent should think first not of how cute it sounds now but how it will look 70 years later on a tombstone.

A man is judged by what he has in his head, a woman by what she keeps in her refrigerator.

Nothing makes a fellow feel more greedy than inheriting money. He hates to pay tax on it even more than if he had earned it himself.

Here's another difference between men and women. A man will usually look up in the telephone directory a number he can't remember. A woman will simply dial the operator and get her to look it up.

Whenever I overhear a man in a restaurant order a breaded veal cutlet for dinner, I figure he has a pretty sodden imagination.

One of the major disappointments of our civilization is that the harder it is to open a package you get the less likely it has in it anything worth keeping.

Whenever you meet a man who pays $100 for a pair of shoes, you can be certain of one thing about him: sooner or later he will tell you about it.

Among the girls in the office typist pool, the one with the longest fingernails usually turns out the fewest letters.

The biggest problem of housewives today is how to use profitably the time they must spend waiting for a frozen steak to thaw out on the drainboard.

A father wouldn't mind so much how his son's flapping locks make him look if the lad would simply pay his own way through college with the haircut money he saves.

If during a single day all of us carried out our daydreams and fantasies, nobody in the nation would be alive by nightfall.

No Indictment

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—A Tazewell County, Ill., grand jury has declined to indict Delmar Nagle, 17, of Creve Coeur, Ill., in the shooting death of another soldier Glen Kapulos, 18, of Albion, Mich., State's Atty. Bernard Oltsman reported Tuesday.

Kapulos was shot March 16 in Nagle's home while the two Vietnam veterans, who were absent without leave from Ft. Collins, Colo., were handling a pistol.

In one hour a modern combine can harvest enough wheat to bake 20,000 loaves of bread, according to New Holland Division of Sperry Rand engineers.

Programs To Continue In Art, Music, Phy Ed

Students in the Manistique Area Schools will continue to receive instruction in art, instrumental and vocal music and physical education next year.

The Area Board of Education Tuesday night resolved that these "programs be maintained at a similar level during the 1970-71 school year" by a 5-2 vote with Trustees Robert Knoph and William Mueller dissenting.

"Continue rather than curtail" was the audience reaction during board discussion on the employment of traveling teachers who conduct the classes. The speakers, both parents and teachers, pointed out the benefits children receive from art, music and physical education: that instruction requires special training which most classroom teachers do not have, and since the programs are part of the overall curriculum, they shouldn't be cut.

Board Scolded

One parent scolded the board for even considering the elimination of the programs and asked how they could approve a $3,081 expenditure for football uniforms and equipment (which was done previous to the discussion on traveling teachers) and then talk about cutting expenses in this area.

The board had considered dropping the programs as one means of balancing the budget for 1970-71.

A lengthy discussion on an "open door" library policy (which would allow junior and senior high school students free access to the library during school hours) ended when Trustee Leon Wood was asked to talk over the matter with the Library Advisory Board, of which he is board delegate, and bring back their suggestions.

The "open door" policy was advanced by Boyd Briggs, 211 N. Houghton Ave., who complained that students are not allowed any library privileges without a permission slip from teachers. Nor were students allowed to study in the library, he said.

Possible Deficiency?

Briggs contended that if one of the reasons for not allowing students free access to the library is discipline, it reflected "a deficiency in the capability of the personnel working in the library."

High School Principal Marvin Frederickson said that with the present large enrollment, the facility would be jammed and crowd control would become a problem. He endorsed Briggs' suggestion that junior high students be allowed free access for a two-month experimental period.

Supt. Edwin E. Wuehle, in reply to Briggs' comment that the library was actually a public and school facility, said that the school was under no obligation to operate a public library; that neither the city or county contributed financial support to its operation; and that before penal fines were diverted to libraries, the facility was being operated by the school for public use.

Custodian Hired

The administration's request for approval in the hiring of custodian Dave Sheldon passed 4-3 with Wood, Knoph and Mueller voting against the request. Wood said he believes additional help is unnecessary since the board faces a deficit and should try to save money.

Head custodian Joe Wood had pointed out that the board should compute the difference in hiring an outside firm to perform necessary work and the actual salary of an extra man.

Mrs. Betty LaPointe's request for sick leave pay to apply for educational course expense was granted by a 5-2 vote with Wood and Knoph opposed.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Ione Males, a Lakeside teacher, and Mrs. Patricia Lehman, a high school instructor. Mrs. Leona Williams' request to teach only first semester next year to qualify for retirement pension and use a full five years after earning a degree, was okayed.

Contracts Approved

Unanimous approval was given for contract acceptance of two new teachers. Mary Lou Cook will teach early elementary as will Jeanne Thill. Mrs. Cook has taught one year in Grand Rapids and attended Ferris State College and Central Michigan University. Miss Thill, Fayette, was educated at Bay de Noc Community College and Northern Michigan University. She did her student teaching in Escanaba. Both women hold bachelor's degrees.

Vern Annelin, Lincoln School principal, was hired to coordinate the summer school programs at a salary of $990. He is replacing Evelyn Berwin, elementary coordinator, who was coordinator before her recent automobile accident.

Bids on two 66-passenger buses from Legget and Foye, chassis, and Specker Motors of Marquette, body, were accepted. Total cost of the new vehicles is $18,172.

Classes Dropped

Before adjourning the board okayed dropping home economics and shop classes for junior high students due to the lack of available time for class scheduling and asked the superintendent to contact the Intermediate School District for information on obtaining the services of teachers to tutor home-bound children. Two requests were received for services of such teachers.

James Tennyson's bid of $500 on the Doyle School was tabled for further discussion on the extent of property involved in the sale.

Next meeting will be April 28 at the Hiawatha School where the board will discuss busing Hiawatha sixth graders to Lincoln School for classes next year.

Both candidates filed nominating petitions Tuesday.

Board Approves Tentative Budget

A tentative 1971 budget of $410,960 has been adopted by the County Board of Commissioners for submission to the County Tax Allocation Board.

The budget will require 9.7 mills local taxes and is an increase of $99,129 over the current budget.

The county presently levies 7.05 allocated mills.

The largest single increase is found in the $45,000 appropriation to the Social Welfare Dept., which reportedly anticipates an increase in operating expenses of the Medical Care Facility.

Other major increases, ranging from $1,200 to $4,500, are noted in departmental appropriations.

New budgetary items included $4,000 for a recreational development plan, part of a county comprehensive (master) plan, and $1,500 for a county dog enforcement program.

Seek City Funds

The recreational study will be made by the Central Upper Peninsula Economic Development District and is the first step in the county's intent to qualify for state recreational bond funding.

The dog program, adopted Tuesday, will be operated by the Sheriff's Dept. The board indicated it will seek city contributions to the program. To get the dog enforcement started this year, the board approved $1,500 deficit spending for the Sheriff's Dept.

Action was deferred on renovation of the courthouse heating system or minor improvements until it can be determined if outside funding is available for new courthouse construction or expansion of the present building.

Ordinance Adopted

The interim zoning ordinance officially was adopted and will be effective until March 31, 1971—at which time a permanent ordinance must be adopted. Authority was extended to Board Chairman Lindsley Frenette and County Clerk Fred Lesica to sign option agreements for property acquired under the airport expansion program.

The board also adopted an equalization report which sets the total assessed and equalized valuation of the county at $32,649,100.

The eight townships are equalized at $21,992,900. The City of Manistique's total equalized valuation is set at $10,656,200.

Two Rabid Foxes Found At Sault; Clinic Scheduled

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — An outbreak of rabies in animals across the border in Canada has prompted Chippewa County officials to hold an antirabies inoculation clinic for small animals here.

Two rabid foxes, the first cases of rabies here in 11 years, were reportedly found by county health officials, who said they probably came across from Canada during the winter when the St. Marys River was frozen over.

The outbreak began last fall in Ontario among foxes, and Canadian health officials have found 15 confirmed cases in foxes and another 15 suspected cases. All were within a 50 - mile radius of the Canadian Soo.

The disease can be contracted merely by touching the animal, and so far, 14 persons in Canada have been given a series of antirabies inoculations.

Ontario officials are holding seven dogs and three cats which may have the disease. One cow has died of it.

The highest number of farms in the United States was recorded in 1935—6.8 million.

Wuehle Accepts Appointment To WNMR-TV Board

Manistique Area Schools Superintendent Edwin E. Wuehle has accepted an appointment to a 15-member Broadcast Advisory Board for WNMR-TV and WNMR-FM, the educational broadcasting facilities of Northern Michigan University.

The committee will assist the station management and the University administration in developing public broadcasting in the Upper Peninsula to best serve the needs and desires of area citizens. It will work with schools and boards of education, citizens' groups and organizations, community action agencies, local governmental units and agencies plus civic clubs and chambers of commerce.

NMU president Dr. John X. Jamrich said, in requesting Wuehle to serve on the committee, "We feel that it is important to strengthen the ties which we have with citizens and groups throughout the area in regard to our broadcast activities."

Hellman Wants Compensation For Fishermen

LANSING (AP) — The House devoted much time to the question of calling up from the Appropriations Committee a bill to compensate commercial fishermen for losses resulting from state licensing restrictions.

Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, complained that the Appropriations Committee has taken no action on the bill, even though it has had the measure for a year.

"It would only take an hour," he said.

Hellman added "this bill would allow those fishermen put out of business by the Department of Natural Resurces, through no fault of their own, a chance to face tomorrow without debts hanging over their heads."

The state would pay up to 40 per cent of the value of the equipment which no longer could be used.

The request was withdrawn amid the assumption that the Appropriations Committee now would take up the measure.

Hellman said that if this was not the case, he would move again in one month for the measure to be pulled out of the committee and onto the House floor.

Even if passed, it would not become effective unless a companion measure in Congress is approved.

About 75 per cent of the world's population is still actively engaged in servicing mankind with food from the soil. According to New Holland farm equipment engineers most of the world's farmers—especially on the Asian and African continents—are still using primitive, if not ancient, field instruments.

Arnold, Thompson, defective turn signals; Linda Jenerou, Box 48, and Carol Jean Beckman, Rte. 1, no operator's license; Lois A. Bellville, 614 Garden Ave., and Charles J. Ayotte, 131 N. Second St., expired operator's license; Patricia A. Wood, 435 Delta Ave., no vehicle registration; Celina Hursh, Thompson, defective headlights; Gary C. Lander, Indian Lake, defective tires; Ruby Bockorny, 320 Weston Ave., excessive smoke; Earl V. Gould, N. Second St., violation of license restrictions.

Law Enforcement Pleas For Help Ignored: 'Soapy'

LANSING (AP) — A possible candidate for the Michigan Supreme Court says society has "generally ignored" law enforcement pleas for manpower and equipment needed to fight crime and apprehend criminals.

Former Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams, who may run for one of two vacancies occurring this year on the state's high court, said Wednesday that instead of heeding law enforcement entreaties, "we have burdened police departments with functions and responsibilities which could well be performed by civilians."

"We can get more of our police into front-line law enforcement quickly if we are willing to relieve them of such nonpolice duties as guarding school crossings and acting as nursemaid to Saturday night drunks," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a Lansing civic group.

"Society must also have more police," Williams said, and "it is particularly essential that we persuade more young black men and members of other minority groups to enter police work.'

Pair Seeks Re-Election To Board Of Education

Board of Education President Denton Nelson and Secretary Margaret Waters announced their candidacy for reelection to the Area Board of Education at Tuesday night's board meeting.

Both candidates filed nominating petitions Tuesday.

Nelson and Mrs. Waters, both seeking four year terms, are each completing eight years on the board. Nelson has been president for the past three years and Mrs. Waters secretary for seven years.

Mrs. Waters is a native of Alpine Township in Kent County, attended Grand Rapids schools and graduated from Grand Rapids Junior College. She holds a bachelor of science degree in Zoology from the Univehsity of Michigan which she won in 1947 and a second bachelor of science degree in Medical Technology which was awarded in 1949.

She worked for four years at the University of Michigan Hospital in the departments of bio-chemistry and internal medicine and spent two years in the University Health Service laboratories. She and her husband, Dr. Duane Waters, a Manistique native, came to the city in 1954.

Mrs. Waters has served on many committees and boards during her board of education membership including five years on the County Allocation Board, of which she was chairman for three years.

The Waters' are the parents of four children, three boys and a girl, and live at 358 Lake St.

Nelson is a life-long Manistique resident and, in partnership with his father, Otis Nelson, operates Nelson's "66" Service, a fuel and gasoline business.

He is a 1943 graduate of Manistique High School and a three-year Navy veteran of World War II. Until 1960 he and his father operated a logging business. Following a woods accident in which the younger Nelson lost his left leg, the two became associated in the service station business.

Nelson is currently school representative on the Allocation Board and sits on the City Recreation Board. He is also a member of the Delta-Schoolcraft Vocational Education steering committee. He has been very active in community affairs particularly the Boy Scouts and Little League.

Married to the former Bernita Archey, they live at 212 N. Fifth St. and are the parents of four children—three boys and one girl.

Interested candidates have until May 11 to file nominating petitions for the two open seats on the Area Board of Education. Forms are available from the Central School business office.

Board Approves Tentative Budget

A tentative 1971 budget of $410,960 has been adopted by the County Board of Commissioners for submission to the County Tax Allocation Board.

The budget will require 9.7 mills local taxes and is an increase of $99,129 over the current budget.

The county presently levies 7.05 allocated mills.

The largest single increase is found in the $45,000 appropriation to the Social Welfare Dept., which reportedly anticipates an increase in operating expenses of the Medical Care Facility.

Other major increases, ranging from $1,200 to $4,500, are noted in departmental appropriations.

New budgetary items included $4,000 for a recreational development plan, part of a county comprehensive (master) plan, and $1,500 for a county dog enforcement program.

Seek City Funds

The recreational study will be made by the Central Upper Peninsula Economic Development District and is the first step in the county's intent to qualify for state recreational bond funding.

The dog program, adopted Tuesday, will be operated by the Sheriff's Dept. The board indicated it will seek city contributions to the program. To get the dog enforcement started this year, the board approved $1,500 deficit spending for the Sheriff's Dept.

Action was deferred on renovation of the courthouse heating system or minor improvements until it can be determined if outside funding is available for new courthouse construction or expansion of the present building.

Ordinance Adopted

The interim zoning ordinance officially was adopted and will be effective until March 31, 1971—at which time a permanent ordinance must be adopted. Authority was extended to Board Chairman Lindsley Frenette and County Clerk Fred Lesica to sign option agreements for property acquired under the airport expansion program.

The board also adopted an equalization report which sets the total assessed and equalized valuation of the county at $32,649,100.

The eight townships are equalized at $21,992,900. The City of Manistique's total equalized valuation is set at $10,656,200.

Two Rabid Foxes Found At Sault; Clinic Scheduled

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — An outbreak of rabies in animals across the border in Canada has prompted Chippewa County officials to hold an anti-rabies inoculation clinic for small animals here.

Two rabid foxes, the first cases of rabies here in 11 years, were reportedly found by county health officials, who said they probably came across from Canada during the winter when the St. Marys River was frozen over.

The outbreak began last fall in Ontario among foxes, and Canadian health officials have found 15 confirmed cases in foxes and another 15 suspected cases. All were within a 50 - mile radius of the Canadian Soo.

The disease can be contracted merely by touching the animal, and so far, 14 persons in Canada have been given a series of antirabies inoculations.

Ontario officials are holding seven dogs and three cats which may have the disease. One cow has died of it.

The highest number of farms in the United States was recorded in 1935—6.8 million.

Wuehle Accepts Appointment To WNMR-TV Board

Manistique Area Schools Superintendent Edwin E. Wuehle has accepted an appointment to a 15-member Broadcast Advisory Board for WNMR-TV and WNMR-FM, the educational broadcasting facilities of Northern Michigan University.

The committee will assist the station management and the University administration in developing public broadcasting in the Upper Peninsula to best serve the needs and desires of area citizens. It will work with schools and boards of education, citizens' groups and organizations, community action agencies, local governmental units and agencies plus civic clubs and chambers of commerce.

NMU president Dr. John X. Jamrich said, in requesting Wuehle to serve on the committee, "We feel that it is important to strengthen the ties which we have with citizens and groups throughout the area in regard to our broadcast activities."

Hellman Wants Compensation For Fishermen

LANSING (AP) — The House devoted much time to the question of calling up from the Appropriations Committee a bill to compensate commercial fishermen for losses resulting from state licensing restrictions.

Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, complained that the Appropriations Committee has taken no action on the bill, even though it has had the measure for a year.

"It would only take an hour," he said.

Hellman added "this bill would allow those fishermen put out of business by the Department of Natural Resources, through no fault of their own, a chance to face tomorrow without debts hanging over their heads."

The state would pay up to 40 per cent of the value of the equipment which no longer could be used.

The request was withdrawn amid the assumption that the Appropriations Committee now would take up the measure.

Hellman said that if this was not the case, he would move again in one month for the measure to be pulled out of the committee and onto the House floor.

Even if passed, it would not become effective unless a companion measure in Congress is approved.

About 75 per cent of the world's population is still actively engaged in servicing mankind with food from the soil. According to New Holland farm equipment engineers most of the world's farmers—especially on the Asian and African continents—are still using primitive, if not ancient, field instruments.

Law Enforcement Pleas For Help Ignored: 'Soapy'

LANSING (AP) — A possible candidate for the Michigan Supreme Court says society has "generally ignored" law enforcement pleas for manpower and equipment needed to fight crime and apprehend criminals.

Former Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams, who may run for one of two vacancies occurring this year on the state's high court, said Wednesday that instead of heeding law enforcement entreaties, "we have burdened police departments with functions and responsibilities which could well be performed by civilians."

"We can get more of our police into front-line law enforcement quickly if we are willing to relieve them of such nonpolice duties as guarding school crossings and acting as nursemaid to Saturday night drunks," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a Lansing civic group.

"Society must also have more police," Williams said, and "it is particularly essential that we persuade more young black men and members of other minority groups to enter police work.'

Michigan House Upholds Passage Of School Bill

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House has upheld its earlier passage of a controversial bill to halt restructuring of the racial balance of Detroit's secondary schools.

The vote was 39-37 against reconsideration of a a bill, introduced by Rep. E.D. O'Brien, a conservative Detroit Democrat. The bill would force the Detroit School Board to submit any reorganization plan to a voter referendum.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

It is aimed at overturning legislation enacted last summer that directs the Detroit board to divide the city's 295,000-student school system into neighborhood subdistricts.

A similar bill, passed recently by the Senate and sent to the House, simply would repeal Act 244 that the Legislature passed late last July.

President Asks Congress To Aid In Lake Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to outlaw dumping of polluted dredgings into the Great Lakes, starting with the 35 most polluted harbors.

In a special message, Nixon also ordered a special study, to be completed by Sept. 1, on dumping of dredgings, sludge and other materials into the oceans.

"In the New York area alone," he said, "these amounts of annual dumping would cover all of Manhattan Island to a depth of one foot in two years."

Initial emphasis, however, is on the Great Lakes, with Nixon saying his program would mark a major step toward abating pollution there by "by-products of modern technology and large population increases."

Principal legislative requests submitted by the President were:

—A halt to disposal of polluted dredge materials into the lakes by private interests and the Army Corps of Engineers "as soon as land disposal sites are available."

—Establishment by the corps of containment areas to hold the materials that otherwise might go into the lakes.

—A requirement that the states and other non-federal interests pay half the cost of building the containment areas and also provide needed lands and other rights.

—Suspending dredging after one year if the secretary of the Army found that local interests "were not making reasonable progress in attaining disposal sites."

The White House said construction of facilities in the 35 most polluted harbors would cost $70 million, of which the federal government would pay half. The cost of operating and maintaining the facilities would be increased $5 million a year "due to the added handling cost of the dredged spoil."

Main Speaker

YPSILANTI (AP) — Stewart Udall, who served as secretary of the interior for Presidents John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, is to speak at Eastern Michigan University Saturday on problems affecting man's environment.

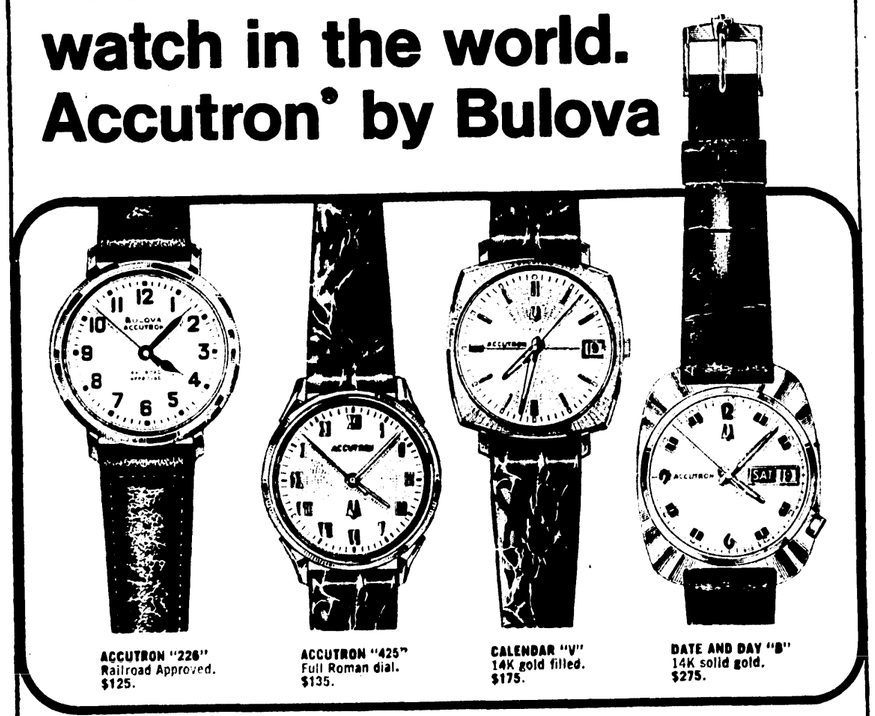
THYBERG'S

has the most accurate watch in the world. Accutron® by Bulova



What accounts for this extraordinary accuracy? Instead of the usual wheels and springs, Accutron has a tiny, electronically-driven tuning fork whose vibrations split each second into 360 precise little intervals. Ordinary watches have balance wheels. The balance wheel splits the second too. Into 5 or 10 intervals. And not so precisely. That's why balance wheel watches can't compete with tuning fork time.

Because of that tuning fork, we can guarantee Accutron accuracy to within a minute a month*.

Canadian Man To Get Alimony From His Wife

TORONTO (AP)—For the first time in Canadian history, a man has been awarded alimony from his wife.

The Ontario Supreme Court ruled Friday in favor of Louis Cohen, 63, who now is living on $25 a week in welfare payments in a one-room Toronto apartment.

Cohen's former wife was ordered to pay Cohen $335 a month, but he may never get the money. He owes $4,000 in court costs from another suit he lost to his wife and he must make support payments for his two daughters who are living with their mother.

Cohen's troubles started in 1952 when he signed over to his wife the deed to his Windsor, Ont., apartment building. During court proceedings, Cohen's equity in the building was estimated at $123,000.

One day about a year later, Cohen returned to his apartment unit in the building to find all his furniture, his wife, daughters and in-laws gone.

His wife had moved out and had taken everything with her. Cohen later was evicted from the building.

In granting the divorce on grounds of separation, Justice John H. Osler said Mrs. Cohen had been the sole proprietor of the apartment building and the increased value of her equity has resulted solely from the application of the profits of the building.

Mrs. Cohen said she would appeal.

NEW CONTRACEPTIVE

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian scientists believe they are close to producing a contraceptive pill from wild papaya seeds. The government has set up 10 research units across the country to test likely recipes using papaya, a tropical tree that looks like a palm.

BEHIND the COUNTER with

Bob Krohmer

There is a widespread belief that physicians must limit themselves to prescribing only those drugs that are absolutely safe. And we expect the government and the pharmaceutical industry to provide us with this protection, without realizing that it isn't realistic or wise.

You see, no form of medical treatment is absolutely without risk. We realize this when we're talking about surgery, but many of us don't accept this when it comes to medicines. We expect "wonder drugs" and medical "cures" to be available without any danger of side-effects — and that is almost impossible.

Naturally, we want to keep the danger to a minimum — (and the FDA does a good job in providing that protection) — but we must realize that each and every drug has more than one effect on the body's complex chemistry. This applies not only to prescription drugs, but to all those others we use without a second thought: coffee, tea, alcohol, tobacco and aspirin.

This doesn't mean we should stop using drugs, or stop searching for the best form of medical treatment. It does mean that the patient must be extremely careful in following the advice of the doctor and pharmacist regarding a prescription. One tablet twice a day means just that: two tablets four times a day won't work any better; and could be dangerous. And it does mean that we must be careful about leaving such drugs around where they can be swallowed by children or "borrowed" by friends and relatives. In short, "take as directed."

Nicolo Marionettes Coming Here In May

Children of Escanaba will be taken on a fun-filled tour through a wonderland of Marionette magic on Saturday, May 9 when the Nicolo Marionettes perform their new musical version of Alice in Wonderland at the Escanaba Junior High School.

Children's Classic

Never before has wonderland been so joyously brought to the stage as it is in Nicolo's bright adaption of Lewis Carroll's 100-year-old children's classic.

Audiences will thrill as Alice, played by a puppet when she's small and by a live girl, when she's big, sings and dances with her marionette friends.

Mad Tea Party

Together they take part in such famous wonderland events as the Mad Tea Party, the Un-Birthday Ball, and the Mock Trial. The White Rabbit, Smoking Caterpillar and mysterious disappearing Cheshire Cat help Alice search for the stolen tarts. The problem is—will she find them in time to escape the wrath of the sinister Queen of Hearts?

Original Music

All of it takes place on a marionette stage in stage settings by Broadway designer William B. Pitkin. There is also orginal music that will keep the children humming long after the final curtain has fallen.

Performances are at 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. and tickets for children and adults can be purchased at all Escanaba grade schools. Mrs. John Anthony PTA Council president, is in charge of the arrangements. For more information call 786-7175.

Canadian Man To Get Alimony From His Wife

TORONTO (AP)—For the first time in Canadian history, a man has been awarded alimony from his wife.

The Ontario Supreme Court ruled Friday in favor of Louis Cohen, 63, who now is living on $25 a week in welfare payments in a one-room Toronto apartment.

Cohen's former wife was ordered to pay Cohen $335 a month, but he may never get the money. He owes $4,000 in court costs from another suit he lost to his wife and he must make support payments for his two daughters who are living with their mother.

Cohen's troubles started in 1952 when he signed over to his wife the deed to his Windsor, Ont., apartment building. During court proceedings, Cohen's equity in the building was estimated at $123,000.

One day about a year later, Cohen returned to his apartment unit in the building to find all his furniture, his wife, daughters and in-laws gone.

His wife had moved out and had taken everything with her. Cohen later was evicted from the building.

In granting the divorce on grounds of separation, Justice John H. Osler said Mrs. Cohen had been the sole proprietor of the apartment building and the increased value of her equity has resulted solely from the application of the profits of the building.

Mrs. Cohen said she would appeal.

NEW CONTRACEPTIVE

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian scientists believe they are close to producing a contraceptive pill from wild papaya seeds. The government has set up 10 research units across the country to test likely recipes using papaya, a tropical tree that looks like a palm.

BEHIND the COUNTER with

Bob Krohmer

There is a widespread belief that physicians must limit themselves to prescribing only those drugs that are absolutely safe. And we expect the government and the pharmaceutical industry to provide us with this protection, without realizing that it isn't realistic or wise.

You see, no form of medical treatment is absolutely without risk. We realize this when we're talking about surgery, but many of us don't accept this when it comes to medicines. We expect "wonder drugs" and medical "cures" to be available without any danger of side-effects — and that is almost impossible.

Naturally, we want to keep the danger to a minimum — (and the FDA does a good job in providing that protection) — but we must realize that each and every drug has more than one effect on the body's complex chemistry. This applies not only to prescription drugs, but to all those others we use without a second thought: coffee, tea, alcohol, tobacco and aspirin.

This doesn't mean we should stop using drugs, or stop searching for the best form of medical treatment. It does mean that the patient must be extremely careful in following the advice of the doctor and pharmacist regarding a prescription. One tablet twice a day means just that; two tablets four times a day won't work any better; and could be dangerous. And it does mean that we must be careful about leaving such drugs around where they can be swallowed by children or "borrowed" by friends and relatives. In short, "take as directed."

Nicolo Marionettes Coming Here In May

Children of Escanaba will be taken on a fun-filled tour through a wonderland of Marionette magic on Saturday, May 9 when the Nicolo Marionettes perform their new musical version of Alice in Wonderland at the Escanaba Junior High School.

Children's Classic

Never before has wonderland been so joyously brought to the stage as it is in Nicolo's bright adaption of Lewis Carroll's 100-year-old children's classic.

Audiences will thrill as Alice, played by a puppet when she's small and by a live girl, when she's big, sings and dances with her marionette friends.

Mad Tea Party

Together they take part in such famous wonderland events as the Mad Tea Party, the Un-Birthday Ball, and the Mock Trial. The White Rabbit, Smoking Caterpillar and mysterious disappearing Cheshire Cat help Alice search for the stolen tarts. The problem is—will she find them in time to escape the wrath of the sinister Queen of Hearts?

Original Music

All of it takes place on a marionette stage in stage settings by Broadway designer William B. Pitkin. There is also orginal music that will keep the children humming long after the final curtain has fallen.

Performances are at 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. and tickets for children and adults can be purchased at all Escanaba grade schools. Mrs. John Anthony PTA Council president, is in charge of the arrangements. For more information call 786-7175.

State Sues Ludington, Five Firms For Spillage

LANSING (AP)—The state of Michigan filed suit today against the city of Ludington and five Ludington firms as a result of cyanide spills over the last 2½ years.

In an action filed in Mason County Circuit Court, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley asked preliminary injunctions requiring the city to enforce its sewer ordinance and ordering the firms to stop "discharging cyanide solution into the waters of the state."

Named in the suit are the city, Straits Steel & Wire Co., Ludington Plating Co., Handy Things Manufacturing Co., Atkinson Manufacturing Co., and Star Watchcase Co.

Kelley said that in the last 30 months, the firms have discharged "substantial quantities of cyanide solution into the sewer system and from there into the waters of the state of Michigan."

Kelley said the defendants "have failed to adopt sufficient safeguards and procedures for the keeping of, storing of and treatment of, cyanide solution in connection with the operation of the plating activities . . ."

"Such failure," he added, "can reasonably be expected to result in future discharges of cyanide solution so as to endanger the public health and safety."

He said that unless the discharge was prevented, there would be "a great danger of serious and irreparable harm."

In filing the suit, Kelley cited a state law which prohibits discharge of injurious substances into state waters.

Earlier this week, the State Health Department ordered the city to enforce its sewer ordinance. Tuesday, city officials gave Ludington's plating companies three days to provide temporary protection so that no leakage from their plants could enter the city's sewers.

The actions followed a March 15 incident in which some 1,500 gallons of cyanide solution spilled into the city sewer system and from there into Lake Michigan. The solution poured through a hole in a tank at the Straits Steel & Wire Co., Ludington officials said.

Douglas Said Unfit For Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — An impeachment resolution and call for a special investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas have reached the House in the wake of charges the 71-year-old jurist may be unfit for his post.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford touched off a vitriolic, parliamentary wrangle Wednesday night after asserting Douglas may be unfit to serve as a justice because of questionable outside interests and possible associations with underworld figures.

Ford threw his support to creation of a special House commtitee to study the Douglas case to see if there is cause for impeachment.

Under terms of a resolution proposed today, the special investigative panel would be required to submit its report in 90 days.

When Ford finished his speech Rep. Andrew Jacobs of Indiana, a liberal Democrat, said the GOP leader had a duty to file an impeachment resolution since he "has stated publicly that he favors impeachment of Justice Douglas."

"Since he (Ford) refuses to do so and since he raises grave questions, the answers to which I do not know, but every American is entitled to know," Jacobs told the House, "I introduce at this time the resolution of impeachment in order that a proper and dignified inquiry into this matter might be held."

Prayers Helping Astronaut Trio, Graham Claims

PARIS (AP) — Billy Graham said today he thinks prayer is helping to get the Apollo 13 astronauts safely back to earth.

Graham, here for a European conference on evangelism, said in a statement:

"At no time in history have so many people been praying in so many languages representing so many races and nationalities or a single event as for the successful return of our astronauts to earth. I think the reason it is going so much better than we thought a few hours ago is in answer to prayer."

Kopechne Inquest Account Still Remains Secret

BOSTON (AP) — Tangled in the courts, as it has been almost from the start, the inquest account of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile accident remains secret.

There may be word today on when the transcript of the inquiry into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Kennedy's car last July 18 will be issued.

The federal courts have rejected a stenographer's bid to block publication, but a Suffolk Superior Court judge has yet to rescind his order that the papers be withheld.

Judge Wilfred J. Paquet did not say when he would take the next legal step. His clerk, Edward V. Keating—who has custody of the papers now—said there might be a midday announcement.

The free lance stenographer who sought in court the exclusive right to sell copies of the inquest record based his case on Massachusetts custom and a 71-year-old legal opinion.

141 Americans Die During Past Week

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Command's spring offensive kept American battle losses at a seven-month high for the second successive week with 141 Americans killed in action last week, the U.S. Command reported today.

The toll was three more than the number killed the week before and the highest since the week of last Sept. 1-7, when 143 died in battle.

The number of Americans wounded fell by more than half, from 1,179 the previous week to 457. The decrease was attributed to a decline in the number of rocket and mortar attacks, which had increased sharply as enemy forces began their offensive on April 1.

The Saigon government said 542 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 1,336 wounded last week, compared with 754 killed and 1,716 wounded the week before. Enemy casualties rose to 3,458 killed from 3,366 the previous week, the U.S. Command said.

Protection Of Arctic Waters Worries U.S.

WASHINTON (AP) — Voicing concern over Canada's far-reaching claims over northern waters, the United States proposed Wednesday an international conference to set rules for environmental protection of the Arctic.

But if Canada is unwilling to await international agreement on Arctic pollution control, the United States offered meanwhile to submit U.S.-Canadian differences over the off-shore jurisdiction to the International Court of Justice.

The U.S. position was set forth in a State Department statement following a diplomatic protest delivered to the Canadian ambassador here Tuesday.

Press reports from Ottawa indicate the Canadian government has already turned down the U.S. protest.

The U.S. diplomatic move came on the heels of introduction by the Canadian government of proposed legislation that would give Canada broad control over waters reaching 100 miles into the Arctic Ocean off Canadian shores.

The avowed aim of the Canadian legislation is to curb pollution by ships and otherwise protect the environment. .

"International law provides no basis for these proposed unilateral extensions of jurisdictions on the high seas, and the United States can neither accept nor acquiesce in the assertion of such jurisdiction," the U.S. statement said.

"We are concerned that this action by Canada, if not opposed by us, would be taken as precedent in other parts of the world for other unilateral infringements of the freedom of the seas."

The U.S. statement said if other countries followed Canada's example in claiming large ocean areas, merchant shipping would be severely hampered, naval mobility would be jeopardized and there could be grave international disputes.

At the same time, the statement said, the United States is acutely aware of the potential dangers of oil pollution to the Arctic environment.

"We believe the Arctic beyond national jurisdiction should be subject to internationally agreed rules protecting its assets, both living and non-living," the statement said.

The United States claims only a three-mile offshore territorial water for itself but is willing to recognize claims of others up to 12 miles offshore, provided ships have right of international passage through those waters.

Market Showing Downward Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped early today with declining issues on the New York Stock exchange leading gainers by a hair's breadth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 10:30 a.m. was behind 0.66 at 781.94.

Factors which account for the market's lackluster tone include:

—The massive offering of debentures and warrants by American Telephone & Telegraph that began Monday. Apparently has drained capital from the stock market.

—Pessimism stemming from disappointing earnings reports of many companies.

—The threat of higher taxes raised Wednesday by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy. He said additional taxation might be necessary if fiscal restraint was eased.

Use Of Foliage Killer Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of spraying millions of acres in Vietnam, the Pentagon is suspending war use of the controversial defoliant 2,4,5-T.

The move was ordered Wednesday as the departments of Agriculture, and Health, Education and Welfare announced a ban on domestic use of the powerful weed killer around homes, water areas and food crops.

Tests indicated that 2,4,5-T, or Herbicide Orange as the military calls it, caused cancer in laboratory mice injected with the chemical.

Officials said newly available information "indicates that 2,4,5-T as well as its contaminant, dioxins, may produce abnormal developments in unborn animals."

The Pentagon said it has found no evidence the herbicide had caused birth defects among the South Vietnamese but said the HEW-Agriculture decision showed that 2,4,5-T warranted further scrutiny.

Arms Talks Begin In Vienna Today

VIENNA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union opened talks today to see if they can check the nuclear arms race. President Nixon told the Russians he hopes the nuclear missile arsenals of the superpowers can be first limited and then reduced.

The two delegations opened the substantive round of the strategic arms limitation talks —SALT— at a ceremony in the ornate, historic Belvedere Palace. They had arranged the negotiations at a preliminary round in Helsinki during the winter.

Chief U.S. Delegate Gerard Smith read a message from Nixon pledging his "firm commitment to the search for an early, equitable, verifiable agreement. The President said he had given Smith "authority to approach the issue in the most comprehensive manner."

One Weatherman Radical Caught

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI Wednesday arrested Linda Evans, first to be caught of 12 Weatherman radicals who have been the objects of a nationwide search in connection with Chicago rioting last October.

The 12 dropped from sight about a month ago.

Miss Evans, 22, banged her manacled wrists on the table as U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp ordered her held in $75,000 bail for a hearing Friday on charges of conspiring to incite riot in Chicago.

An FBI statement said she was specifically charged with traveling by interstate commerce from East Lansing to Chicago Oct. 8 with the intent to "organize and promote a riot" and that she spoke to an assembly at Covenant United Methodist Church in Evanston, Ill., Oct. 11 "for the purpose of inciting a riot."

She was picked up in Manhattan's East Village, hangout of many hippies and young radicals, with Thomas Niehman, 22, who was charged with assaulting an FBI agent while the arrests were being made.

Wings Had Good Season Despite Playoff Blanking

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

Who can justifiably knock the Detroit Red Wings this season, even on the tail of four straight losses to the Chicago Black Hawks who eliminated the Wings from the Stanley Cup playoffs?

What a season they had! Last year they finished fifth in the East Division of the National Hockey League, just nipping last place Chicago by one point. Detroit finished with 33 wins, 31 losees and 12 ties for 78 points.

This season, with basically the same team, the Wings finished third with a 40-21-15 record for 95 points and reached the playoffs for the first time since 1966. Ninety-five points! That's 17 more than last year and just three shy of tieing division champ Chicago.

"I'm pleased with all of them. I'm sure not going to knock them now hat they're knocked out of the playoffs," said Sid Abel, Detroit general manager-coach.

Abel didn't relish his dual job. He took over the coaching after Bill Gadsby was fired moments before the start of the third game this season.

As could be expected, Abel got another great season from Gordie Howe. The 42-year-old legend scored 31 goals and had 40 assists for 71 points—tops on the team.

Right behind him was Frank Mahovlich, the veteran forward who has found renewed hockey life in Detroit since being traded from Toronto 2½ seasons ago. He was second in team scoring, getting 70 points on 38 goals and 32 assists.

Before the season started Gadsby, now chief Wings scout, said he expected quite a bit from 22-year-old center Garry Unger. Unger responded with a fabulous 42 goals and 24 assists for 66 points.

Captain Alex Delvecchio talked of retiring but Abel said he doesn't expect the 19-year veteran to follow through, especially after a good year. Delvecchio was the third leading Wings scorer with 68 points on 21 goals and 47 assists.

Five Wings scored 20 goals or more: Howe, Mahovlich, Unger, Delvecchio, Pete Semkowski (25), Wayne Connelly (23), and Nick Libett (20).

Only Boston's Phil Esposito (43) scored more goals than Unger.

A major factor in Detroit success this season has been its ability to win on the road. The Wings collected 48 of their 95 points away from home to tie a single season NHL mark for games away. Detroit set the mark in the 1951-52 season and the Montreal Canadiens matched it in 1957-58 and 1968-69.

Howe has indicated he'll play at least one more year. And if Delvecchio stays the Wings could have another fine year next season.

The play of Unger and Libett was particularly encouraging since both have only played two full seasons. Rookie Al Karlander, who starred in college at Michigan Tech, was impressive in spots in sticking with the team after coming up from the Fort Worth farm club of the Central Hockey League.

Among the players in the minor leagues which may see a lot of action next season are Doug Volmar, Gerry Hart, Rick McCann, Fred Speck and Ed Hatoum. All were up with the parent club for a few games this season.

Defensively, Carl Brewer had a fine season after being persuaded out of retirement. It still isn't certain whether he'll be back.

Fellow defenseman Bob Baun, a hard-nosed veteran, had a good season and Dale Rolfe, acquired in a deal with Los Angeles, helped considerably.

Roy Edwards was continually sensational in the goal and teammate Roger Crozier had a good season. Edwards played in 47 regular games and had an average of 2.59 goals scored against. Crozier was in 34 with a 2.65 average.

State Sues Ludington, Five Firms For Spillage

LANSING (AP)—The state of Michigan filed suit today against the city of Ludington and five Ludington firms as a result of cyanide spills over the last 2½ years.

In an action filed in Mason County Circuit Court, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley asked preliminary injunctions requiring the city to enforce its sewer ordinance and ordering the firms to stop "discharging cyanide solution into the waters of the state."

Named in the suit are the city, Straits Steel & Wire Co., Ludington Plating Co., Handy Things Manufacturing Co., Atkinson Manufacturing Co., and Star Watchcase Co.

Kelley said that in the last 30 months, the firms have discharged "substantial quantities of cyanide solution into the sewer system and from there into the waters of the state of Michigan."

Kelley said the defendants "have failed to adopt sufficient safeguards and procedures for the keeping of, storing of and treatment of, cyanide solution in connection with the operation of the plating activities . . ."

"Such failure," he added, "can reasonably be expected to result in future discharges of cyanide solution so as to endanger the public health and safety."

He said that unless the discharge was prevented, there would be "a great danger of serious and irreparable harm."

In filing the suit, Kelley cited a state law which prohibits discharge of injurious substances into state waters.

Earlier this week, the State Health Department ordered the city to enforce its sewer ordinance. Tuesday, city officials gave Ludington's plating companies three days to provide temporary protection so that no leakage from their plants could enter the city's sewers.

The actions followed a March 15 incident in which some 1,500 gallons of cyanide solution spilled into the city sewer system and from there into Lake Michigan. The solution poured through a hole in a tank at the Straits Steel & Wire Co., Ludington officials said.

Douglas Said Unfit For Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — An impeachment resolution and call for a special investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas have reached the House in the wake of charges the 71-year-old jurist may be unfit for his post.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford touched off a vitriolic, parliamentary wrangle Wednesday night after asserting Douglas may be unfit to serve as a justice because of questionable outside interests and possible associations with underworld figures.

Ford threw his support to creation of a special House committee to study the Douglas case to see if there is cause for impeachment.

Under terms of a resolution proposed today, the special investigative panel would be required to submit its report in 90 days.

When Ford finished his speech Rep. Andrew Jacobs of Indiana, a liberal Democrat, said the GOP leader had a duty to file an impeachment resolution since he "has stated publicly that he favors impeachment of Justice Douglas."

"Since he (Ford) refuses to do so and since he raises grave questions, the answers to which I do not know, but every American is entitled to know," Jacobs told the House, "I introduce at this time the resolution of impeachment in order that a proper and dignified inquiry into this matter might be held."

Prayers Helping Astronaut Trio, Graham Claims

PARIS (AP) — Billy Graham said today he thinks prayer is helping to get the Apollo 13 astronauts safely back to earth.

Graham, here for a European conference on evangelism, said in a statement:

"At no time in history have so many people been praying in so many languages representing so many races and nationalities or a single event as for the successful return of our astronauts to earth. I think the reason it is going so much better than we thought a few hours ago is in answer to prayer."

Kopechne Inquest Account Still Remains Secret

BOSTON (AP) — Tangled in the courts, as it has been almost from the start, the inquest account of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile accident remains secret.

There may be word today on when the transcript of the inquiry into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Kennedy's car last July 18 will be issued.

The federal courts have rejected a stenographer's bid to block publication, but a Suffolk Superior Court judge has yet to rescind his order that the papers be withheld.

Judge Wilfred J. Paquet did not say when he would take the next legal step. His clerk, Edward V. Keating—who has custody of the papers now—said there might be a midday announcement.

The free lance stenographer who sought in court the exclusive right to sell copies of the inquest record based his case on Massachusetts custom and a 71-year-old legal opinion.

141 Americans Die During Past Week

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Command's spring offensive kept American battle losses at a seven-month high for the second successive week with 141 Americans killed in action last week, the U.S. Command reported today.

The toll was three more than the number killed the week before and the highest since the week of last Sept. 1-7, when 143 died in battle.

The number of Americans wounded fell by more than half, from 1,179 the previous week to 457. The decrease was attributed to a decline in the number of rocket and mortar attacks, which had increased sharply as enemy forces began their offensive on April 1.

The Saigon government said 542 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 1,336 wounded last week, compared with 754 killed and 1,716 wounded the week before. Enemy casualties rose to 3,458 killed from 3,366 the previous week, the U.S. Command said.

Protection Of Arctic Waters Worries U.S.

WASHINTON (AP) — Voicing concern over Canada's far-reaching claims over northern waters, the United States proposed Wednesday an international conference to set rules for environmental protection of the Arctic.

But if Canada is unwilling to await international agreement on Arctic pollution control, the United States offered meanwhile to submit U.S.-Canadian differences over the off-shore jurisdiction to the International Court of Justice.

The U.S. position was set forth in a State Department statement following a diplomatic protest delivered to the Canadian ambassador here Tuesday.

Press reports from Ottawa indicate the Canadian government has already turned down the U.S. protest.

The U.S. diplomatic move came on the heels of introduction by the Canadian government of proposed legislation that would give Canada broad control over waters reaching 100 miles into the Arctic Ocean off Canadian shores.

The avowed aim of the Canadian legislation is to curb pollution by ships and otherwise protect the environment.

"International law provides no basis for these proposed unilateral extensions of jurisdictions on the high seas, and the United States can neither accept nor acquiesce in the assertion of such jurisdiction," the U.S. statement said.

"We are concerned that this action by Canada, if not opposed by us, would be taken as precedent in other parts of the world for other unilateral infringements of the freedom of the seas."

The U.S. statement said if other countries followed Canada's example in claiming large ocean areas, merchant shipping would be severely hampered, naval mobility would be jeopardized and there could be grave international disputes.

At the same time, the statement said, the United States is acutely aware of the potential dangers of oil pollution to the Arctic environment.

"We believe the Arctic beyond national jurisdiction should be subject to internationally agreed rules protecting its assets, both living and non-living," the statement said.

The United States claims only a three-mile offshore territorial water for itself but is willing to recognize claims of others up to 12 miles offshore, provided ships have right of international passage through those waters.

Market Showing Downward Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped early today with declining issues on the New York Stock exchange leading gainers by a hair's breadth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 10:30 a.m. was behind 0.66 at 781.94.

Factors which account for the market's lackluster tone include:

—The massive offering of debentures and warrants by American Telephone & Telegraph that began Monday. Apparently has drained capital from the stock market.

—Pessimism stemming from disappointing earnings reports of many companies.

—The threat of higher taxes raised Wednesday by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy. He said additional taxation might be necessary if fiscal restraint was eased.

Use Of Foliage Killer Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of spraying millions of acres in Vietnam, the Pentagon is suspending war use of the controversial defoliant 2,4,5-T.

The move was ordered Wednesday as the departments of Agriculture, and Health, Education and Welfare announced a ban on domestic use of the powerful weed killer around homes, water areas and food crops.

Tests indicated that 2,4,5-T, or Herbicide Orange as the military calls it, caused cancer in laboratory mice injected with the chemical.

Officials said newly available information "indicates that 2,4,5-T as well as its contaminant, dioxins, may produce abnormal developments in unborn animals."

The Pentagon said it has found no evidence the herbicide had caused birth defects among the South Vietnamese but said the HEW-Agriculture decision showed that 2,4,5-T warranted further scrutiny.

Arms Talks Begin In Vienna Today

VIENNA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union opened talks today to see if they can check the nuclear arms race. President Nixon told the Russians he hopes the nuclear missile arsenals of the superpowers can be first limited and then reduced.

The two delegations opened the substantive round of the strategic arms limitation talks —SALT— at a ceremony in the ornate, historic Belvedere Palace. They had arranged the negotiations at a preliminary round in Helsinki during the winter.

Chief U.S. Delegate Gerard Smith read a message from Nixon pledging his "firm commitment to the search for an early, equitable, verifiable agreement. The President said he had given Smith "authority to approach the issue in the most comprehensive manner."

One Weatherman Radical Caught

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI Wednesday arrested Linda Evans, first to be caught of 12 Weatherman radicals who have been the objects of a nationwide search in connection with Chicago rioting last October.

The 12 dropped from sight about a month ago.

Miss Evans, 22, banged her manacled wrists on the table as U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp ordered her held in $75,000 bail for a hearing Friday on charges of conspiring to incite riot in Chicago.

An FBI statement said she was specifically charged with traveling by interstate commerce from East Lansing to Chicago Oct. 8 with the intent to "organize and promote a riot" and that she spoke to an assembly at Covenant United Methodist Church in Evanston, Ill., Oct. 11 "for the purpose of inciting a riot."

She was picked up in Manhattan's East Village, hangout of many hippies and young radicals, with Thomas Niehman, 22, who was charged with assaulting an FBI agent while the arrests were being made.

Wings Had Good Season Despite Playoff Blanking

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

Who can justifiably knock the Detroit Red Wings this season, even on the tail of four straight losses to the Chicago Black Hawks who eliminated the Wings from the Stanley Cup playoffs?

What a season they had! Last year they finished fifth in the East Division of the National Hockey League, just nipping last place Chicago by one point. Detroit finished with 33 wins, 31 losees and 12 ties for 78 points.

This season, with basically the same team, the Wings finished third with a 40-21-15 record for 95 points and reached the playoffs for the first time since 1966. Ninety-five points! That's 17 more than last year and just three shy of tieing division champ Chicago.

"I'm pleased with all of them. I'm sure not going to knock them now hat they're knocked out of the playoffs," said Sid Abel, Detroit general manager-coach.

Abel didn't relish his dual job. He took over the coaching after Bill Gadsby was fired moments before the start of the third game this season.

As could be expected, Abel got another great season from Gordie Howe. The 42-year-old legend scored 31 goals and had 40 assists for 71 points—tops on the team.

Right behind him was Frank Mahovlich, the veteran forward who has found renewed hockey life in Detroit since being traded from Toronto 2½ seasons ago. He was second in team scoring, getting 70 points on 38 goals and 32 assists.

Before the season started Gadsby, now chief Wings scout, said he expected quite a bit from 22-year-old center Garry Unger. Unger responded with a fabulous 42 goals and 24 assists for 66 points.

Captain Alex Delvecchio talked of retiring but Abel said he doesn't expect the 19-year veteran to follow through, especially after a good year. Delvecchio was the third leading Wings scorer with 68 points on 21 goals and 47 assists.

Five Wings scored 20 goals or more: Howe, Mahovlich, Unger, Delvecchio, Pete Semkowski (25), Wayne Connelly (23), and Nick Libett (20).

Only Boston's Phil Esposito (43) scored more goals than Unger.

A major factor in Detroit success this season has been its ability to win on the road. The Wings collected 48 of their 95 points away from home to tie a single season NHL mark for games away. Detroit set the mark in the 1951-52 season and the Montreal Canadiens matched it in 1957-58 and 1968-69.

Howe has indicated he'll play at least one more year. And if Delvecchio stays the Wings could have another fine year next season.

The play of Unger and Libett was particularly encouraging since both have only played two full seasons. Rookie Al Karlander, who starred in college at Michigan Tech, was impressive in spots in sticking with the team after coming up from the Fort Worth farm club of the Central Hockey League.

Among the players in the minor leagues which may see a lot of action next season are Doug Volmar, Gerry Hart, Rick McCann, Fred Speck and Ed Hatoum. All were up with the parent club for a few games this season.

Defensively, Carl Brewer had a fine season after being persuaded out of retirement. It still isn't certain whether he'll be back.

Fellow defenseman Bob Baun, a hard-nosed veteran, had a good season and Dale Rolfe, acquired in a deal with Los Angeles, helped considerably.

Roy Edwards was continually sensational in the goal and teammate Roger Crozier had a good season. Edwards played in 47 regular games and had an average of 2.59 goals scored against. Crozier was in 34 with a 2.65 average.

Homer-Happy Braves Overpower San Diego

By The Associated Press

The homer-happy Atlanta Braves have Manager Luman Harris punchy but that's nothing compared to the Kayo Mike Torrez delivered over the Montreal Expos with his arm and bat.

The Braves tagged two more four-baggers Wednesday night, stretching their start of season homer streak to nine games and downing San Diego 7-5. Torrez meanwhile, limited Montreal to an eighth inning single and stroked three of his own, leading St. Louis to a 10-0 romp over the Expos.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings, Cincinnati shaded Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago dropped Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had the day off.

Orlando Cepeda tagged three hits including a homer and Clete Boyer also hit one as the Braves continued their long-ball assault on enemy pitchers. They are four games short of matching the record for homers in consecutive games at the start of a season set by the Chicago Cubs in 1954.

It was on ordinary single by Cepeda that broke the tie against the Padres in the seventh inning. Then Bob Priddy came out of the bullpen in the ninth to nail down the victory for George Stone, who gave up two homers to Nate Colbert and one to Clarence Gaston early in the game.

"We're in a rut on home run balls," said Harris, who has seen his team hit 11 homers and his pitchers surrender 13 in the first nine games. "I've seen them hit everywhere, right, center, left, domed stadium, cowpasture, it doesn't make any difference. We must be playing with those 5-X balls."

The Braves may be using the lively ball but Torrez certainly wasn't throwing one at Montreal. The tall Cardinal righthander gave the Expos nothing until Adolfo Phillips singled in the eighth for Montreal's only hit.

Meanwhile, Torrez cracked three singles and was involved in all of the Cardinals' scoring innings. His hit touched off a four-run third and he drove in a run in the fifth with another single. Then, he was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and the Cards wrapped up the victory with four more runs, three of them on Richie Allen's homer.

It was the 11th straight victory over two seasons for Torrez, a hard-throwing right-hander.

John Mayberry poled a pair of home runs and Houston pushed across a run in the 10th on Jim Beauchamp's single to beat San Francisco. Joe Pepitone also homered for the Astros while Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz connected for the Giants.

Mayberry's three-run shot in the eighth tied the score and then the rookie was hit by a pitch leading off the 10th and moved around to score on hits by John Edwards and Beauchamp.

Bobby Tolan's two-run single capped a three-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning and the Reds held on to edge the Dodgers. Jim Merritt was working on a shutout until the ninth when Andy Kosco jolted a two-run homer. After Wes Parker doubled, Clay Carroll came out of the bullpen to get the final out.

Billy Williams, shackled by an 0-for-19 slump at the start of the season, snapped out of it in a hurry with four straight hits including his 250th career homer as the Cubs beat the Phillies.

"You never can stop a hitter like Williams for long," said Chicago Manger Leo Durocher. "Billy now is liable to stay hot for another two weeks."

ABA Ends Third Season; Haywood Breaks Record

By The Associated Press

The American Basketball Association, the so-called Lively League, wound up its third regular season Wednesday night with Indiana and Denver, the East and West Division champs respectively, each posting victories.

In addition, Spencer Haywood of Denver set an ABA single game scoring record of 59 points.

The ABA playoffs, for the first four teams in each division, start Friday night. If each of the playoff series goes the full seven-game route, June will be close to busting out before the champion is crowned.

Indiana downed Miami 118-111, New York trimmed Kentucky 123-112, New Orleans defeated Dallas 154-127, Denver beat Los Angeles 152-116 and Pittsburgh thrashed Carolina 132-110.

Los Angeles' loss dropped the Stars from a third-place tie with Washington but the Stars still made the playoffs; finishing a full game ahead of New Orleans, which had led the Western Division for the first half of the season but now will miss the ABA playoffs for the first time.

Here's now the playoffs shape up:

In the East, Indiana plays Carolina and Kentucky duels New York. The West semifinals send Denver against Washington and Los Angeles aginst Dallas.

Haywood, Denver's celebrated rookie, got his league record 59 points against Los Angeles on 23 field goals and a perfect 13-of-13 from the foul line. He broke the old ABA single game high of 57 points set by Connie Hawkins of Minnesota against the New York Nets on Nov. 27, 1968.

Altogether, Haywood finished the regular season with 2,519 points. He also snared 25 rebounds to become the league's No. 1 rebounder as well as scorer. His rebounds for the regular season were 1,637.

Mike Lewis scored 26 points to lead Pittsburgh over the Cougars. The Pipers wiped out an eight-point deficit after the first period and went ahead for good on Lewis' jump shot in the second quarter at 48-46.

New York rallied from a seven-point halftime deficit to beat Kentucky, the team the Nets meet in the playoffs. New York had 6-foot-9 center Ed Johnson back in action for the first time in two weeks, Johnson, sidelined with a knee injury, came off the bench in the second half, scoring 13 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Laven Tart was high for New York while Gene Moore led Kentucky with 28.

The Nets annunced their season attendance at home, for 42 games, was 142,832, compared to 42,811 a year ago when the team played 39 home games.

Rookie Hurls Chisox To Victory Over A's

By The Associated Press

Gerald Janeski, a scholarly Chicago White Sox rookie who enjoys flying kites as a hobby, did a job on Oakland in grounding the hard-hitting A's on a masterful pitching performance.

The 23-year-old right-hander, obtained from the Boston Red Sox in spring training as a replacement in the Gary Peters deal, stifled the A's Wednesday night for his second straight major league victory and first complete game.

Janeski, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder, scattered three hits and only walked one while striking out two in the White Sox' 7-0 blanking of the A's. Janeski, 15-10 with Louisville of the American Association last year, owns two of Chicago's three virories this season.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Minnesota tripped California 8-2 and Boston stopped New York 6-2. The Washington at Baltimore twi-night doubleheader was postponed by bad weather.

Janeski, two days shy of his 24th birthday, beat Milwaukee last Friday in his major league debut.

Wednesday night, the rookie, who says he read about 30 books last year at Louisville and intends to make it 40 this year, got long-ball support off the bats of John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Les Josephson, each slamming homers, and a two-run double by Carlos May.

Roberto Pena stroked two of the hits off Janeski—a double in the third inning and a single in the eighth--and Rick Monday had a ninth-inning single.

Janeski, a sinker baller, impressed Manager Don Gutteridge in three spring outings. "I think we've got a pitcher there," Gutteridge said of his kite-flying youngster. "The more I see of him the more I like him."

Janeski figures he got a break when the White Sox obtained him from Boston and the California State College student means to make the most of it However, he misses former teammate Billy Conigliaro, now with the Red Sox. Conigliaro was his kite flying partner.

"Some people see you flying a kite and they think you're crazy," Janeski says. But who says you can't fly a kite? And anyway, Chicago should be good kite flying territory."

Unbeaten Minnesota, held to one hit through five innings, exploded for eight runs in the sixth off Angels' loser Andy Messersmith. The big inning was keyed by Brant Alyea's grand slam homer, his third blast of the year and 11th run batted in.

The Twins, winning for the fourth time, also got homers from Leo Cardenas and Cesar Tovar. Jay Johnstone connected for the Angeles, who lost for the second straight time after five straight triumphs.

Jim Lonborg cracked his second major league home run and checked the Yankees with late relief help from Sparky Lyle.

Lonborg had a three-hit shutout for seven innings before tiring and giving up both Yanks runs.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 edge in the first inning on Carl Yastrzemski's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by George Scott and increased it on Gerry Moses' scoring single and RBI by Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli before Lanborg's sixth inning homer.

Red Wings Name New Coach Today

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings get a new coach today, with the most prominent speculation put on Ned Harkness, who led Cornell University into an unbeaten hockey season.

A Cornell University spokesman said at Ithaca, N.Y., that the university, "has made substantial offers to keep Harkness here." However, he said that Harkness was in Detroit Wednesday night.

The Red Wings said that the new coach would be announced at a news conference.

The new coach will succeed Sid Abel, who will devote his full time to duties as general manager of the National Hockey League club. Abel and Red Wings president Bruce A. Norris were to introduce the new coach.

Abel took over the coaching reins at the start of the third game of the season, replacing Bill Gadsby, who was relieved as coach. Abel coached the Red Wings to third place in the NHL's East Division. However, they lost four straight games to Chicago and were eliminated from the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

The Detroit Free Press said that indications are that Harkness would get the nod. The Ithaca, N.Y., Journal also said that Harkness was "leaning heavily" toward accepting the Red Wings post.

A Red Wings spokesman refused any comment on the reports.

Among other persons who have been mentioned are Doug Barkley, coach of the Red Wings' Fort Worth club; former Red Wing Ted Lindsay, and Murray Armstrong, coach at the University of Denver.

Senior Men's Pool Champ Crowned

Pat Rogers became the 1970 Senior Men's Pool Champ last night by topping an eighteen-man field to capture the crown. Rogers set the pace in the opening round by bumping last year's Champ, John D'Antonio 2-0. Pat continued his winning ways by defeating Dennis Weber 2-1, Ken Robitaille 2-1, and then shutting out Kari Hannula 2-0 in the championship match.

Second place went to Kari Hannula, who picked up wins over Steve King 2-0, Guy Provo 2-1, and Rich Bougie 2-1, before bowing to Rogers.

Rich Bougie won the Consolation Match by defeating Ken Robitaille 2-0 for third place honors. Bougie had previously defeated Dan Gouin 2-1, and Kim Oliver 2-0, and bowed to Hannula 1-2, before besting Robitaille in the battle for third.

Ken Robitaille finished fourth on wins over Jim Bougie 2-0, and Dick Lewis 2-0; a 1-2 loss to Pat Rogers, and the Consolation loss to Rich Bougie.

Tournament action will conclude tomorrow night with the Girls Open Class Pool Matches, which get underway at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Stanley Cup Play Resumes Tonight

By The Associated Press

Boston and St. Louis, each with 3-2 series leads, try to wrap up their respective Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals tonight but the home ice advantage has prevailed in both series and the Bruins and the Blues are both on the road.

If the trend continues, however, that means New York and Minnesota will triumph, sending each series into a seventh and deciding game.

Boston and New York have already piled up a Stanley Cup record of 346 minutes in penalties, the bulk in their first four games.

The Bruins won the first two games in Boston Garden with the Rangers bouncing back to even the series with two victories in Madison Square Garden. In the fifth game, Tuesday night at Boston, the Bruins rallied on a pair of third-period goals by Phil Esposito for a 3-2 decision.

Magnificent Bobby Orr and Esposito, the Bruins' 1-2 punch throughout the season, have been Boston's mainstays in the playoffs.

For the Rangers, tonight's three periods will be the most critical ones they've faced all season long—even more so than the final regular season game when they clinched fourth place and a playoff berth in the East Division.

Minnesota will be trying to continue its season of comebacks when it meets St. Louis. The North Stars gained the playoffs with four straight triumphs in the final week of regular season play after a period earlier which saw them win only once in 34 outings.

"We've come too far to quit now," said Bill Goldsworthy, Minnesota's leading scorer.

But the Blues have different ideas. "There's no sense in prolonging it anymore," said St. Louis center Phil Goyette.

Pittsburgh and Chicago already have won Stanley Cup quarter-final series, each team wrapping it up in four games. Pittsburgh will meet the St. Louis-Minnesota survivor while the Black Hawks play the winner of the Bruins-Rangers series.

Esposito and Chicago's Bobby Hull are the leading Stanley Cup playoff scorers to date, each with nine points, followed by Orr and New York's Rod Gilbert with eight each.

Homer-Happy Braves Overpower San Diego

By The Associated Press

The homer-happy Atlanta Braves have Manager Luman Harris punchy but that's nothing compared to the Kayo Mike Torrez delivered over the Montreal Expos with his arm and bat.

The Braves tagged two more four-baggers Wednesday night, stretching their start of season homer streak to nine games and downing San Diego 7-5. Torrez meanwhile, limited Montreal to an eighth inning single and stroked three of his own, leading St. Louis to a 10-0 romp over the Expos.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings. Cincinnati shaded Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago dropped Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had the day off.

Orlando Cepeda tagged three hits including a homer and Clete Boyer also hit one as the Braves continued their long-ball assault on enemy pitchers. They are four games short of matching the record for homers in consecutive games at the start of a season set by the Chicago Cubs in 1954.

It was on ordinary single by Cepeda that broke the tie against the Padres in the seventh inning. Then Bob Priddy came out of the bullpen in the ninth to nail down the victory for George Stone, who gave up two homers to Nate Colbert and one to Clarence Gaston early in the game.

"We're in a rut on home run balls," said Harris, who has seen his team hit 11 homers and his pitchers surrender 13 in the first nine games. "I've seen them hit everywhere, right, center, left, domed stadium, cow-pasture, it doesn't make any difference. We must be playing with those 5-X balls."

The Braves may be using the lively ball but Torrez certainly wasn't throwing one at Montreal. The tall Cardinal right-hander gave the Expos nothing until Adolfo Phillips singled in the eighth for Montreal's only hit.

Meanwhile, Torrez cracked three singles and was involved in all of the Cardinals' scoring innings. His hit touched off a four-run third and he drove in a run in the fifth with another single. Then, he was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and the Cards wrapped up the victory with four more runs, three of them on Richie Allen's homer.

It was the 11th straight victory over two seasons for Torrez, a hard-throwing right-hander.

John Mayberry poled a pair of home runs and Houston pushed across a run in the 10th on Jim Beauchamp's single to beat San Francisco. Joe Pepitone also homered for the Astros while Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz connected for the Giants.

Mayberry's three-run shot in the eighth tied the score and then the rookie was hit by a pitch leading off the 10th and moved around to score on hits by John Edwards and Beauchamp.

Bobby Tolan's two-run single capped a three-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning and the Reds held on to edge the Dodgers. Jim Merritt was working on a shutout until the ninth when Andy Kosco jolted a two-run homer. After Wes Parker doubled, Clay Carroll came out of the bullpen to get the final out.

Billy Williams, shackled by an 0-for-19 slump at the start of the season, snapped out of it in a hurry with four straight hits including his 250th career homer as the Cubs beat the Phillies.

"You never can stop a hitter like Williams for long," said Chicago Manger Leo Durocher. "Billy now is liable to stay hot for another two weeks."

ABA Ends Third Season; Haywood Breaks Record

By The Associated Press

The American Basketball Association, the so-called Lively League, wound up its third regular season Wednesday night with Indiana and Denver, the East and West Division champs respectively, each posting victories.

In addition, Spencer Haywood of Denver set an ABA single game scoring record of 59 points.

The ABA playoffs, for the first four teams in each division, start Friday night. If each of the playoff series goes the full seven-game route, June will be close to busting out before the champion is crowned.

Indiana downed Miami 118-111, New York trimmed Kentucky 123-112, New Orleans defeated Dallas 154-127, Denver beat Los Angeles 152-116 and Pittsburgh thrashed Carolina 132-110.

Los Angeles' loss dropped the Stars from a third-place tie with Washington but the Stars still made the playoffs; finishing a full game ahead of New Orleans, which had led the Western Division for the first half of the season but now will miss the ABA playoffs for the first time.

Here's now the playoffs shape up:

In the East, Indiana plays Carolina and Kentucky duels New York. The West semifinals send Denver against Washington and Los Angeles aginst Dallas.

Haywood, Denver's celebrated rookie, got his league record 59 points against Los Angeles on 23 field goals and a perfect 13-of-13 from the foul line. He broke the old ABA single game high of 57 points set by Connie Hawkins of Minnesota against the New York Nets on Nov. 27, 1968.

Altogether, Haywood finished the regular season with 2,519 points. He also snared 25 rebounds to become the league's No. 1 rebounder as well as scorer. His rebounds for the regular season were 1,637.

Mike Lewis scored 26 points to lead Pittsburgh over the Cougars. The Pipers wiped out an eight-point deficit after the first period and went ahead for good on Lewis' jump shot in the second quarter at 48-46.

New York rallied from a seven-point halftime deficit to beat Kentucky, the team the Nets meet in the playoffs. New York had 6-foot-9 center Ed Johnson back in action for the first time in two weeks, Johnson, sidelined with a knee injury, came off the bench in the second half, scoring 13 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Laven Tart was high for New York while Gene Moore led Kentucky with 28.

The Nets annunced their season attendance at home, for 42 games, was 142,832, compared to 42,811 a year ago when the team played 39 home games.

Rookie Hurls Chisox To Victory Over A's

By The Associated Press

Gerald Janeski, a scholarly Chicago White Sox rookie who enjoys flying kites as a hobby, did a job on Oakland in grounding the hard-hitting A's on a masterful pitching performance.

The 23-year-old right-hander, obtained from the Boston Red Sox in spring training as a replacement in the Gary Peters deal, stifled the A's Wednesday night for his second straight major league victory and first complete game.

Janeski, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder, scattered three hits and only walked one while striking out two in the White Sox' 7-0 blanking of the A's. Janeski, 15-10 with Louisville of the American Association last year, owns two of Chicago's three virories this season.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Minnesota tripped California 8-2 and Boston stopped New York 6-2. The Washington at Baltimore twi-night doubleheader was postponed by bad weather.

Janeski, two days shy of his 24th birthday, beat Milwaukee last Friday in his major league debut.

Wednesday night, the rookie, who says he read about 30 books last year at Louisville and intends to make it 40 this year, got long-ball support off the bats of John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Les Josephson, each slamming homers, and a two-run double by Carlos May.

Roberto Pena stroked two of the hits off Janeski—a double in the third inning and a single in the eighth—and Rick Monday had a ninth-inning single.

Janeski, a sinker baller, impressed Manager Don Gutteridge in three spring outings. "I think we've got a pitcher there," Gutteridge said of his kite-flying youngster. "The more I see of him the more I like him."

Janeski figures he got a break when the White Sox obtained him from Boston and the California State College student means to make the most of it However, he misses former teammate Billy Conigliaro, now with the Red Sox. Conigliaro was his kite flying partner.

"Some people see you flying a kite and they think you're crazy," Janeski says. But who says you can't fly a kite? And anyway, Chicago should be good kite flying territory."

Unbeaten Minnesota, held to one hit through five innings, exploded for eight runs in the sixth off Angels' loser Andy Messersmith. The big inning was keyed by Brant Alyea's grand slam homer, his third blast of the year and 11th run batted in.

The Twins, winning for the fourth time, also got homers from Leo Cardenas and Cesar Tovar. Jay Johnstone connected for the Angeles, who lost for the second straight time after five straight triumphs.

Jim Lonborg cracked his second major league home run and checked the Yankees with late relief help from Sparky Lyle.

Lonborg had a three-hit shutout for seven innings before tiring and giving up both Yanks runs.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 edge in the first inning on Carl Yastrzemski's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by George Scott and increased it on Gerry Moses' scoring single and RBI by Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli before Lanborg's sixth inning homer.

Red Wings Name New Coach Today

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings get a new coach today, with the most prominent speculation put on Ned Harkness, who led Cornell University into an unbeaten hockey season.

A Cornell University spokesman said at Ithaca, N.Y., that the university, "has made substantial offers to keep Harkness here." However, he said that Harkness was in Detroit Wednesday night.

The Red Wings said that the new coach would be announced at a news conference.

The new coach will succeed Sid Abel, who will devote his full time to duties as general manager of the National Hockey League club. Abel and Red Wings president Bruce A. Norris were to introduce the new coach.

Abel took over the coaching reins at the start of the third game of the season, replacing Bill Gadsby, who was relieved as coach. Abel coached the Red Wings to third place in the NHL's East Division. However, they lost four straight games to Chicago and were eliminated from the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

The Detroit Free Press said that indications are that Harkness would get the nod. The Ithaca, N.Y., Journal also said that Harkness was "leaning heavily" toward accepting the Red Wings post.

A Red Wings spokesman refused any comment on the reports.

Among other persons who have been mentioned are Doug Barkley, coach of the Red Wings' Fort Worth club; former Red Wing Ted Lindsay, and Murray Armstrong, coach at the University of Denver.

Senior Men's Pool Champ Crowned

Pat Rogers became the 1970 Senior Men's Pool Champ last night by topping an eighteen-man field to capture the crown. Rogers set the pace in the opening round by bumping last year's Champ, John D'Antonio 2-0. Pat continued his winning ways by defeating Dennis Weber 2-1, Ken Robitaille 2-1, and then shutting out Kari Hannula 2-0 in the championship match.

Second place went to Kari Hannula, who picked up wins over Steve King 2-0, Guy Provo 2-1, and Rich Bougie 2-1, before bowing to Rogers.

Rich Bougie won the Consolation Match by defeating Ken Robitaille 2-0 for third place honors. Bougie had previously defeated Dan Gouin 2-1, and Kim Oliver 2-0, and bowed to Hannula 1-2, before besting Robitaille in the battle for third.

Ken Robitaille finished fourth on wins over Jim Bougie 2-0, and Dick Lewis 2-0; a 1-2 loss to Pat Rogers, and the Consolation loss to Rich Bougie.

Tournament action will conclude tomorrow night with the Girls Open Class Pool Matches, which get underway at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Stanley Cup Play Resumes Tonight

By The Associated Press

Boston and St. Louis, each with 3-2 series leads, try to wrap up their respective Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals tonight but the home ice advantage has prevailed in both series and the Bruins and the Blues are both on the road.

If the trend continues, however, that means New York and Minnesota will triumph, sending each series into a seventh and deciding game.

Boston and New York have already piled up a Stanley Cup record of 346 minutes in penalties, the bulk in their first four games.

The Bruins won the first two games in Boston Garden with the Rangers bouncing back to even the series with two victories in Madison Square Garden. In the fifth game, Tuesday night at Boston, the Bruins rallied on a pair of third-period goals by Phil Esposito for a 3-2 decision.

Magnificent Bobby Orr and Esposito, the Bruins' 1-2 punch throughout the season, have been Boston's mainstays in the playoffs.

For the Rangers, tonight's three periods will be the most critical ones they've faced all season long—even more so than the final regular season game when they clinched fourth place and a playoff berth in the East Division.

Minnesota will be trying to continue its season of comebacks when it meets St. Louis. The North Stars gained the playoffs with four straight triumphs in the final week of regular season play after a period earlier which saw them win only once in 34 outings.

"We've come too far to quit now," said Bill Goldsworthy, Minnesota's leading scorer.

But the Blues have different ideas. "There's no sense in prolonging it anymore," said St. Louis center Phil Goyette.

Pittsburgh and Chicago already have won Stanley Cup quarter-final series, each team wrapping it up in four games. Pittsburgh will meet the St. Louis-Minnesota survivor while the Black Hawks play the winner of the Bruins-Rangers series.

Esposito and Chicago's Bobby Hull are the leading Stanley Cup playoff scorers to date, each with nine points, followed by Orr and New York's Rod Gilbert with eight each.

Tigers Doing OK With Gutierrez

DETROIT (AP) — Near the end of last season, the Detroit Tigers, hurting at their perennially weak position of shortstop, acquired an unheard of Venezuelan, Cesar Gutierrez, from the San Francisco Giants.

Fans were surprised when manager Mayo Smith, talking about Tiger prospects, said Gutierrez would be the No. 1 shortstop, ahead of Tom Tresh.

But Gutierrez got his biggest publicity when his arrival at at the Tiger spring training camp was delayed because of a hassle with Venezuelan immigration people.

But Gutierrez is making himself known now. With 30 at bats, he is hitting for a .333 average and hopes to keep up the pace.

"Why not?" he asked in his trained English. "I always hit the ball good."

The Tigers, idle Wednesday, take on Cleveland at home today, with Earl Wilson, 0-2, scheduled to go against Dean Chance, 1-0.

"I don't do nothing different here than I do in Triple A," Gutierrez said, describing his new-found success at the plate.

"I just try to meet the ball and hit it someplace. That's the same thing I always did."

Gutierrez indicated he was tired of always being dumped down into the minors, as happened several times in his career with the Giants.

"When I came to Detroit, I think this is my last shot," he said. "And when I come to camp I want to make it a good shot. I just want to hit the ball like I always do."

Tigers Doing OK With Gutierrez

DETROIT (AP) — Near the end of last season, the Detroit Tigers, hurting at their perennially weak position of shortstop, acquired an unheard of Venezuelan, Cesar Gutierrez, from the San Francisco Giants.

Fans were surprised when manager Mayo Smith, talking about Tiger prospects, said Gutierrez would be the No. 1 shortstop, ahead of Tom Tresh.

But Gutierrez got his biggest publicity when his arrival at at the Tiger spring training camp was delayed because of a hassle with Venezuelan immigration people.

But Gutierrez is making himself known now. With 30 at bats, he is hitting for a .333 average and hopes to keep up the pace.

"Why not?" he asked in his trained English. "I always hit the ball good."

The Tigers, idle Wednesday, take on Cleveland at home today, with Earl Wilson, 0-2, scheduled to go against Dean Chance, 1-0.

"I don't do nothing different here than I do in Triple A," Gutierrez said, describing his new-found success at the plate.

"I just try to meet the ball and hit it someplace. That's the same thing I always did."

Gutierrez indicated he was tired of always being dumped down into the minors, as happened several times in his career with the Giants.

"When I came to Detroit, I think this is my last shot," he said. "And when I come to camp I want to make it a good shot. I just want to hit the ball like I always do."

Job Awarded Marine Firm

MARQUETTE — Gallagher Marine Co. of Escanaba and Engineered Buildings of Marquette will do the work on Marquette's Presque Isle Marina.

The city commission meeting Monday night, awarded contracts to the two companies as follows:

Gallagher Marine, $277,523.40 for the water portion of the project; and Engineered Buildings, $108,596 for the land portion of the project, including the central building. Engineered Buildings quoted $125,142.60, with $730 for city alternates.

Eight bids were received by the city on the project, which is to be funded 50 per cent by the federal government, 40 per cent by the state and 10 per cent by the city.

City Manager Thomas R. McNabb pointed out that the low bids by Gallagher and Engineered Buildings totaled $402,666.

State Motorists Favor Inspection, License Testing

LANSING (AP) — Michigan motorists favor an annual automobile inspection and a written test for driver's license renewal applicants, according to a poll announced by Secretary of State James Hare.

Hare said 5,365 drivers responded to the poll at 16 department offices in 14 counties over a three-month period.

He said the inspection idea was favored by 89 per cent and the renewal test by 64 per cent.

The poll also said 88 per cent felt most drivers tend to overrate their driving ability; 65 per cent felt most drivers are usually polite and helpful on the road; and more than 50 per cent felt driving too slow is more dangerous than driving too fast.

House Okays Lower Voting Age To 18

LANSING (AP)—The question of lowering the voting age to 18 will be on the ballot again this fall, if the Michigan Senate goes along with the House.

Taking only 15 minutes to dispose of the matter, the House voted 83-10 Wednesday to put the question to voters. A similar proposal was beaten at the polls four years ago.

A two-thirds majority was required in the House to approve the resolution, which calls for a constitutional amendment. There was surprisingly little debate.

Senate Action Awaited

Measures to lower the voting age are pending in the Senate.

The House also approved and recommended immediate effect for a bill to ease the problem of housing for low and moderate-income families.

The bill, which goes to the Senate, permits the State Housing Authority to make grants to local communities for land acquisition and renewal. It also establishes a fund to be used in buying property for housing developments, planning other developments and paying taxes and other charges. Other features include loan provisions and authority for development of private corporations organized "exclusively" to provide housing for low and moderate-income families.

Limited Return

These corporations would be granted a "limited" return on their investments.

Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, said in prepared remarks "our statewide housing shortage and the growing decay of our cities require that state government play a larger role in the provision of decent housing and related services."

He added:

"By now it has clearly been demonstrated that the private sector either cannot or will not build enough housing to accommodate the needs of these people. State government, therefore, has no alternative but to step up its attack on the problem and assume greater responsibility for making sure that adequate numbers of housing units are, in fact, built."

Kildee did not deliver his remarks. The House went to a vote with little comment and passed the measure 80-9.

It appeared briefly as if consideration of the 18-year-old vote resolution would be set over for another day.

Trailer Park Measure Due

LANSING (AP)—A bill to give trailer park residents the same protections as other renters probably will come out of committee in about 10 days, says says the sponsor.

Rep. Vincent Petitpren, D-Westland, said no opposition was presented when some three dozen witnesses appeared at a hearing of the House Judiciary Committee.

Petitpren says he hopes to tie his bill to another measure which would tax trailer homes on the basis of value, rather than the present $3 monthly fee in lieu of taxes.

Under this tactic, there would have to be approval of both measures in order for either to pass. The tax measure has received a favorable recommendation from the House Taxation Committee.

Petitpren said that based on conversations with mobile home owners, he feels "they don't object to paying their fair share of taxes as long as they have equal rights."

For many mobile home owners, the tax bill would bring a sharp increase in payments to support public services.

Petitpren argued that those who rent or lease space in a park do not now enjoy the same protection as a building tenant covered by the tenants rights act.

Trailer park management, Petitpren says, can assume complete control over utilities and roads on the property and specify which repairmen may or may not be hired. Also, he says, the management may evict a person for any number of reasons.

He estimated some 70 persons attended the Tuesday night hearing.

Reuther To Face Voting Challenge

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther's re-election to the presidency of the 1.8-million-member United Auto Workers Union is to be challenged next week by a long-time and often-defeated critic, Art Fox of Ford Local 600 of Detroit, the union's largest local.

Fox is local bargaining committeeman for the tool and die department of Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge complex in suburban Dearborn. Local 600 has 31,000 members.

Reuther's re-election last was challenged in 1949, by W. G. Grant, then Local 600 financial secretary, who lost 8,021 to 639.

Asked if he planned a campaign, now that he has opposition, Reuther said: "No. If I campaigned, it would indicate I am in trouble. I don't think I'm in any trouble."

Job Awarded Marine Firm

MARQUETTE — Gallagher Marine Co. of Escanaba and Engineered Buildings of Marquette will do the work on Marquette's Presque Isle Marina.

The city commission meeting Monday night, awarded contracts to the two companies as follows:

Gallagher Marine, $277,523.40 for the water portion of the project; and Engineered Buildings, $108,596 for the land portion of the project, including the central building. Engineered Buildings quoted $125,142.60, with $730 for city alternates.

Eight bids were received by the city on the project, which is to be funded 50 per cent by the federal government, 40 per cent by the state and 10 per cent by the city.

City Manager Thomas R. McNabb pointed out that the low bids by Gallagher and Engineered Buildings totaled $402,666.

State Motorists Favor Inspection, License Testing

LANSING (AP) — Michigan motorists favor an annual automobile inspection and a written test for driver's license renewal applicants, according to a poll announced by Secretary of State James Hare.

Hare said 5,365 drivers responded to the poll at 16 department offices in 14 counties over a three-month period.

He said the inspection idea was favored by 89 per cent and the renewal test by 64 per cent.

The poll also said 88 per cent felt most drivers tend to overrate their driving ability; 65 per cent felt most drivers are usually polite and helpful on the road; and more than 50 per cent felt driving too slow is more dangerous than driving too fast.

Critical Maneuvers Face Astronauts

Temperatures Near Freezing In Apollo

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Temperatures were near freezing in the Apollo spacecraft today. It was uncomfortable for the astronauts but the cold was not expected to harm them or cause further damage to their disabled craft.

The command ship Odyssey has been slowly chilling since the astronauts shut off the power to save electricity after Apollo 13's emergency developed Monday night.

Lovell Notices Change

Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell Jr. noticed it first.

He awoke shivering out of a deep sleep in the darkness of the command module Tuesday.

Superb insulation kept the command ship fairly warm for more than a day, but then the supercold of space, where the temperature of objects shaded from the sun may drop to minus 250 degrees Fahrenheit, began creeping into the craft.

To astronaut John L. Swigert Jr. it was cold indeed.

"I don't know if we'll be able to sleep up there tonight," he said. "It must be 35 or 40 degrees."

"At the time he said that," said an official who was in Mission Control, "temperature in the cabin was actually 52 degrees. But I'm sure it felt like 35 or 40 to him."

60 Degrees In Cabin

The temperature in the lunar module cabin was not much better—it read 60 degrees at the time. It later rose three degrees, but was still far from comfortable.

The crew told the ground they were going to don extra pairs of coveralls and an official said they also had extra "long john" underwear.

Officials said temperatures in the command module—which is now used only as a bedroom by the spacemen—may drop as low as 40 degrees.

If it becomes this severe, the astronauts could put on their insulated pressure suits.

Cabin Grows Frosty

While the cabin grew frosty, equipment and electronics gear between the cabin wall and the outside spacecraft skin was subjected to bitter cold.

"Toward the end of the mission, we'll see a freeze in the lunar module descent stage and in the service module," said flight director Gerald Griffin, but he added that this would present no problems.

"I don't expect any temperatures close to freezing" for the command module equipment, he said.

System Checked

Flight controllers powered up the command module briefly Wednesday to check the systems and found all of them working.

Critical components of the command ship were punished in temperatures down to minus 20 degrees when it was being built.

The most delicate of the instruments, the guidance system, was put through this test and lost accuracy of only a few tenths of one degree.

To keep equipment from getting colder than the tested minus 20 degrees, the spacecraft are rolled so that all sides are evenly exposed to sunlight, which is very intense in space.

All Attention Focused On Good Re-Entry Friday At 1:07 P.M.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts recharged a weak battery and prepared other systems in their command ship today for the unique and critical maneuvers needed to bring their crippled craft back to earth Friday.

James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. streaked toward a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean after an engine firing Wednesday night shifted them off a course that would have left them stranded in space.

Lovell At Controls

With the veteran Lovell at the controls, they triggered their lunar module engine 15 seconds and successfully changed course. Had that firing and later course corrections failed, Apollo 13 would have missed earth by 104 miles and skipped off into space.

With that hurdle cleared, the spacemen turned all attention to Friday's re-entry and landing, scheduled for 1:07 p.m. EST.

Using flashlights to find their way in the dark and chilly cabin, the astronauts checked the three batteries in the command ship that will provide the power for the blazing dive through the atmosphere. They found two of them at full 40-amp-hour strength, but the third with only about half that power available.

Cable Hooked Up

On a normal re-entry, they would require 70 to 80 amp hours. So Mission Control told them to hook up a cable to the power system of the lunar module and recharge the weak battery. This process will take about 15 hours and draw eight amps from the LM.

Although the temperatures in the command ship, which was drawing oxygen from the sturdy LM, were down around 50 degrees, flight director Gerald Griffin said the craft's systems all appeared to be in good shape.

The pressures and temperatures in the plumbing system "looked fine," he reported. "Two of the thrusters have temperatures low enough so we'll have to heat them before pressurizing the system. But all these temperatures are going to rise when

Mrs. Haise Taking Everything Calmly

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Silently, anxiously, the two Apollo 13 wives listened as their husbands steered their stricken spaceship onto a homeward path.

"I was relieved it went so well," said Mary Haise after the critical burn of the tiny lunar lander engine. "But I was confident it would go well."

With the important maneuver completed, the families of James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert could relax—a little.

Children Stay Home

Mrs. Haise decided to keep her children home from school again today and said she would attend a brunch at the home of boss astronaut Donald Slayton.

With friends, relatives and other astronauts' wives Mrs. Haise and Marilyn Lovell tuned in via home television sets and NASA squawkboxes as the crew guided the ship back on course and homeward from its aborted moon landing mission.

Neither wife spoke during the critical 15-second rocket engine burn.

House Guests Leave

As house guests left the Haise and Lovell homes late Wednesday night a NASA public affairs officer said Mrs. Haise was going to bed. "She's really tired and she's starting to show it," he remarked.

Mrs. Haise is expecting her fourth child in June. She attended a luncheon Wednesday at the home of Sue Bean, wife of Apollo 12 astronaut Alan L. Bean.

Apollo 10 astronaut Thomas P. Stafford telephoned Mrs. Lovell before the rocket burn to brief her on the maneuver.

Mrs. Mary Haise

Mother Visited

Mrs. Lovell and her daughter, Susan, 11, visited Lovell's widowed mother at nearby Friendswood Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Lovell said she made the short trip to reassure her mother-in-law that she was "confident of a safe return by the crew."

The parents of Swigert, a bachelor, have also expressed confidence that the astronauts will make it home safely. The elder Swigert is a Denver, Colo., dentist.

Peaceful Moratorium Spoiled By Radicals

Vietnam Moratorium rallies Wednesday drew tens of thousands for generally peaceful protests in cities across the nation. But in a number of instances groups of radical youths rampaged afterward and clashed with police.

The worst violence came in Cambridge, Mass., where some 1,100 riot police used tear gas, dogs and clubs to battle 6,000 demonstrators who set fires, broke windows and threw rocks from rooftops in Harvard Square.

They had assembled after an earlier peaceful rally by 60,000 persons on Boston Common—the day's largest crowd.

At the Berkeley campus of the University of California 1,000 demonstrators tried to storm the Navy ROTC headquarters. Forty law enforcement officers were bombarded with rocks, bottles and water balloons. They replied with repeated barrages of tear gas.

The latest moratorium was timed to coincide with the April 15 federal income tax filing deadline. Many demonstrations protested the use of taxes to support the war.

Moratorium organizers expressed dismay that the voices of antiwar "moderates" were submerged by the strident demands of smaller groups of radicals.

In New York City some 20,000 demonstrators turned out in Bryant Park but radicals in the crowd pushed forward to try and take the stage and shift the focus from Vietnam to the cause of imprisoned Black Panthers.

At Columbia University Wednesday night 200 youths, many not students, broke windows, splattered red paint and set off stink bombs after a rally demanding that the university put up bail for 11 jailed Panthers.

70 Feared Dead As Avalanche Hits Building

SALLANCHES, France (AP) — Seventy persons — most of them tubercular boys under the age of 15— were feared dead today, buried under a massive avalanche that swept down on them as they slept.

The Ministry of Interior reported rescuers had found only 17 bodies 11 hours after the wall of rock and snow — 60 feet high and 600 feet wide— roared down in the darkness on two dormitories and a nurses' residence at a tuberculosis sanatorium.

"There is no hope of anyone surviving under that mass of snow and earth," said one police lieutenant as hundreds of rescue workers dug with picks, shovels, cranes and bulldozers.

The huge slide also smashed into one wing of the sanatorium's main building, but 14 children and three adults in that section were rescued unhurt.

Special Plans Being Studied For Re-Entry

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Engineers have developed special re-entry techniques for the troubled Apollo 13. They are being tested in simulators, but officials believe this to be the sequence in the hours before landing on earth:

Six hours before: The astronauts board the command module and begin turning on its power.

Five hours: A course correction is performed if needed.

Three and one-half hours: The service module, which is the disabled part of the spacecraft, is jettisoned.

Three hours: Begin preparation to jettison the lunar module.

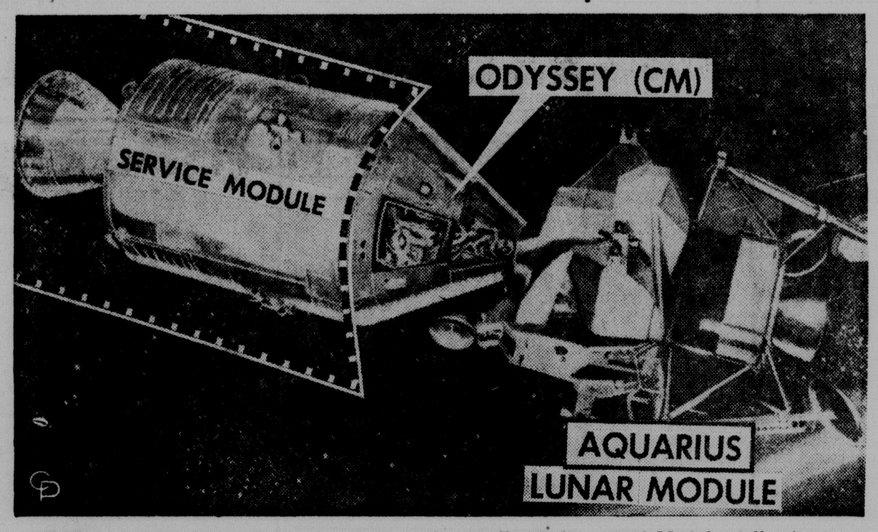
Two hours: Seal off the lunar module by closing its hatch and that of the command module.

One hour: Jettison the lunar module.

After the lunar module is discarded, only the cone-shaped command ship is left. This craft carries the crew through the atmosphere to a parachute landing in the Pacific as in a normal re-entry.

The astronauts will be picked up by the aircraft carrier Iwo Jima and later flown to American Samoa by helicopter.

They will be taken by jet to Ellington Air Force Base in Houston Saturday.



BROKEN LINE frames the useless part of the Apollo 13 Command Module, following the power failure 205,000 miles from Earth. The remaining useful part contains the landing parachute, and the Lunar Module at right is the remaining power source. Drawing.

Russians Begin Naval Maneuvers

MOSCOW (AP) — The big Soviet naval and air maneuvers have started in the North Atlantic, the Mediterranean and the Sea of Japan, the Defense Ministry newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda—Red Star—reported today.

The ministry announced two days ago that the maneuvers would be held until the end of May but did not say when they would start. There also has been no announcement of how many ships and planes are taking part, but most of the Soviet navy is believed to be involved.

3 Bessemer Boys Make $17,000 Haul

BESSEMER (AP) — Police have recovered almost all of the $17,000 stolen from a strong box which a retired miner kept next to his bed in a rural Gogebic County farm house.

Sheriff's deputies said three 16-year-old Bessemer area boys broke into the vacant house of Steven Bielecki, 77, and cracked open the strongbox.

Bielecki, a bachelor, lives in Bessemer during the winter and had not moved back into the farm house. He discovered the theft Sunday.

The youthful burglars were apprehended Tuesday, and all but "a small portion of the money was recovered in a basement of one of the boys' homes.

Police said relatives have persuaded Bielecki to put his money in a bank.

39 Subpoenaed In My Lai Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel has subpoenaed 39 military witnesses in its probe of the alleged My Lai massacre after Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor refused to allow them to testify voluntarily.

Resor told a special House armed services subcommittee he feared the investigation will prejudice the rights of defendants in the case and urged a delay until courts martial of those charged are completed.

But Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the panel, said Congress and the public have the right to "an independent study with conclusions independently arrived at."

Tropical Storm Has Dissipated

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm in the South Pacific has dissipated and poses no threat to the troubled Apollo 13 astronauts, the space agency said today.

Tropical Storm Helen earlier appeared to be plodding toward the splashdown site southeast of Samoa but space officials in Houston and weather observers elsewhere said it had broken up.

At one point earlier in the week this ship's forecasters said the storm could have grown into a hurricane.

Helen or its side effects provided frogmen with rough weather training Wednesday on their final recovery exercise.

Swim teams worked in a driving rainstorm and said they were ready for the astronauts' return.

"We wanted a rough weather simex," said one helicopter pilot. Simex means simulated exercise.

Despite downpours that cut visibility to less than three miles at times, waves were moderate. The exercise took only about 45 minutes.

Scattered clouds at 2,000 feet and easterly winds at 15 miles per hour were predicted for Friday's splashdown. No rain was expected, a space agency spokesman said.

Collins Faces Murder Charge In Coast Death

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — John Norman Collins, accused of slaying an Eastern Michigan University coed and indicted on another first degree murder charge in California Wednesday night, cannot receive a fair trial here, his attorney has charged.

Collins, 22, of Center Line, Mich., is scheduled to stand trial in June for the slaying of 18-year-old Karen Sue Beineman, the last of seven young women murdered in the Ann Arbor area in a two-year period. There have been no other arrests.

A grand jury at Salinas, calif., returned a first degree murder indictment against Collins in the strangulation death of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, of Milwaukie, Ore.

Her body was found in a dumping ground outside Carmel, Calif., last July.

Miss Beinemann, a fellow student of Collins at Eastern Michigan University in nearby Ypsilanti, was slain last July 23.

Collins was arrested a few days later in the strangulation-sex slaying of the Grand Rapids, Mich., coed and has been held at the Washtenaw County Jail here ever since.

Arabs Set Up Guards At Yank Embassy

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Arab guerrillas with submachine guns helped guard the U.S. Embassy in Amman today as hundreds marched again through Jordan's capital to protest the Middle East visit of U.S. Assistant Secreatry of State Joseph Sisco.

The guerrillas stood alongside Jordanian troops behind coils of barbed wire thrown around the embassy compound following a mob attack on the embassy and the American cultural center Wednesday.

The cultural center was bombed and destroyed by fire. Police stood guard today over the blackened shell.

The unified command of the guerrilla movement has distributed leaflets calling for a general strike Friday to coincide with Sisco's arrival from Israel. Today more than 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators, escorted by armed guerrillas, marched through Amman chanting "Sisco, Sisco, go home, Sisco."

It was the third day of anti-American demonstrations in the city.

The Arab guerrilla movement has denounced Sisco's visit to the Middle East, charging he is trying to impose a political settlement on the Arabs. The guerrillas oppose any peaceful settlement with Israel.

Across the border in Israel, Sisco met with Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon before flying to the Beisan Valley to have a first-hand look at the Jordan River cease-fire line. The American visitor meets tonight with Premier Golda Meir.

8-Cent Stamp?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to raise the cost of mailing a letter to eight cents-instead of 10 cents as originally proposed-and called for establishment of a new United States Postal Service.

Bodies Continue To Float Down Mekong

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian Army spokesman said today he knew nothing about the hundreds of Vietnamese bodies seen in the Mekong River southeast of Phnom Penh for the past two days. But he said the killing of Vietnamese civilians in Cambodia "could be considered punitive actions because of Viet Cong attacks in Cambodia.

"If Vietnamese go with the Viet Cong they must take the consequences for this is our country," Lt. Col. Kim Eng Kouroudeth told newsmen at the inauguration of regular military briefings by the leaders who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

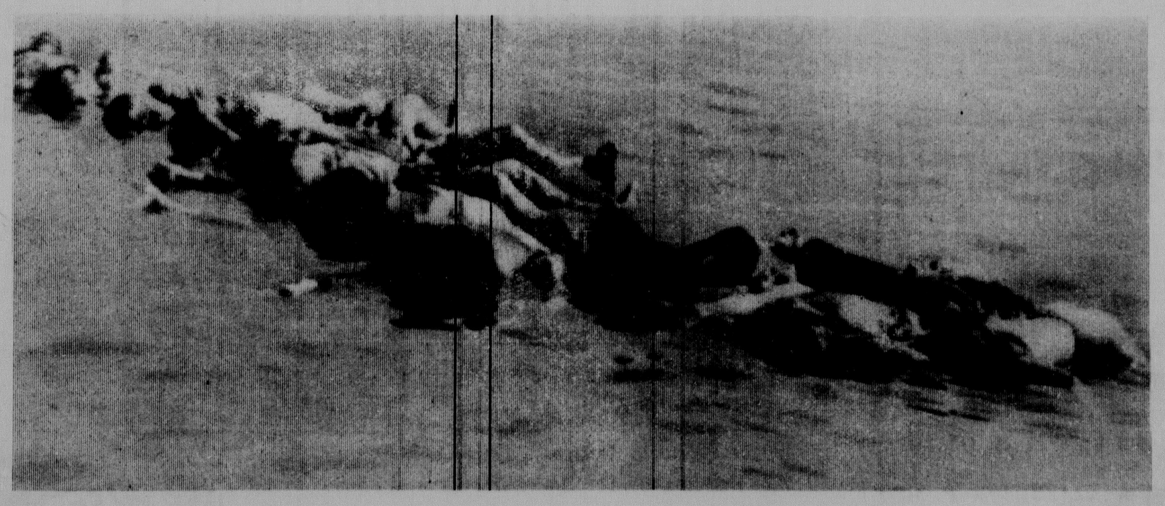
The colonel said Vietnamese are being rounded up for security checks, and "we will take measures against the other Vietnamese to insure they remain quiet. It is not racial, it is just a precautionary move."

Another 30 Vietnamese bodies floated this morning past the Mekong River ferry point at Neak Leung, 50 miles down the river from Phnom Penh. Like the hundreds that passed there Wednesday, the bodies had bullet wounds in several places and the hands of many were bound.

Nobody would say where the bodies came from. But foreign sources in Phnom Penh said an estimated 600 Vietnamese men had been arrested early Monday in the village of Xon Bien, near the Cambodian capital, loaded on boats and taken away.

Cambodian military sources at Neak Leung said 200 Cambodian troops were trapped on the Mekong banks farther south near the frontier, and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships, ground troops and tanks had pushed across the border in an attempt to help the Cambodian troops.

This was the first report that South Vietnamese troops are operating in that part of Cambodia, west of the Plain of Reeds. Previous cross-the-border operations have been reported in the Parrot's Beak area some 70 miles to the east.



BODIES, TIED AND ROPED TOGETHER, are shown floating down the Mekong River at Neak Leung, Cambodia, Wednesday. Reports from the area said the bodies of 400 Vietnamese had floated past Neak Leung Wednesday morning and more dotted the waters for a mile up the river. (AP Wirephoto via Radio from Hong Kong)

Observe Heritage Day:

Museum Opening To Mark Start Of Busy Season

Plans for participation in Michigan Week observance and for a busy season of activities were made by the Delta County Historical Society at its directors meeting Wednesday night.

Mrs. Clint Dunathan, Michigan Week Heritage Day chairman and president of the Historical Society, announced that the Historical Museum in Ludington Park will be opened — as in past years — on Heritage Day, May 19.

There will be open house from 2 to 5 p. m., tea will be served, and there will be several new exhibits, including one of the early history of aviation in Delta County. Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder is museum committee chairman and has called for a work-bee at 7:30 p. m. April 22, at the museum.

Exchange Program

Mrs. Robert Schmeling and Mrs. Frank Bender Jr. will arrange for the tea and among hostesses for the open house will be Mrs. John Nystrom, Mrs. J. E. Turner, Miss Eva Flemstrom, Mrs. Luther Barrett and others.

Mrs. Mosenfelder reported that Miss Jeannine Schmeling has accepted one of the two positions as museum guides for this season. She was employed there last year and is a student at Michigan State University. More than 5,000 persons from many states and several foreign countries registered at the museum in 1969.

The Historical Society's program "The Elliott Letters" continues to be requested for showing, and will be presented at Northville (near Detroit) on April 22, and at Munising to the Alger County Historical Society's annual meeting on May 19.

Historic Trail

An exchange program from the Northville Historical Society will be presented to the Delta County Society next fall.

The annual summer program of the Historical Society is planned to be held at a picnic grounds on the Whitefish River trail, with the U. S. Forest Service cooperating and the Alger County Historical Society joining in the event.

Floyd Roberts of Rapid River is chairman of the program arrangements committee. Roberts, a director of the Historical Society and a descendant of Louis Roberts, the first white settler in Delta County, was also chairman of the committee that erected the historical marker designating the south end of the Whitefish Trail.

The summertime picnic program will be devoted to the history of the trail, which served first as a pathway for the Indians and explorers, then for pioneers and now as a recreation trail restored by the Forest Service.

Photo Competition Details Announced By Student Group

Details of the "Mother Earth" photo contest in the county were announced today by the Escanaba Area High School Student Council.

Six prizes will be awarded in each of two categories, adult and student, said Fredric Jurmu, council president. First prize will be $50, second $25, third $20, fourth $15, fifth $10 and sixth $5.

The awards, either gift certificates or cash, are being donated by the Photoart Shop, Lee's Studio, United Auto Workers Local 632 of Harnischfeger Corp., Deloria Sales, the UAW Community Action Program Council, Beck's Western Auto, Stegath Lumber Co., Hengesh Service Station, Griffith's Hardware and Carne's Standard Service.

Judges for the contest which ends May 9 are City Manager George Harvey, Lee Wiles, Mrs. Angeline Hakes, Fredric Jurmu, Escanaba Mayor Ronald DeVos, Harold Johnson and Gordon Sullivan.

Rules for the contest are available in Escanaba stores and at the photo collection station, the Photoart Shop.

Jurmu said participants should note that entries will be judged not on quality, but on the extent of the clean-up effort portrayed. The contest is open to any resident of Delta County.

The Student Council's "Mother Earth" activities continue Friday with an address by Congressman Philip Ruppe on "The Environmental Dilemma."

Youth Employment Program Begins

William Vogelmann of the Michigan Employment Security Commission office in Escanaba today announced that the summer employment for youth program is underway.

"Even though this program is open to all young people, we are especially interested in helping disadvantaged youth find work," Vogelmann said.

"We urge employers and householders to provide full or part time work for our youth this summer."

The Employment Security Office will provide information about this program and receive job orders from employers throughout the summer.

Camp Inmates Use Telephones

LANSING — Prisoners held in two of Michigan's prison camps can call home now when they get lonesome.

They reverse the charges, however.

Corrections Director Gus Harrison said a morale problem developed in northern Michigan camps because relatives cannot visit regularly.

"So we installed pay telephones at two locations, at the Parole Camp at Jackson and Camp Souble near Ludington," he said. "We gave each man a dime from the inmate welfare fund.

"We've found that a telephone call can accomplish almost as much as a visit."

Harrison said inmates make 20 to 30 calls each night from the two camps. Plans are underway to install telephones at Camp Lehman, near Grayling, and at Camp Pellston.

After working out technical difficulties, he said telephones will be installed at Camp Baraga and Camp Cusino, near Shingleton, in the Upper Peninsula.

"It has worked much better than we even hoped," Harrison said.

Government Day Activities Open

Senior Government Day as a tradition at Escanaba Area High School goes back more than a quarter of a century.

However, it is a tradition that still has meaning and value today, for it is a laboratory-type learning activity for students in government classes. The activities include circulation of nominating petitions, student voter registration, a mock civil service exam, an all-school nominating assembly, and an election.

These events will culminate in the "Day" when students will attempt to parallel Escanaba city government in a condensed form. The student officials will be selected in accordance with the Escanaba City Charter.

Five "council members" are to be elected by the registered student voters and all appointive positions are to be filled through simulated civil service system, scores achieved on a general test based on the Escanaba City Charter.

Student candidates must give a short campaign speech at the all-school assembly to be held Wednesday, April 22. A short campaign will end on election day, April 30.

Senior Government Day will be held Thursday, May 7. About 20 students from Escanaba Area High School will actually take part in government day.

Each student official will meet with the corresponding Escanaba city official for a brief session concerning the work of his department, and the Council and manager will hold a mock city council meeting. Then those participating will go on a tour of the city government offices.

Mrs. Milliken To Speak Here

The Escanaba area will host Mrs. William G. Milliken, wife of the Governor, at a dinner which she will address on Tuesday, May 5, in the House of Ludington at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Milliken will speak on the environment campaign.

Mrs. Milliken will be accompanied on her Upper Peninsula tour by Mrs. John Riecker of Midland, first vice chairman of the Republican State Ceneral Committee, said Mrs. William Butt of Escanaba, dinner committee chairman.

Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson are ticket chairmen and reservations may be made by phoning 786-6881.

Mrs. Milliken will come to Escanaba from a luncheon at Iron Mountain and will hold a press conference at the Ludington before the dinner in the evening.

A native of Colorado who met her husband when he was a staff sergeant in the Air Force at Lowry Air Force Base in her home town of Denver, Mrs. Milliken has become active in the civic and political life of Michigan.

She is a graduate of Smith College, has done graduate studies at Michigan State University and is a member of the League of Women Voters, the Michigan Children's Aid Society, the Michigan Council of the Arts and Audubon Society.

Dinner seating is limited to 90.

Ship Crewman Is Injured In Fall

Francis W. Crowl, 38, of Bay City, was injured in an accident aboard the Str. Adam Cornelius in Escanaba at 7:05 a.m. today.

Crowl, crewman on the Cornelius, apparently fell down a flight of metal stairs on the boat while it was docked at the C. Reiss Coal Co. terminal. He suffered fractured ribs and a punctured lung and is in St. Francis Hospital.

Welfare Bill Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's sweeping welfare reform legislation appeared headed today toward a major victory in the House despite efforts by opponents to strip some of its costly provisions.

The opposition, however, fought a rear-guard action after the House voted 204 to 183 Wednesday to sustain its Rules Committee in barring all floor amendments.

Conservatives wanted to knock out provisions for families with breadwinners and for a spelled-out income assurance—$1,600 for a family of four.

They argued the cost would rise far beyond the $4.4 billion official estimate. Some liberals sought a chance to increase the assured income level. Opponents also argued the incentives for welfare recipients to train for and take self-suffifcient jobs would be ineffective.

But their combined strength was not enough to upset the rule that the House must vote the whole package up or down or send it back to the Ways and Means Committeee for more work.

Richard H. Johnson

R. Johnson Accident Victim

Richard Hilding Johnson, 29, formerly of Gladstone and an employe of the Cudahy Tanning Co., Cudahy, Wis., was dead on arrival at Trinity Memorial Hospital at 8:03 p.m. Wednesday following an accident at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Tanning Co.

He drowned in a vat containing 4,400 to 6,000 pounds of hides and a weak solution of lime-sodium sulphide and water as he tried to remove some of the hides before a wooden paddle wheel, used to stir the hides, had completely stopped.

He was born June 6, 1940. Survivors include: two sons, Richard and Timothy, both of Rapid River; his mother, Mrs. Lyli Johnson of Gladstone; six sisters, Mrs. Donald (Ila) Pearson of Excelsior, Minn., Mrs. M. (June) Rafiullah of Racine, Wis., Mrs. Harold (Gerta) Plouff of Escanaba, Mrs. Richard (Karen) Benz of Joliet, Ill., Mrs. Keith (Linda) Sengstock of West Allis, Wis., and Mrs. Kelly (Inga) Ray of Milwaukee; his grandmother, Mrs. Edla Erickson of Gladstone and an uncle, George Johnson of Grand Rapids.

Friends may call at the Anderson-Johns Funeral Home from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday and funeral services are tentatively set for 11 a.m. Saturday at the First Lutheran Church of Gladstone with the Rev. Reuben Carlson officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery.

State To Spend Over $3 Million On U.P. Prison

LANSING — Michigan will spend more than $3 million on new buildings at Marquette State Prison in a fresh effort to restore some of its toughest inmates to society.

The plan will immediately affect up to 80 prisoners held in maximum security cellblocks who rarely leave their cells.

"Even with these people, we want to treat them differently," said Corrections Director Gus Harrison. "Eventually we want to take them back into the general inmate population."

New Cell Block

He said the first project will be a $1.8 million 100-bed maximum security cellblock designated as an "adjustment center" either on the east of the entrance or on a hill behind the powerhouse.

Harrison said Daverman Associates, of Grand Rapids, are designing the block and promise completion within two years. It will have counseling offices, classrooms, a visiting area and exercise yards.

"They will have supervised and limited activity, something they've never had before," Harrison said. "An effort will be made to work them back, to change some thinking.

The cost, he said, will be under the national average per cell, now between $15,000 and $20,000 each. The cost will be cut down because as part of the prison it will not need a laundry, dining room, kitchen or a separate powerhouse.

Conversion Planned

It will replace the two present maximum security blocks, which hold inmates who now are a threat to other prisoners.

Harrison also disclosed plans to convert abandoned cellblock A, left of the rotunda from the entrance, into a medical facility, hospital, a dental treatment center and counseling area.

The building—known for its "bucket brigade" because of the lack of toilet facilities—was dropped from use a decade ago.

In addition, he said, the inmate reception area would be enlarged and its cells rebuilt. Marquette originally receives all Upper Peninsula prisoners for processing, then transfer to other institutions.

Harrison said, however, that the new construction would not increase the size or inmate population.

"We don't want to make Marquette any larger than it is," he said. "If we enlarged it, we would lose the supervisory capability and the chance to know the inmates as individuals."

District Court

Joseph M. Rawson, 315 S. 13th St., pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery, reduced from felonious assault, and was ordered to pay a fine of $25, costs of $50 and judgment fees of $3. He was also placed on probation for 18 months.

Steenberg Mobile Homes, Rte. 1, Fond du Lac, Wis. paid a $100 fine and $28 costs for transporting a trailer too wide for the road.

Leo E. Kanerva, Rock, pleaded guilty to DUIL and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 or spend 14 days in jail along with $47 costs and $3 judgment fees.

Ronald W. Johnson, Rte. 2 Rapid River, pleaded guilty to conservation charges of spearing fish and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 or spend 10 days in jail. He was also ordered to pay $16.50 in costs.

Lynn L. Richards, Rte. 1 Gladstone, pleaded guilty to careless driving, reduced from reckless driving, and was given until April 24 to pay a $50 fine or spend seven days in jail and pay $15 cost and $3 judgment fees.

Lester J. Sexton, Gladstone, was charged with unlawful possession of a spear near a closed stream for spearing. The charge was not denied and sentencing was delayed for 24 months, but he must exhibit a valid license each year in January.

Harkness Named Coach Of Wings

DETROIT (AP) — Ned Harkness, who led Cornell University to two national championships, was named coach today of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Wings' general manager Sid Abel relinquished the coach's job to Harkness after serving almost an entire season as general manager-coach. Abel replaced Bill Gadsby, who was fired early in the campaign.

The Wings finished in third place in the NHL's eastern division and lost their Stanley Cup playofff series to Chicago in four straight games.

Harkness, 48, is an old friend of Abel. The two servied together in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Shouldice Heads Family Relations Meeting Agenda

"Join the Family" is the theme of the spring conference of the Upper Peninsula Council on Family Relations, according to conference chairman Edward Kukuk, superintendent of the Iron Mountain Schools District. Kukuk also will moderate panel discussions and emcee the day-long program.

The conference will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. on Friday in Iron Mountain at the Dickinson Hotel and conclude with a business meeting about 3:15 p.m.

Keynote speaker, Dr. Kenneth Shouldice, president of Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, will set the stage for small group discussions on the roles and responsibilities of family members in decision making. He will discuss ways in which parents and youth can bridge the communication gap and improve communications generally.

The conference is designed to interest parents and persons working with youth. The conference fee is $1.50. The public is invited to attend.

Social Security Benefits Paid To 5,500 In County

A total of 5,500 people received social security checks in Delta County during the past year, David Pugliese, assistant director of the Social Security Administration, told the members of the Escanaba Business & Professional Women's Club Tuesday night at the Sherman Hotel.

Of this number, 3600 were over 65 years of age. A total of $400,000 a month is paid to all beneficiaries in the county, said Pugliese, "which is a substantial pay roll."

There are three things that happen to individuals that could affect their benefits — the individual will die; the individual will become disabled; or he will become too old to work and will retire.

Pugliese pointed out that the social security tax can be used to pay the benefits under the program and to pay for the administration of the program. For each dollar paid, 97.5 cents is used for payments to beneficiaries and 2.5 cents goes toward the administration of the program.

Benefits To Survivors

Benefits that are payable when a person dies are payable to the surviving dependents, Pugliese said. Children under age 18 can receive payments and children over 18 and up to their 22nd birthday can receive payments if they are students in a recognized school.

The Social Security Administration has an exact record of an individual's earning's credit and this determines what the benefits are. If the wife passes away and was working steadily, the husband can receive benefits for children. The minimum social security payments now is $64 and if the surviving husband does not file a claim he has lost that amount.

As far as disability benefits are concerned, if a person becomes disabled at 40 or 50 years of age, he is permanently disabled and cannot work, he may be eligible for disability provided his condition is medically determinable. The dependents of a disabled worker are eligible to receive checks, including the wife and children up to 18 or if in school, up to 22 years.

Retirement Discussed

In the retirement category, Pugliese said a person must have worked long enough to be eligible to receive payment. If an individual has been farsighted enough to invest in stocks or bonds or rental property, if they have provided for themselves, this is not considered earnings but income and when they have retired, this will not affect their social security payments.

Mrs. Nancy Petry, chairman of the Finance Committee, introduced the speaker.

President Angeline Hakes conducted the business meeting. Antoinette Sanhuber and Laura Schoen were accepted as members of the club.

Report On Meeting

Mrs. Hakes reported on the district meeting held at the Falls Hall Sunday, April 12. Attending from Escanaba were Mrs. Hakes, Probate Judge Marie D. Local Airman Receives Honor

K. I. SAWYER AFB — Sgt. Lester J. Cody, a native of Escanaba and a member of the 410th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, has been named Maintenance Man of the Month for March in the 410th Bomb Wing. He will now compete for the title among 40th Air Division maintenance men.

Sgt. Cody was cited for his performance as a member of the tanker launch team. "He has proven to be a prime example of the type of airman of which the monthly award is intended to recognize and reward," said Col. Joseph M. McHale, deputy commander for operations.

Sgt. Cody, a KC-135 crew chief, was lauded for his development of a "launch kit" which places all the equipment and tools used during the preflight inspection of each KC-135.

RENTING MACHINERY

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A few Madison County farmers are finding that leasing farm machinery is one way of controlling ones resources. Farmers have found that rapid changes in technology and the expanding farm business have created a need for new machines. This can cause a severe strain on the normal sources of investment capital.

Custom hiring to get the job done or renting the machine by the job or by the season can relieve a tight capital situation and keep capital free for other uses in the farm business.

we apply some power to the command module with the batteries. The whole command module looks good," he said.

The command ship was disabled Monday night by an oxygen tank rupture in the attached service module. The accident knocked out fuel cells which would have provided long-life power. Without the cells, the moon landing had to be canceled and the astronauts turned to the lunar module supplies to keep them alive and bring them home.

Lovell, Haise and Swigert continued to ration vital oxygen, water and power as they raced closer to earth. They had ample margins in all systems to complete the flight. But they knew a sudden loss of any system would imperil them in the final hours of their abortive journey.

By the time Apollo 13 hits the atmosphere at 400,000 feet Friday, they'll be traveling 24,623 miles an hour.

The landing site in the Pacific is about 580 miles southeast of Samoa. The carrier Iwo Jima was steaming toward the area and expected to be on station Friday morning.

Sleep Six Hours

All the astronauts slept for about six hours today as they rested for the return home.

Before re-entering the atmosphere, the astronauts must discard the powerless service module and the lunar module which has been their lifeboard.

Then they must power up the command ship on its re-entry batteries for the blazing dive back to earth, the last act in the most perilous drama in the history of space flight.

A team of Mission Control specialists has been working around the clock to perfect the highly technical procedures for bringing the spacemen back from the brink of disaster.

Astronauts on the ground were to practice the procedures in simulators here this afternoon before instructions are relayed to Apollo 13.

Allocation Time

The annual battle of the budgets — more correctly known as Tax Allocation Board time — comes up this month and from all advance indications this year's struggle between Delta County and the school districts is going to be one of the more interesting.

In the past couple of years, the Allocation Board in Delta County has had a relatively easy time dividing up the county's 15-mill pie between the county, the schools, townships and the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School district. But things may be different this time around.

Unlike last year when Delta County carried a surplus, this year the county is projecting a deficit, a factor that is likely to liven up the auction. The school districts, spearheaded by the big Escanaba Area district, continually show a greater "need" than possibly can be allocated. But the more millage that can be allocated to the schools, the lower any special proposals to taxpayers can be.

And so the battle lines are drawn.

The Allocation Board, composed of the County Treasurer, the Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners' Finance Committee, the superintendent of the Intermediate School district, a representative of the largest city (Escanaba), a representative of the largest school district (Escanaba Area) and a member at large from the county appointed by the Probate Judge, is charged with dividing between the county, schools, townships and intermediate school district 15 mills, the Constitutional limit in Michigan.

Townships, if they can show need through budgetary statements, have a legal right of up to 1.0 mill. The Intermediate school district is allocated one tenth of a mill under statute for operational purposes. This leaves only 13.9 mills to divide between the school districts and the county.

Last year, the county received 5.2 mills and the school districts 8.7. To balance the 1971 county budget of $995,766, which includes picking up the projected deficit of over $80,000 from 1970, the county would require 6.88 mills. If granted by the Allocation Board in full, the school district allocation would be trimmed by 1.68 mills to 6.02 mills. It doesn't sound like much, but when 1.68 mills is levied on the total county tax base of $113,557,500 it means nearly $200,000 in revenue to somebody.

The problem facing the Allocation Board is that the total needs which will be displayed this year as in the past exceed the 15 mills available for allocation. But beyond this, the Board is faced with the uneviable task of determining the credibility of county and school district budgets which have shown a tendency to be inflated beyond the more realistic figures adopted later in the year. For example, in the area of capital improvements, the school board or county board might include in the budget a project or projects which are highly desirable, but in determining ultimate need the Allocation Board may have to ask whether such a project or projects are critically necessary to the successful operation of the governmental unit, or whether they might be delayed or pro-rated over several years.

The Allocation Board must also take a long look at the accuracy of revenue projections from other sources, a particularly difficult problem when dealing with school budgets because the State Legislature rarely gets around to passing a state aid measure by allocation time. It would be a whole lot easier for everyone if the Legislature would settle that problem before the Allocation Board has to act.

There is no easy solution to the problems of the Allocation Board in Delta County and in most other counties of the state aside from giving the boards a blank check on millage.

The county presently operates on a calendar year (Jan. 1 to Dec. 31) while school districts run on a fiscal year (July 1 to June 30). Taxes collected from December, 1970, billings, for example, will finance 1971 county operations and 1970-71 school operations. But it doesn't seem to be sound financial practice for the county to have to estimate expenses as far off as December, 1971, and for school districts to project expenses as far away as June, 1971, in April of 1970.

It might be more reasonable to change the financial calendars of both units three months, shifting both schools and county onto a Sept. 1-Aug. 30 setup. This would put both units on an even basis as far as inflationary considerations and with an extra three months before school districts start a new accounting period it might even allow Allocation Board dates to be pushed back until later in the year — perhaps late enough for the Legislature to act on a school aid bill.

Legally, of course, some changes would be needed and some provision would have to be made for the changeover period. But such a change appears largely to be a bookkeeping problem. And if county and school officials can budget now as far as 14 and 20 months in the future, it doesn't seem that it would be that difficult to handle.

The Houghton County Road Commission and its employes joined in observance of the commission's 60th anniversary at a dinner at which four long-time employes, with a total of 131 years' service, were honored. Oldest of the four, in point of service, was Adrian Beauchene, who began working for the commission in Calumet in 1927. He watched the Calumet facility grow from a one-stall rented garage to a station which houses equipment with a value of about three-quarters of a million dollars.

Another Stevenson Running For Senate

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The dynatsic idea in American politics has hard sledding.

Occasionally there has been a two-generation success: John Adams and his son, John Quincy, both made it to the White House, and there have been father and son La Follettes in the Senate and in the Wisconsin Governor's chair. Massachusetts has had its Lodges followed by a couple of Kennedys.

But other aspiring dynasts have had indifferent success. Teddy Roosevelt Jr. could never really emulate his father, and Franklin's sons, Jimmy, Franklin Jr., and Elliott, had to be satisfied with minor offices.

Now a new Stevenson, Adlai the Third, is aiming to become a Democratic U.S. Senator from Illinois.

Adlai the First was a Vice President, and Adlai the Second, a successful Governor, was twice nominated for the Presidency. The name of Stevenson is supposed to be something to conjure with in Illinois, and Adlai the Third's recognition value has him starting ahead of his Republican opponent, Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith, in the polls. This is despite the fact that Smith, a former Speaker of the Illinois House, who was Gov. Richard Ogilvie's appointee to succeed the late Everett Dirksen, has just won a primary by a wide margin and has the benefit of being the incumbent Senator.

Adlai III wants to be a dynast, but the American people don't necessarily take to the dynastic idea. Besides, if political ancestry counts for anything, Sen. Smith has a bit of dynastic blood of his own. His middle name comes from one of his ancestors, John Tyler, who happened to be the 10th President of the United States.

A few months ago the word went out in Washington that Sen. Smith was not the man to fill Ev Dirksen's shoes. The conservatives were dubious about him when he indicated that he wasn't going to support Richard Nixon's choice for the Supreme Court, Judge Clement Haynsworth.

There had been a scandal in the Illinois Supreme Court, and Smith was quoted as saying that he couldn't in good conscience vote for any judge who was tainted with even a suspicion of impropriety. But, when the crunch came, Smith did vote for Haynsworth. He said he had been misquoted in the first place. In the second court go-around Smith supported Carswell.

Still, the more adamant conservatives in Illinois were grudging about accepting Smith. In the Rockford region, a conservative stronghold, they held his connection with Gov. Ogilvie against him. Ogilvie had supported the state income tax, a hated measure in conservative circles.

Once again they had Smith wrong. When Sen. Gore of Tennessee introduced an amendment increasing individual tax exemptions from $600 to $800, Smith pointed out what he called its fraudulent nature. For the Gore amendment would have also cut deductions to the point where individuals in the lower middle brackets would actually be paying more taxes than before. The Gore amendment was defeated. Individual deductions were left intact, and the exemption was increased by $150 over the years. Smith has proved himself no enemy of the taxpayer.

★ ★ ★

Smith is optimistic about overtaking Adlai the Third for a number of cogent reasons. To begin with, the alliance between Adlai III and Mayor Dick Daley, the Democratic boss of Chicago, is a marriage of convenience, and, like all such marriages, it carries no enthusiasm with it.

It would be strange if Daley's men really got out the vote for young Adlai, who has never hidden his aversion to Cook County's brand of politics.

Then there is the curious fact that the Stevenson name has never really been a great vote-catcher in Illinois. Eisenhower beat Adali the Second by a 55 per cent vote in 1952 and a 59 per cent vote in 1956. Four years ago, Adlai the Third defeated Harris Rowe for the office of State Treasurer by a scant 50.5 per cent margin.

And this, so Smith's supporters point out, was when Rowe ran out of money toward the end of his campaign. Rowe actually carried 69 counties to Stevenson' 33.

It's a long time to November, plenty of time to give people a chance to meditate on the fate of dynasts in American politics. If a third Adlai can make it, he will be doing something that eluded a third Adams and a third Lodge.

We have yet to face third generation Kennedys and Roosevelts.

Stockholders' Meetings Not Like They Used To Be

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Annual meetings used to be pleasant affairs, both corporate officers and shareholders generally will agree, at least when the profits were satisfactory.

Attendance at the annual get-together was one of the rites of spring, like going to the opening baseball game or raking the lawn or cleaning out the cottage. Poor as they were, box lunches were consumed with gusto.

Companies that really wished to impress their shareholders held extravagant all-day affairs under enormous striped canopies that billowed like sails above the manicured lawn of the latest plant addition.

Routine business was rushed through before a bored audience of old timers. Nobody criticized.

About the worst the board of General Electric or General Motors had to face was the badgering of Wilma Soss or the Brothers Gilbert or other professional shareholders who made the circuit of annual meetings.

Annual meetings this year will not be picnics, for shareholders have become activists in behalf of causes that include peace, clean environment, women's rights, minority rights, stockholder rights, even leftist rights.

It may not be wise to turn off the mike.

War protestors have let it be known they intend to disrupt meetings of companies holding military contracts. Groups concerned with the environment plan to put profit-minded corporate officers on the spot, to test their sincerity.

Name any topic and you'll likely find a shareholder group organized to promote it. While the emphasis still may remain on profits and losses, discussion of social problems will rule many meetings this year.

And perhaps next year and for many years after. Corporate officers are aware that pressure groups have discovered that shares of stock are tickets to annual meetings. A trend is developing.

Seven individuals who call themselves The Project On Corporate Responsibility, Inc. purchased at least 12 shares of common stock early this year and managed to put up two proposals for voting by General Motors shareholders.

This and other groups have provoked GM into placing newspaper ads that pose questions such as "Does GM Care About Cleaner Air?" and which answer, "You bet we do!"

The Corporate Responsibility group's proposals, if passed, would create a committee to represent special interest groups and increase the size of the board of directors by three.

Purpose of the increased board, in the words of GM, would be to place "three representatives elected not on the basis of their interest in the success of General Motors but rather on the basis of their sympathy with the special interests of the sponsors."

Management opposes both measures, of course. It believes the purpose of the committee "is to harass the corporation and its management to promote the particular economic and social views" of the sponsors.

Times have changed . . . very suddenly.

Opening lead—ten of spades.

Everyone periodically runs into the problem of the two-way finesse for a queen. It is therefore not amiss to examine the delicate situation encountered by South in this deal where all he has to do to insure the slam is guess the location of the queen of clubs.

West leads the ten of spades, won in dummy with the queen, and South commences his adventure by cashing three rounds of trumps and three more spade tricks.

Then comes the moment of truth when he must decide whether East or West is more likely to have the queen of clubs. If South takes a club finesse in the right direction, he is sure of making six, possibly seven, but if he finesses in the wrong direction, he is sure to go down, losing a club and a diamond.

There is no hard and fast guarantee, but South should definitely play West for the queen of clubs. In the course of cashing the first seven tricks he learns that West started with two hearts and two spades, and East with three hearts and four spades.

West therefore has nine unknown cards that may include the queen of clubs, while East has only six unknown cards that may include the queen.

It follows as a matter of probability that West is more likely to have the queen than East, and declarer should consequently adopt the percentage play of finessing through West.

At trick eight South should lead the ace of clubs, unblocking the ten from dummy, and then continue with the nine of clubs, letting it ride. When the nine wins, South repeats the finesse, and the outcome is that he winds up with all the tricks as a direct result of selecting the percentage play.

Departing Employe Raps Farewell Fete

Dear Ann Landers: Your column on gifts for departing employes hit me where I live. A few months ago I became completely disenchanted with my job. Personnel changes created three armed camps in our company. (In all fairness I must admit I was not blameless in the office unpleasantness.) When it became apparent I could no longer work effectively in such a hostile environment, I resigned.

Even though I was not on speaking terms with several colleagues, the office do-gooder took it upon herself to solicit money from EVERYONE for a going-away gift. The farewell party was in the worst possible taste and the costly gift an embarrassment. I tried to handle the situation with grace but it was a nightmare.

Most people who leave jobs would prefer to go quietly. The gift I received was intended to make me feel better. It only made me feel worse. It serves as a reminder that my fellow workers were glad to get rid of me.

Please pass the word, Ann — no farewell parties, please, unless the person is retiring or moving, with a heavy heart, to another city, for a beautiful promotion. — F. N.

Dear F. N.: Here's your letter. Consider the word passed.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to "His Wife" concerning her non-reading husband who had been bluffing his way through life was kind — but not sufficiently helpful to live up to your usual high standards.

It is estimated that at least six per cent of the adults in this country are functional illieterates and in need of immediate rescue. Cincinnati has a group of 60 volunteer tutors who are trying to help some of our 30,000 adult non-readers. The program is on a one-to-one basis. It costs nothing except the price of a book. Ten hour courses for the tutors were given in various churches and at the Y.M.C.A.

One of my students is 45. He raised a family without knowing a single letter in the alphabet. Another student had his secretary phone the Y to find a tutor for him. The stories are beyond belief.

You should have advised "His Wife" to write to Director of U.S. Programs, Laubach Literacy, Inc. Box 131, Syracuse, N.Y. 13210. The Laubach system is presently at work in 36 states. The results have been phenomenal. Tell your readers, Ann. You could do a world of good. — Cincinnati Tutor

Dear Cin: Thanks for your letter. I was completely unaware of the number of non-readers who have been faking their way through life. My desk is loaded with letters from everywhere in praise of the Laubach system. (Washington and Oregon do a superb job.) Many sent workbooks as well.

Dozens of readers wrote about Adult Education classes which are also free. These classes are held both afternoon and evening in Canada as well as in the United States. Chattanooga has a splendid program. In Flint, Michigan, the Mott Adult Reading Center offers a tutored reading program for new Americans or anyone else who is interested.

Today there is no excuse for illiteracy. A phone call to the principal of any public school can open the doors to a whole new world.

Wildlife Serves As 'Indicator' On Environment

By JOSEPH VOGT
District Game Biologist
Dept. of Natural Resources

Wild animals are indicators of environmental quality. As rats in the urban ghetto are evidence of blighted human living conditions, so is the presence of timber wolves an indication of wilderness, and brook trout a guarantee of cold, sweet water.

Sadly enough, our environment is becoming increasingly degraded with polluted air, fouled water and more crowded with mankind and the machines and constructions of his technology. Where once the proud bald eagle commonly coursed our airways, now we watch the starling and house sparrow. Where formerly leaped the trout, the carp and alewife now roil the muddy waters.

Man should pay heed to wildlife, as a warning of the dangers to his own existence.

Coal miners once carried canaries into the bowels of the earth as sentinels against deadly mine gasses. Because their sensitivity was much greater than man's, they served to warn him early of danger.

In this manner we are served by the disaster occurring in some of our bird populations. Many bald eagles, ospreys, peregrines and other fish or flesh-eating birds are suffering reproductive failures or death due to pesticide contamination of their foods. Robins, eating worms pulled from ground contaminated by DDT sprayed to control Dutch Elm disease, have developed tremors and died in great numbers.

Slowly we are beginning to comprehend the complex interdependencies of all life on this good earth. Along with the luxuries and comforts provided us by technology have come problems and dangers. Man has tried to subjugate nature only to find that he himself is a part of nature, dependent upon her as is all living matter.

With the new-found knowledge that he is merely a fragile link in the diverse structure of nature, although capable of infinite mischief, man perhaps will more carefully nurture this earth and its myriad other creatures.

PROVIDING ASSISTANCE in land use planning is one of the duties of Jack Kreiner, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. He is shown here preparing a conservation plan for a cooperating member of the Delta County Soil Conservation District. A total of 45 conservation plans and 26 special land use inventories and evaluations were completed for county landowners during 1969.

Wants Opinion On U-M Black Plan

LANSING (AP)— Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, says he will request an attorney general's opinion on moves at the University of Michigan to increase black enrollment to 10 per cent.

"I have poor, white college-age students living in my rural district who are as culturally and economically deprived as anyone else in this state," Swallow said Wednesday. "If blacks are entitled to a special quota, so are they, and one could extend this theory to include Mexican-Americans and many other deprived groups."

"The end result would be chaos and should obviously point out that the only possible theory is the application of academic standards without regard to race, color or creed."

Now Is The Time To Consider Conservation Improvements

Now is the time to be thinking about needed conservation practices including ponds, open ditches, tile drains, irrigation systems, grassed waterways and other structures reminds Jack Kreiner, District Conservationist, and Howard Wilson, Engineer, of the Soil Conservation Service.

Later this spring when the weather has mellowed persons who will assist in the layout and construction inspection of conservation practices will have many other demands upon their time, Kreiner said. Because of these demands, the time remaining for planning and design is necessarily reduced.

In a Soil Conservation District, the Soil Conservation Technician must budget his time.

Planning Necessary

Good planning involves both good timing and good designs. The quality of a pond, for example, is no better than the quality of the planning and design prior to the construction. A pond planned and installed correctly will provide many more benefits and less chance of failure than those installed without a design.

"Using the pond as an example, let's look at some of the individuals involved in the successful completion of the project," Kreiner and Wilson said.

First, the land owner. He must think of the amount of money he has available and is willing to use to finance the project. In many cases he will only have a limited amount. He must think of the timing of construction to make sure it fits in well with other demands upon his time. Certainly most land owners want to be able to be present on the job site while it is being installed.

The pipe fabricating company's operations must also be planned. They appreciate orders well in advance of the delivery date. Normally, it will take four to six weeks after an order is submitted before the plant can deliver principal spillway pipes for ponds.

File Requests Early

The conservation contractor must include the project in his usually well filled schedule of work. His success is built around good scheduling of the jobs he is to do. In many cases he may be able to do a job more economically if he does not have long travel distances between jobs. Also, he is more able to satisfy his customers by being there when he says he will come if agreements and plans have been completed well in advance.

County ASCS committees receive an annual allocation of money to help property owners establish conservation practices on a cost sharing basis. The land owner should file his request for assistance at the county ASCS office early. Time is needed for the County ASCS committee to approve or disapprove the request for cost sharing before the SCS does their planning work.

Investigation Needed

The Soil Conservation Service Technician must, on many jobs, make accurate site investigations and contour surveys and maps of the pond area. From these surveys the pond area is plotted to scale, contours are drawn and the water line, top of fill, emergency spillways, and pipe outlet elevations are laid out on the map to best fit the lay of the land.

The technician measures the size of the drainage area (watershed) that flows into the pond site, along with determining the type of soil and type of cover and hillyness of the land in the drainage area. These all affect the amount of flood waters that have to be planned for.

A preliminary design is then drawn up using U.S. Weather Bureau records for the proper rainfall frequencies typical of that area. The amounts and sizes of spillway pipes, fittings, toe drains, core trench locations, and cubic yards of fill necessary must be determined from these surveys. The estimated cost is also computed.

Costs Reviewed

The preliminary designs and estimated costs are then reviewed with the landowner. If he indicates a firm intent to procede with the project then a detailed plan is prepared showing all of the required elevations, quantities and materials. An extra sheet is provided for the pipe fabricator to construct the primary spillway pipes. The job is then ready for the contractor and layout crew to prepare for the actual construction.

There are many operations and many people involved, Kreiner pointed out. Cooperation between these people is important. Early planning helps to get the job started so that the construction is completed on schedule. It helps eliminate the possibility of having to have a constractor return to install the correct length of pipe, or make flatter side slopes on the pond banks to meet ASCS and safety specifications. Good planning makes for a better and more economical pond.

There are 14,000 ship passages through the Sault Ste. Marie locks during an average eight month shipping season. The locks raise ships 21 feet from the level of Lake Huron to Lake Superior. Viewing stands enable visitors to practically touch the ships as they lock through.

Guard the Future of Our Land and Water!

Good conservation techniques work like a watchdog in the fields, guarding against erosion . . . and in our rivers and lakes, guarding against pollution . . . a natural enemy. Both problems have been on the increase, and threaten your personal prosperity and your growth. Conserve, maintain, improve our lands and waters today with conservation for a prosperous tomorrow!

PONDS HAVE MANY VALUES. Here Jean and Joyce Lippens are breaking the ice in their pond in hopes of hastening warm weather so they can start swimming. Their grandfather, Adolph, and father, Phil, look on with amusement This pond provides a place for neighborhood children to skate, swim, boat, fish, and adds to the scenic value of the area as well as improves wildlife habitat.

LOCKED IN

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP)—A hotel owner at nearby Alice opened his bar to find he had locked one of his customers in all the previous night. The man, a stranger, offered to pay for the drinks he had to pass the hours and the money changed hands. Only when the man had disappeared did the hotel owner discover the money had come from the till in his bar.

Six Directors Of First Board To Be Honored

In commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Delta County Soil Conservation District, the Board of Directors will honor the first six men elected to the Board in those beginning years of 1950 and 1951 who still live and own land in Delta County.

A personalized membership sign will be presented to each in appreciation of their services to the District during those difficult early years. Those to be honored are:

Edwin Bergman, of Bark River. He was elected to the first Board of Directors in 1950 and served continuously for the next nine years. He was chairman of the Board for eight of those years. He operates a dairy farm and has had a conservation plan for his land in effect since 1955.

Robert Watchorn, of Fayette. He was elected to membership on the first Board in 1950 and served through 1957. He has owned several farms and currently has conservation plans on all of the lands he owns. In 1956 he donated 10 acres of his land near Fayette State Park to the Delta County Soil Conservation District which the District still owns. It has been used as an outdoor classroom for students and 4-H Clubs.

Harold Gustafson, Supervisor of Ensign Township, was elected to the first Board in 1950 and served for one term. He owns 120 acres of land at Ensign.

Clayton Ford, of Cornell, was elected to membership on the first Board in 1950 and was treasurer through 1957. He operates a 480-acre dairy farm and has had conservation plans in effect on his lands since 1958.

Elmer Lepisto, of Rock, was lected to the first Board in 1950 and served for one term and then was elected again to the Board in 1958 and has served continuously since then to the present time. He is presently vice-chairman of our Board. He operates a 480 acre beef farm and has had conservation plans for his lands since 1958.

Anthony Purzol, of Stonington, was elected to the Board of Directors in 1951 and served for one term of office. He operated a large farm in those days but has since discontinued farming operations. He now owns 40 acres on which he has had a conservation plan since 1962.

ASCS Programs Serve Landowners Of County

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) is under the direction of a county committee composed of three farmers. The committee is responsible for program administration and policy determinations. The ASCS is headed by a county executive director who is responsible to the county committee.

The Agricultural Conservation program is one of the programs administered by the ASCS. ACP is the oldest of the farm programs presently in effect and annually works with and provides cost shares with eligible land owners in the county to carry out needed conservation practices on their farms.

ACP is America's best pollution-control program. Cost-share funds have contributed to abating pollution of streams, rivers, and lakes. The program has helped keep the soil where it can feed future generations and greatly reduced pollution of the Nation's waterways. This has benefited wildlife, increasing hunting, fishing and other recreational opportunities for all the people.

Major Change

One of the major changes for 1970 is the authorization to cost share the carrying out of two pollution - abatement practices. The first practice, reducing pollution of water by farm wastes, applies to barnyards, feed lots, milkrooms and other areas from which run-off constitutes an actual or potential pollution hazard. The other practice, controlling sedimentation, applies to critical areas on farms adjacent to streams, ponds and lakes, which are subject to erosion and which constitute a significant pollution hazard.

Land-owners participating in ACP received assistance ranging from 30 to 80 per cent of the cost of needed conservation practices. Included are practices for establishing and improving vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, or trees for soil protection, installing erosion control structures and practices for the conservation and more efficient use of water. Also included are practices especially beneficial to wildlife.

Assistance Required

The majority of the practices require technical assistance as well as financial assistance. In many cases the technical assistance is of a far greater value and importance to the completion of these conservation measures than the cost-shares paid to the land owners.

For example, the installation of tile drains, open ditches or erosion control structures requires the assistance of technical people. This service is provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

Forestry planting and forestry improvement require the assistance of trained foresters. These men are trained technicians and are provided by the Department of Natural Resources, Forestry Division, for the protection and propagation of our forests.

If the private landowner had to pay the going rate for trained technicians, the conservation and protection of our natural resources would be sadly neglected.

Stability Is Goal

The Feed Grain and Wheat programs are also administered by ASCS. The purpose of these programs is to stabilize production by reducing acreages. By diverting land to other uses, this reduces government costs by not having to store vast quantities of surplus grains; thus agricultural production is stabilized to meet our National needs and our export commitments, and have a reasonable, safe surplus on hand.

Participants in the cropland adjustment program receive payment for diverting eligible cropland to protective conservation use under long-term agreements. Additional payments are made to participants who agree to permit free access for fishing, hunting, hiking and trapping.

The wool incentive payment program, also administered by ASCS, is an incentive program to incerase production. The payments are set so as to bring the national average price received by producers for their wool up to a national average incentive price.

Another responsibility of ASCS is the defense readiness program. U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies have undertaken defense preparedness as a part of their regular and continuing activities. The program is designed to maintain continuity of the supply of food and agricultural products and to protect agricultural resources in a wartime emergency.

GOOD LOCK

KEVIL, Ky. (AP)—President W. G. Miller hopes the lock at the Kevil Bank proves effective at keeping out burglars.

Miller knows it's pretty good at keeping the bank staff inside. The lock jammed as the workers started to leave and the employes waited one hour until a locksmith arrived to let them out.

OCTAVE CARIGNAN of Cornell, right, and Roland Peterson of Escanaba, soil conservation service technician, inspect a stand of trees at Carignan's farm. The trees were planted as part of an overall soil conservation program at the farm for which Carignan will be honored as "Outstanding Conservationist for 1969" at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation District Friday.

Carignan Will Receive Conservationist Award

Octave Carignan of Cornell will be awarded a plaque as Delta County's Outstanding Conservationist for 1969 at the annual meeting of the Delta County Soil Conservation District Friday at 8:00 p.m. at the Perkins Legion Hall.

The award will be presented by Elmer Lepisto of Rock, last year's award winner and a member of the Board of Directors.

Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) will be the main speaker at the meeting.

Carignan has been a cooperating member of the Delta County Soil Conservation District since 1952. He operates 660 acres of farmland that includes 177 acres of cropland, 75 acres of hay and pasture-land, and 375 acres of forested lands. He raises beef cattle and potatoes for a cash crop.

He has conservation plans on all of these lands and has done an excellent job adjusting the use of these lands to the capabilities of the soils. Some of the practices he has installed to make sure lands are not abused include:

- The planting of trees on 35 acres of rolling sand not suited to more intensive uses;
- Installing a contour strip cropping system on 37 acres of rolling but otherwise fertile cropland;
- Installing over 2,000 feet of grassed waterways to prevent erosion and gullies from forming on croplands. He has also constructed 500 feet of deep ditches to drain low lying croplands;
- He limits the use of 75 acres of marginal cropland to the production of hay and pasture crops only to protect the soils from harm;
- He uses improved woodland management practices on all 375 acres of forest land;
- He manages all forest lands and odd areas for the maximum benefit of wildlife. This includes the protection and preservation of beaver ponds and dams to provide improved habitat for aquatic wildlife;
- He has reserved some waterfront areas on the Escanaba river for recreational developments.
- He has and is clearing snowmobiling trails through woodlands to improve the recreational benefits from these lands.

Carignan has not stopped planning and making improvements on his lands. He has plans to construct a combination wildlife and livestock watering pond and also plans to plant a homestead and feedlot windbreak soon.

Besides setting an example of good land use on his farm Octave has also been a leader in the Delta County Soil Conservation District. He served on the Board of Directors for eight years from 1958 through 1965.

In appreciation of his continued dedication to intelligent land use and to his leadership in District activities the Board of Directors honors him as the Outstanding Conservationist for 1969.

Preserve Property, Landowners Urged

This is the time of the year when people are eager to start working out of doors, and this is particularly true if they have a cottage by the lake or river.

Owners of waterfront property can preserve the value of their property by taking proper steps to maintain the quality of the water to which their property is contiguous.

The most important step, of course, is to keep nutrients from entering the lake or stream. The nutrients for the most part come from improperly installed septic tanks.

Nutrients are food for plants. Some plant growth is desirable for fish cover but if plant growth is not controlled it will eventually fill a lake or slow down the flow in a stream. Growing plants give off oxygen during the day, but use up oxygen during the night. This process causes great fluctuations of dissolved oxygen in the water.

Some fish, especially trout, cannot tolerate these fluctuations. Nutrients causing the most problems are phosphates and nitrates. Both of these nutrients come as effluent from septic tank systems and soil erosion.

If lake and stream banks are planted to trees and shrubs and disposal field tile of septic tanks are kept away from the water's edge the water should remain at the same quality for an indefinite period of time.

If planning a water supply for a cottage, always put the well up a slope from any septic tank and disposal field. The reason is obvious. Your chances of pollution to the well is greatly reduced.

When planning for an adequate water supply at a cottage site, seek advice before starting to spend money. If inside plumbing is planned, the septic tank and tile field should also be planned.

Proper planning can save money and headaches later. It will also prevent pollution.

Heads Road Unit

LANSING (AP) — George M. Foster Jr. of Lansing, an insurance executive and son of a former highway commissioner for Michigan and Indiana, has been named president of the Michigan Good Roads Federation. Foster succeeds James R. Vivian Sr. of Houghton as head of the federation, which, since 1938 has served as the principal state organization, uniting road builders and users.

Pond Safety Is Essential

All ponds, lakes and rivers are potentially dangerous, especially to children.

But many accidental drownings could be prevented if the necessary precautions are taken. Installing water safety stations at ponds and dangerous river and lake frontage is one precaution that may well save lives.

Information on safety stations can be obtained at the Soil Conservation Service office at 2013 1st Ave. N., Escanaba. Ask for Farm Pond Safety Job Sheet 309 and PA-396, "Make Your Farm Pond Safe." These documents explain in detail the proper method of installing a treated fence post with a warning sign, 10 foot pole, life ring buoy, weather proof rope, and the brackets and bolts that are needed to properly equip a rescue station.

The Delta County Soil Conservation District is also aiding landowners to install safety stations by offering for sale pond safety signs that help meet the requirements of a safety station.

These can also be obtained at 2013 1st Ave. N. They will be on display at the Annual Meeting of the Soil Conservation District at Perkins Friday and may be purchased or ordered at that time.

Having a pond or dangerous water area on your land means additional responsibility. Posting the pond against trespassers does not necessarily relieve the owner of this responsibility. Each owner has a moral obligation to his family, friends and neighbors to make his water areas as free from dangers as possible by providing safety stations and other safeguards to help prevent accidental drownings.

Nearly three-quarters of the nation's agricultural graduates now come from cities, according to New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand.

LOREN JOHNSTON of Pine Ridge shows off his ice shanty to Jack Kreiner, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service. The shanty is used on his fish pond to harvest and feed trout during the winter months.

Yugoslavia's Socialism Working Well; Russ Irked

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Yugoslavia never had it so good economically. For that reason as much as any other, it is fearful. The Russians are annoyed.

From the look of things, Moscow and its bloc allies are neck-deep in intrigue aimed at toppling Yugoslavia's system of socialism. Moscow says it isn't socialism at all. For the Kremlin there is only one socialism—Soviet.

Work Against Each Other

Two brands of Yugoslav Communists are working one against the other—the go-go boys of the new era and the die-hard conservatives, many of whom now seem to yearn for the uncomplicated old days of Stalin's domination. The conservatives may be getting ready for a power struggle with Soviet help, perhaps after Tito dies. Should they succeed, the drastic change in the stratetic picture will shake Europe.

Tito turns 78 next month. His strong personality accomplished almost a miracle in Yugoslavia. The country is a federation of six "Socialist republics" with a variety of creeds and nationalities. It has a Balkan history of feuds, fragmentation, foreign domination and wars. Tito has kept it together for a quarter century and at the same time stayed out of the embrace of the Russian bear.

Popovic No. 2 Man

In the normal course of events, if Tito should die, the presidency would be assumed under the constitution by Col. Gen. Koca Popovic, 62, the former foreign minister who is now vice president. He would hold it until elections, and would then be in a strong position to stay. He is a tough, long-time confidant of Tito who doesn't care for the Russians.

But there could be a good deal of trouble, perhaps even before Tito passes from the scene.

The Yugoslav League of Communists, as the ruling party calls itself, obviously is worried by pressure from external sources at a time when internal political difficulties could generate the sort of confusion in which the Russians like to operate.

Leading party newspapers speak frequently these days of the "Cominformists," who include those never reconciled to the economic reforms and the political system which encourage workers' self-management and incentives.

The name refers to the Cominform—the now defunct Communist Information Bureau organized by Moscow under Stalin in 1947 to insure bloc obedience. The Cominform pronounced Tito a heretic for talking back to Stalin and read him out of the family. The term "Cominformist" today does not necessarily refer to veterans of 1948 as such, but to a state of mind.

Outside Yugoslavia the Cominformists are the present Moscow rulers and some men in other bloc parties. Inside Yugoslavia they include many in the party, government and army bureaucracies who fear the economic reforms which permitted Yugoslavs to enjoy markedly better living standards than their Communist-dominated neighbors. The Yugoslav press says often that Moscow is afraid of the influence of the Yugoslav system on other countries.

Encouraged By Criticisms

The party newspaper Politka, commenting early this year, claimed the Cominformists within were encouraged by criticisms of the regime "from the East."

The worries are compounded by an internal political situation generated by pressure from below for less centralization of authority. Croatia's Communists, for example, demand more autonomy.

The party has been losing members from expulsion or resignation at the rate of 23,000 a year for four years, largely because of apathy. Most losses are from ranks of workers and youth. Party membership remains stable at about 1,150,000 with new admissions, but the leaders are displeased with the caliber.

Obedience To Moscow?

What seems to anger Belgrade most about the Russians is that support of the Cominformists is accompanied by Muscovite insistence that every "Socialist" country owes unquestioning obedience to Moscow. Czechoslovakia in 1968 was an example to those who deviated.

As if suggesting that Yugoslavia was subjected to the threat of military pressure, the press commented angrily on recent military maneuvers in the western part of the U.S.S.R. The Yugoslavs said these were "motivated by bloc policy" and were along a "strategic operational route in central Europe."

The official Belgrade press displayed much anger at a West German newspaper report of a military coup in the making in Yugoslavia. Belgrade's press suggested that such stories were planted by outside enemies.

It all added up to considerable sensitiveness in Belgrade, whose suspicions of planted rumors, aimed at keeping politics churned up and politicians off balance, might be well founded.

NMU To Appoint Citizens Panel On Broadcasting

MARQUETTE — Northern Michigan University President John X. Jamrich is presently seeking out community leaders from throughout the Upper Peninsula to serve on a Broadcast Advisory Board for the university's WNMR television and radio outlets.

The decision to establish this Board was based on the President's desire to "realize the university's aspiration to establish an educational television broadcasting station for the benefit of the Upper Peninsula."

The Board will be composed of approximately 15 members.

In general, the role of the Broadcast Advisory Board will be to assist station management and the university administration in developing public broadcasting in the U.P., so that it may best serve the needs and desires of the citizens of the area.

TOP WARDEN — Norman A. Carlson (above), a career federal corrections official, at only 35 is the new head of Federal Bureau of Prisons.

The P. E. Auxiliary will also be meeting at this time and Miss Leona Doughtery, speech pathologist and faculty member of Bay de Noc Community College, will speak at the women's gathering. After the meetings, both groups will tour the new facilities at Bay de Noc College.

A social hour and dinner will be held at the Dells Supper Club beginning at 6 p.m. and will be followed by the installation of new officers. The Rev. Charles C. Carmody will be the guest speaker for the evening.

Hobby Fair Set For Saturday

The annual Hobby Fair sponsored by the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce will be held at the James T. Jones School Saturday from 3 to 9 p. m. Many new and different items have been added to this year's show under the chairmanship of Thomas Elegeert.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Thomas Elegeert, Mrs. Milburn Nolan and Mrs. Ray Norberg. They are pleased with the response to the project and wish to encourage, not only Gladstone residents but, all Delta County residents, to participate by either entering their hobby or attending the community affair.

Registration blanks should be turned in to Mrs. Elegeert at her home, 709 Michigan Ave. as soon as possible. They may be obtained at Dehlin's Drug Store, Tang's Color Headquarters, Ben Franklin Store, Joe Butch's Hardware or Vere's Variety Store.

Several unusual displays have already been registered, including Fred Schram's collection of driftwood birds; Robert Hartman's model ship encased in glass; Bobby Hartman's collection of war relics and medals, and Walter McClintock's display of Early American pressed glass. Other items include knitting, crocheting, painting, leathercraft and many others.

Something new has also been added to the Fair. Live demonstrations of jewelry making by Mrs. Ruth Nobel, Rapid River; 10 year old Kathy Dooman will create her unusual stationary by using wild flowers and leaves; Carol View, a Rapid River student will be making colorful flowers from wool fibers, and Mrs. Robert Bricker will show her skill in cake decorating.

Exhibitors are asked to bring their displays to the school between 9 a. m. and noon Saturday and to bring whatever special equipment they may need to display their hobbies to the best advantage. However, tables will be available for simple displays.

Judging by Mrs. Mel Carlson, Mrs. Robert Stack and Mrs. Ron Watson will take place between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. and ribbons for first and second place as well as honorable mention will be awarded at that time.

All displays will be welcome with the exception of live animals and children under the age of 14 will not be admitted unless accompanied by parents or an adult, officials in charge said.

The Foreign Study Group at Gladstone High School will sell coffee and doughnuts in the multipurpose room during the afternoon and evening hours.

Bicycle Safety Check Planned

Two bicycles will be awarded at the Bicycle Rodeo to be held at the All Saints School Saturday, April 25, from 1 to 4 p. m. The Rodeo is being sponsored by the Gladstone PTA and the All Saints Home and School Association.

All children in the first grade and above are eligible to participate in the rodeo and safety check. It is not necessary for the youngsters to own a bicycle but all youngsters must pass the safety test in order to be eligible to win one of the many prizes which will be awarded.

Mrs. Samuel Hoyt is general chairman of the event and representatives of the following organizations will be assisting with the work: Rotary and Lions Clubs, Girl and Boy Scouts, Gladstone 4-H Club, VFW, Minnewasca Chapter of the Eastern Star, DeMolay and Jobs Daughters.

Minor repairs will be made to the bicycles after the inspection and members of the VFW will apply reflector tape to the bikes.

Anyone wishing to donate prizes for the Rodeo, or money to purchase prizes, may contact Mrs. Hoyt.

300 Firemen Fight Big Detroit Fire

DETROIT (AP) — More than 300 firemen and all available equipment were used Wednesday to fight a spectacular blaze in a downtown Detroit building.

The fire, which began in a grease shaft in a restaurant kitchen, burned for hours and caused heavy damage to the six-story Golden Building. Several stores, the restaurant and a bar were destroyed.

Three firemen suffered smoke inhalation; two were treated at Detroit General Hospital and released and the third was held for observation. There were no civilian injuries.

Acting Fire Chief Lester Emery said the fire was five-alarms plus. Detroit only allows five alarms, but after the fifth alarm was sounded, additional men, equipment and cadets from the Fire Academy were were called in.

The fire, which was still burning fiercely when an antiwar rally began in Kennedy Square nearby, combined with the rally to reduce rush hour downtown traffic to a creeping pace.

War Casualty

WASHINGTON (AP) — One Michigan soldier was among 19 U.S. servicemen killed recently in Vietnam, the Defense Department said Wednesday.

Killed was Spec. 4 Phillip A. Harris, son of Mrs. Eleanor Harris of Detroit.

Library Week Plans Readied

Every week is Library Week at the Gladstone Library, but this special week gives national recognition to the role of the library in the school and community.

The theme: Reading is for Everybody, is demonstrated in our own library with its broad variety of subjects and its allowances for reading levels from the picture books for pre-schoolers to the most advanced technical and professional books.

Library Week also points out that libraries have materials for looking and listening also. Records and tapes are available.

Mrs. Doreen Anderson, librarian, reports the circulation of all library materials has increased over last year by more than 4,000 items during the period from June 1, 1969 to March 31, 1970. Most of this increase is in the adult and Audio visual materials according to Mrs. Anderson.

Inflation Changes Our Sense Of Value

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The Martini is probably the leading cause of unemployment among executives over 40.

If a fellow never does anything, he never has to apologize for what he did.

People who like to chew chocolate caramels usually owe money to their dentists.

It is less nerve-racking to submit to a mugging than it is to sit through lunch with a guy who has the habit of drumming on the table with his fingers.

The two kinds of hobbyists I'd hate most to spend an evening listening to are weightlifters and sky divers.

Inflation inevitably changes our sense of values. The odds are 3 to 1 that if you drop a penny on the sidewalk the person behind you won't stoop and retrieve it—that is, unless you happen to be a pretty girl. In that case the odds are about even.

The height of sophistication is the ability to yawn in the boss's face while being given a merit raise.

In giving a child a name, the wise parent should think first not of how cute it sounds now but how it will look 70 years later on a tombstone.

A man is judged by what he has in his head, a woman by what she keeps in her refrigerator.

Nothing makes a fellow feel more greedy than inheriting money. He hates to pay tax on it even more than if he had earned it himself.

Here's another difference between men and women. A man will usually look up in the telephone directory a number he can't remember. A woman will simply dial the operator and get her to look it up.

Whenever I overhear a man in a restaurant order a breaded veal cutlet for dinner, I figure he has a pretty sodden imagination.

One of the major disappointments of our civilization is that the harder it is to open a package you get the less likely it has in it anything worth keeping.

Whenever you meet a man who pays $100 for a pair of shoes, you can be certain of one thing about him: sooner or later he will tell you about it.

Among the girls in the office typist pool, the one with the longest fingernails usually turns out the fewest letters.

The biggest problem of housewives today is how to use profitably the time they must spend waiting for a frozen steak to thaw out on the drainboard.

A father wouldn't mind so much how his son's flapping locks make him look if the lad would simply pay his own way through college with the haircut money he saves.

If during a single day all of us carried out our daydreams and fantasies, nobody in the nation would be alive by nightfall.

No Indictment

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—A Tazewell County, Ill., grand jury has declined to indict Delmar Nagle, 17, of Creve Coeur, Ill., in the shooting death of another soldier Glen Kapulos, 18, of Albion, Mich., State's Atty. Bernard Oltsman reported Tuesday.

Kapulos was shot March 16 in Nagle's home while the two Vietnam veterans, who were absent without leave from Ft. Collins, Colo., were handling a pistol.

In one hour a modern combine can harvest enough wheat to bake 20,000 loaves of bread, according to New Holland Division of Sperry Rand engineers.

Programs To Continue In Art, Music, Phy Ed

Students in the Manistique Area Schools will continue to receive instruction in art, instrumental and vocal music and physical education next year.

The Area Board of Education Tuesday night resolved that these "programs be maintained at a similar level during the 1970-71 school year" by a 5-2 vote with Trustees Robert Knoph and William Mueller dissenting.

"Continue rather than curtail" was the audience reaction during board discussion on the employment of traveling teachers who conduct the classes. The speakers, both parents and teachers, pointed out the benefits children receive from art, music and physical education: that instruction requires special training which most classroom teachers do not have, and since the programs are part of the overall curriculum, they shouldn't be cut.

Board Scolded

One parent scolded the board for even considering the elimination of the programs and asked how they could approve a $3,081 expenditure for football uniforms and equipment (which was done previous to the discussion on traveling teachers) and then talk about cutting expenses in this area.

The board had considered dropping the programs as one means of balancing the budget for 1970-71.

A lengthy discussion on an "open door" library policy (which would allow junior and senior high school students free access to the library during school hours) ended when Trustee Leon Wood was asked to talk over the matter with the Library Advisory Board, of which he is board delegate, and bring back their suggestions.

The "open door" policy was advanced by Boyd Briggs, 211 N. Houghton Ave., who complained that students are not allowed any library privileges without a permission slip from teachers. Nor were students allowed to study in the library, he said.

Possible Deficiency?

Briggs contended that if one of the reasons for not allowing students free access to the library is discipline, it reflected "a deficiency in the capability of the personnel working in the library."

High School Principal Marvin Frederickson said that with the present large enrollment, the facility would be jammed and crowd control would become a problem. He endorsed Briggs' suggestion that junior high students be allowed free access for a two-month experimental period.

Supt. Edwin E. Wuehle, in reply to Briggs' comment that the library was actually a public and school facility, said that the school was under no obligation to operate a public library; that neither the city or county contributed financial support to its operation; and that before penal fines were diverted to libraries, the facility was being operated by the school for public use.

Custodian Hired

The administration's request for approval in the hiring of custodian Dave Sheldon passed 4-3 with Wood, Knoph and Mueller voting against the request. Wood said he believes additional help is unnecessary since the board faces a deficit and should try to save money.

Head custodian Joe Wood had pointed out that the board should compute the difference in hiring an outside firm to perform necessary work and the actual salary of an extra man.

Mrs. Betty LaPointe's request for sick leave pay to apply for educational course expense was granted by a 5-2 vote with Wood and Knoph opposed.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Ione Males, a Lakeside teacher, and Mrs. Patricia Lehman, a high school instructor. Mrs. Leona Williams' request to teach only first semester next year to qualify for retirement pension and use a full five years after earning a degree, was okayed.

Contracts Approved

Unanimous approval was given for contract acceptance of two new teachers. Mary Lou Cook will teach early elementary as will Jeanne Thill. Mrs. Cook has taught one year in Grand Rapids and attended Ferris State College and Central Michigan University. Miss Thill, Fayette, was educated at Bay de Noc Community College and Northern Michigan University. She did her student teaching in Escanaba. Both women hold bachelor's degrees.

Vern Annelin, Lincoln School principal, was hired to coordinate the summer school programs at a salary of $990. He is replacing Evelyn Berwin, elementary coordinator, who was coordinator before her recent automobile accident.

Bids on two 66-passenger buses from Legget and Foye, chassis, and Specker Motors of Marquette, body, were accepted. Total cost of the new vehicles is $18,172.

Classes Dropped

Before adjourning the board okayed dropping home economics and shop classes for junior high students due to the lack of available time for class scheduling and asked the superintendent to contact the Intermediate School District for information on obtaining the services of teachers to tutor home-bound children. Two requests were received for services of such teachers.

James Tennyson's bid of $500 on the Doyle School was tabled for further discussion on the extent of property involved in the sale.

Next meeting will be April 28 at the Hiawatha School where the board will discuss busing Hiawatha sixth graders to Lincoln School for classes next year.

Pair Seeks Re-Election To Board Of Education

Board of Education President Denton Nelson and Secretary Margaret Waters announced their candidacy for reelection to the Area Board of Education at Tuesday night's board meeting.

Both candidates filed nominating petitions Tuesday.

Nelson and Mrs. Waters, both seeking four year terms, are each completing eight years on the board. Nelson has been president for the past three years and Mrs. Waters secretary for seven years.

Mrs. Waters is a native of Alpine Township in Kent County, attended Grand Rapids schools and graduated from Grand Rapids Junior College. She holds a bachelor of science degree in Zoology from the Univehsity of Michigan which she won in 1947 and a second bachelor of science degree in Medical Technology which was awarded in 1949.

She worked for four years at the University of Michigan Hospital in the departments of bio-chemistry and internal medicine and spent two years in the University Health Service laboratories. She and her husband, Dr. Duane Waters, a Manistique native, came to the city in 1954.

Mrs. Waters has served on many committees and boards during her board of education membership including five years on the County Allocation Board, of which she was chairman for three years.

The Waters' are the parents of four children, three boys and a girl, and live at 358 Lake St.

Nelson is a life-long Manistique resident and, in partnership with his father, Otis Nelson, operates Nelson's "66" Service, a fuel and gasoline business.

He is a 1943 graduate of Manistique High School and a three-year Navy veteran of World War II. Until 1960 he and his father operated a logging business. Following a woods accident in which the younger Nelson lost his left leg, the two became associated in the service station business.

Nelson is currently school representative on the Allocation Board and sits on the City Recreation Board. He is also a member of the Delta-Schoolcraft Vocational Education steering committee. He has been very active in community affairs particularly the Boy Scouts and Little League.

Married to the former Bernita Archey, they live at 212 N. Fifth St. and are the parents of four children—three boys and one girl.

Interested candidates have until May 11 to file nominating petitions for the two open seats on the Area Board of Education. Forms are available from the Central School business office.

Board Approves Tentative Budget

A tentative 1971 budget of $410,960 has been adopted by the County Board of Commissioners for submission to the County Tax Allocation Board.

The budget will require 9.7 mills local taxes and is an increase of $99,129 over the current budget.

The county presently levies 7.05 allocated mills.

The largest single increase is found in the $45,000 appropriation to the Social Welfare Dept., which reportedly anticipates an increase in operating expenses of the Medical Care Facility.

Other major increases, ranging from $1,200 to $4,500, are noted in departmental appropriations.

New budgetary items included $4,000 for a recreational development plan, part of a county comprehensive (master) plan, and $1,500 for a county dog enforcement program.

Seek City Funds

The recreational study will be made by the Central Upper Peninsula Economic Development District and is the first step in the county's intent to qualify for state recreational bond funding.

The dog program, adopted Tuesday, will be operated by the Sheriff's Dept. The board indicated it will seek city contributions to the program. To get the dog enforcement started this year, the board approved $1,500 deficit spending for the Sheriff's Dept.

Action was deferred on renovation of the courthouse heating system or minor improvements until it can be determined if outside funding is available for new courthouse construction or expansion of the present building.

Ordinance Adopted

The interim zoning ordinance officially was adopted and will be effective until March 31, 1971—at which time a permanent ordinance must be adopted. Authority was extended to Board Chairman Lindsley Frenette and County Clerk Fred Lesica to sign option agreements for property acquired under the airport expansion program.

The board also adopted an equalization report which sets the total assessed and equalized valuation of the county at $32,649,100.

The eight townships are equalized at $21,992,900. The City of Manistique's total equalized valuation is set at $10,656,200.

Two Rabid Foxes Found At Sault; Clinic Scheduled

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — An outbreak of rabies in animals across the border in Canada has prompted Chippewa County officials to hold an antirabies inoculation clinic for small animals here.

Two rabid foxes, the first cases of rabies here in 11 years, were reportedly found by county health officials, who said they probably came across from Canada during the winter when the St. Marys River was frozen over.

The outbreak began last fall in Ontario among foxes, and Canadian health officials have found 15 confirmed cases in foxes and another 15 suspected cases. All were within a 50 - mile radius of the Canadian Soo.

The disease can be contracted merely by touching the animal, and so far, 14 persons in Canada have been given a series of antirabies inoculations.

Ontario officials are holding seven dogs and three cats which may have the disease. One cow has died of it.

The highest number of farms in the United States was recorded in 1935—6.8 million.

Wuehle Accepts Appointment To WNMR-TV Board

Manistique Area Schools Superintendent Edwin E. Wuehle has accepted an appointment to a 15-member Broadcast Advisory Board for WNMR-TV and WNMR-FM, the educational broadcasting facilities of Northern Michigan University.

The committee will assist the station management and the University administration in developing public broadcasting in the Upper Peninsula to best serve the needs and desires of area citizens. It will work with schools and boards of education, citizens' groups and organizations, community action agencies, local governmental units and agencies plus civic clubs and chambers of commerce.

NMU president Dr. John X. Jamrich said, in requesting Wuehle to serve on the committee, "We feel that it is important to strengthen the ties which we have with citizens and groups throughout the area in regard to our broadcast activities."

Hellman Wants Compensation For Fishermen

LANSING (AP) — The House devoted much time to the question of calling up from the Appropriations Committee a bill to compensate commercial fishermen for losses resulting from state licensing restrictions.

Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, complained that the Appropriations Committee has taken no action on the bill, even though it has had the measure for a year.

"It would only take an hour," he said.

Hellman added "this bill would allow those fishermen put out of business by the Department of Natural Resurces, through no fault of their own, a chance to face tomorrow without debts hanging over their heads."

The state would pay up to 40 per cent of the value of the equipment which no longer could be used.

The request was withdrawn amid the assumption that the Appropriations Committee now would take up the measure.

Hellman said that if this was not the case, he would move again in one month for the measure to be pulled out of the committee and onto the House floor.

Even if passed, it would not become effective unless a companion measure in Congress is approved.

About 75 per cent of the world's population is still actively engaged in servicing mankind with food from the soil. According to New Holland farm equipment engineers most of the world's farmers—especially on the Asian and African continents—are still using primitive, if not ancient, field instruments.

Troopers of the Manistique State Police Post, with an assist from officers from Marquette District Headquarters, inspected 71 vehicles Tuesday in a safety check lane operating near the Chamber of Commerce building.

Cited for violations were Robert Lee Osterhout, Rte. 1, and Wilfred B. Johnson, Box 327, defective equipment; Barbara Smith, 303 N. Houghton Ave., and Ronald L. Arnold, Thompson, defective turn signals; Linda Jenerou, Box 48, and Carol Jean Beckman, Rte. 1, no operator's license; Lois A. Bellville, 614 Garden Ave., and Charles J. Ayotte, 131 N. Second St., expired operator's license; Patricia A. Wood, 435 Delta Ave., no vehicle registration; Celina Hursh, Thompson, defective headlights; Gary C. Lander, Indian Lake, defective tires; Ruby Bockorny, 320 Weston Ave., excessive smoke; Earl V. Gould, N. Second St., violation of license restrictions.

Other motorists cited for traffic violations not connected with the safety check lane were Victor Carberry, Menominee Falls, Wis., and Louis L. Servant, Escanaba, both for speeding; James Jeffrey, Box 275, driving with revoked license.

Law Enforcement Pleas For Help Ignored: 'Soapy'

LANSING (AP) — A possible candidate for the Michigan Supreme Court says society has "generally ignored" law enforcement pleas for manpower and equipment needed to fight crime and apprehend criminals.

Former Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams, who may run for one of two vacancies occurring this year on the state's high court, said Wednesday that instead of heeding law enforcement entreaties, "we have burdened police departments with functions and responsibilities which could well be performed by civilians."

"We can get more of our police into front-line law enforcement quickly if we are willing to relieve them of such nonpolice duties as guarding school crossings and acting as nursemaid to Saturday night drunks," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a Lansing civic group.

"Society must also have more police," Williams said, and "it is particularly essential that we persuade more young black men and members of other minority groups to enter police work.'

Michigan House Upholds Passage Of School Bill

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House has upheld its earlier passage of a controversial bill to halt restructuring of the racial balance of Detroit's secondary schools.

The vote was 39-37 against reconsideration of a a bill, introduced by Rep. E.D. O'Brien, a conservative Detroit Democrat. The bill would force the Detroit School Board to submit any reorganization plan to a voter referendum.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

It is aimed at overturning legislation enacted last summer that directs the Detroit board to divide the city's 295,000-student school system into neighborhood subdistricts.

A similar bill, passed recently by the Senate and sent to the House, simply would repeal Act 244 that the Legislature passed late last July.

Nab Escapee

COLDWATER (AP) — Branch County sheriff's deputies reported Wednesday the capture of Roger Zempell, whom they identified as a walkaway from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson. Deputies declined to disclose any further information.

DEER COME OUT OF THE WOODS to feed on the Carl Wadeen farm two miles west of Rock whenever they're called. During the late winter and early spring they gather in a small cedar swamp near the farm from which Wadeen has been cutting cedar for mine lagging. The deer feed on the cedar tops but also rely on handouts from the Wadeens. Mrs. Wadeen is shown throwing cull potatoes to a band of waiting deer. Wadeen says up to 40 or 50 deer have come out to feed at the farm this year. (Panax Photo)

President Asks Congress To Aid In Lake Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to outlaw dumping of polluted dredgings into the Great Lakes, starting with the 35 most polluted harbors.

In a special message, Nixon also ordered a special study, to be completed by Sept. 1, on dumping of dredgings, sludge and other materials into the oceans.

"In the New York area alone," he said, "these amounts of annual dumping would cover all of Manhattan Island to a depth of one foot in two years."

Initial emphasis, however, is on the Great Lakes, with Nixon saying his program would mark a major step toward abating pollution there by "by-products of modern technology and large population increases."

Principal legislative requests submitted by the President were:

—A halt to disposal of polluted dredge materials into the lakes by private interests and the Army Corps of Engineers "as soon as land disposal sites are available."

—Establishment by the corps of containment areas to hold the materials that otherwise might go into the lakes.

—A requirement that the states and other non-federal interests pay half the cost of building the containment areas and also provide needed lands and other rights.

—Suspending dredging after one year if the secretary of the Army found that local interests "were not making reasonable progress in attaining disposal sites."

The White House said construction of facilities in the 35 most polluted harbors would cost $70 million, of which the federal government would pay half. The cost of operating and maintaining the facilities would be increased $5 million a year "due to the added handling cost of the dredged spoil."

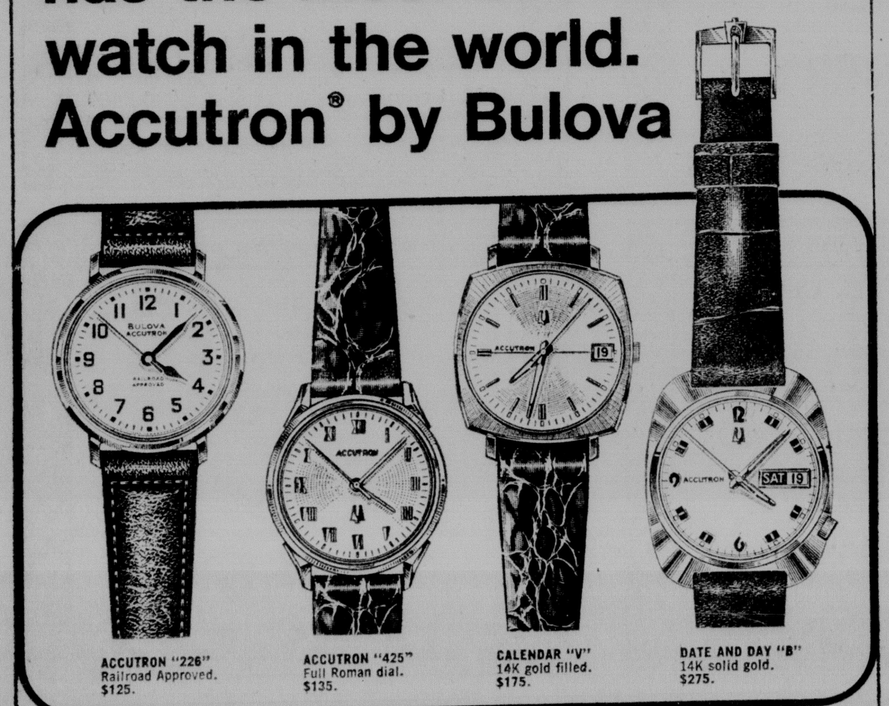
THYBERG'S

has the most accurate watch in the world. Accutron® by Bulova



What accounts for this extraordinary accuracy? Instead of the usual wheels and springs, Accutron has a tiny, electronically-driven tuning fork whose vibrations split each second into 360 precise little intervals. Ordinary watches have balance wheels. The balance wheel splits the second too. Into 5 or 10 intervals. And not so precisely. That's why balance wheel watches can't compete with tuning fork time.

Because of that tuning fork, we can guarantee Accutron accuracy to within a minute a month*.

Canadian Man To Get Alimony From His Wife

TORONTO (AP)—For the first time in Canadian history, a man has been awarded alimony from his wife.

The Ontario Supreme Court ruled Friday in favor of Louis Cohen, 63, who now is living on $25 a week in welfare payments in a one-room Toronto apartment.

Cohen's former wife was ordered to pay Cohen $335 a month, but he may never get the money. He owes $4,000 in court costs from another suit he lost to his wife and he must make support payments for his two daughters who are living with their mother.

Cohen's troubles started in 1952 when he signed over to his wife the deed to his Windsor, Ont., apartment building. During court proceedings, Cohen's equity in the building was estimated at $123,000.

One day about a year later, Cohen returned to his apartment unit in the building to find all his furniture, his wife, daughters and in-laws gone.

His wife had moved out and had taken everything with her. Cohen later was evicted from the building.

In granting the divorce on grounds of separation, Judge John H. Osler said Mrs. Cohen had been the sole proprietor of the apartment building and the increased value of her equity has resulted solely from the application of the profits of the building.

Mrs. Cohen said she would appeal.

NEW CONTRACEPTIVE

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian scientists believe they are close to producing a contraceptive pill from wild papaya seeds. The government has set up 10 research units across the country to test likely recipes using papaya, a tropical tree that looks like a palm.

BEHIND the COUNTER with Bob Krohmer

There is a widespread belief that physicians must limit themselves to prescribing only those drugs that are absolutely safe. And we expect the government and the pharmaceutical industry to provide us with this protection, without realizing that it isn't realistic or wise.

You see, no form of medical treatment is absolutely without risk. We realize this when we're talking about surgery, but many of us don't accept this when it comes to medicines. We expect "wonder drugs" and medical "cures" to be available without any danger of side-effects — and that is almost impossible.

Naturally, we want to keep the danger to a minimum — (and the FDA does a good job in providing that protection) — but we must realize that each and every drug has more than one effect on the body's complex chemistry. This applies not only to prescription drugs, but to all those others we use without a second thought: coffee, tea, alcohol, tobacco and aspirin.

This doesn't mean we should stop using drugs, or stop searching for the best form of medical treatment. It does mean that the patient must be extremely careful in following the advice of the doctor and pharmacist regarding a prescription. One tablet twice a day means just that: two tablets four times a day won't work any better; and could be dangerous. And it does mean that we must be careful about leaving such drugs around where they can be swallowed by children or "borrowed" by friends and relatives. In short, "take as directed."

Nicolo Marionettes Coming Here In May

Children of Escanaba will be taken on a fun-filled tour through a wonderland of Marionette magic on Saturday, May 9 when the Nicolo Marionettes perform their new musical version of Alice in Wonderland at the Escanaba Junior High School.

Children's Classic

Never before has wonderland been so joyously brought to the stage as it is in Nicolo's bright adaption of Lewis Carroll's 100-year-old children's classic.

Audiences will thrill as Alice, played by a puppet when she's small and by a live girl, when she's big, sings and dances with her marionette friends.

Mad Tea Party

Together they take part in such famous wonderland events as the Mad Tea Party, the Un-Birthday Ball, and the Mock Trial. The White Rabbit, Smoking Caterpillar and mysterious disappearing Cheshire Cat help Alice search for the stolen tarts. The problem is—will she find them in time to escape the wrath of the sinister Queen of Hearts?

Original Music

All of it takes place on a marionette stage in stage settings by Broadway designer William B. Pitkin. There is also orginal music that will keep the children humming long after the final curtain has fallen.

Performances are at 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. and tickets for children and adults can be purchased at all Escanaba grade schools. Mrs. John Anthony PTA Council president, is in charge of the arrangements. For more information call 786-7175.

State Sues Ludington, Five Firms For Spillage

LANSING (AP)—The state of Michigan filed suit today against the city of Ludington and five Ludington firms as a result of cyanide spills over the last 2½ years.

In an action filed in Mason County Circuit Court, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley asked preliminary injunctions requiring the city to enforce its sewer ordinance and ordering the firms to stop "discharging cyanide solution into the waters of the state."

Named in the suit are the city, Straits Steel & Wire Co., Ludington Plating Co., Handy Things Marufacturing Co., Atkinson Manufacturing Co., and Star Watchcase Co.

Kelley said that in the last 30 months, the firms have discharged "substantial quantities of cyanide solution into the sewer system and from there into the waters of the state of Michigan."

Kelley said the defendants "have failed to adopt sufficient safeguards and procedures for the keeping of, storing of and treatment of, cyanide solution in connection with the operation of the plating activities . . ."

"Such failure," he added, "can reasonably be expected to result in future discharges of cyanide solution so as to endanger the public health and safety."

He said that unless the discharge was prevented, there would be "a great danger of serious and irreparable harm."

In filing the suit, Kelley cited a state law which prohibits discharge of injurious substances into state waters.

Earlier this week, the State Health Department ordered the city to enforce its sewer ordinance. Tuesday, city officials gave Ludington's plating companies three days to provide temporary protection so that no leakage from their plants could enter the city's sewers.

The actions followed a March 15 incident in which some 1,500 gallons of cyanide solution spilled into the city sewer system and from there into Lake Michigan. The solution poured through a hole in a tank at the Straits Steel & Wire Co., Ludington officials said.

Douglas Said Unfit For Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — An impeachment resolution and call for a special investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas have reached the House in the wake of charges the 71-year-old jurist may be unfit for his post.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford touched off a vitriolic, parliamentary wrangle Wednesday night after asserting Douglas may be unfit to serve as a justice because of questionable outside interests and possible associations with underworld figures.

Ford threw his support to creation of a special House committee to study the Douglas case to see if there is cause for impeachment.

Under terms of a resolution proposed today, the special investigative panel would be required to submit its report in 90 days.

When Ford finished his speech Rep. Andrew Jacobs of Indiana, a liberal Democrat, said the GOP leader had a duty to file an impeachment resolution since he "has stated publicly that he favors impeachment of Justice Douglas."

"Since he (Ford) refuses to do so and since he raises grave questions, the answers to which I do not know, but every American is entitled to know," Jacobs told the House, "I introduce at this time the resolution of impeachment in order that a proper and dignified inquiry into this matter might be held."

Prayers Helping Astronaut Trio, Graham Claims

PARIS (AP) — Billy Graham said today he thinks prayer is helping to get the Apollo 13 astronauts safely back to earth.

Graham, here for a European conference on evangelism, said in a statement:

"At no time in history have so many people been praying in so many languages representing so many races and nationalities or a single event as for the successful return of our astronauts to earth. I think the reason it is going so much better than we thought a few hours ago is in answer to prayer."

Kopechne Inquest Account Still Remains Secret

BOSTON (AP) — Tangled in the courts, as it has been almost from the start, the inquest account of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile accident remains secret.

There may be word today on when the transcript of the inquiry into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Kennedy's car last July 18 will be issued.

The federal courts have rejected a stenographer's bid to block publication, but a Suffolk Superior Court judge has yet to rescind his order that the papers be withheld.

Judge Wilfred J. Paquet did not say when he would take the next legal step. His clerk, Edward V. Keating—who has custody of the papers now—said there might be a midday announcement.

The free lance stenographer who sought in court the exclusive right to sell copies of the inquest record based his case on Massachusetts custom and a 71-year-old legal opinion.

141 Americans Die During Past Week

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Command's spring offensive kept American battle losses at a seven-month high for the second successive week with 141 Americans killed in action last week, the U.S. Command reported today.

The toll was three more than the number killed the week before and the highest since the week of last Sept. 1-7, when 143 died in battle.

The number of Americans wounded fell by more than half, from 1,179 the previous week to 457. The decrease was attributed to a decline in the number of rocket and mortar attacks, which had increased sharply as enemy forces began their offensive on April 1.

The Saigon government said 542 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 1,336 wounded last week, compared with 754 killed and 1,716 wounded the week before. Enemy casualties rose to 3,458 killed from 3,366 the previous week, the U.S. Command said.

Protection Of Arctic Waters Worries U.S.

WASHINTON (AP) — Voicing concern over Canada's far-reaching claims over northern waters, the United States proposed Wednesday an international conference to set rules for environmental protection of the Arctic.

But if Canada is unwilling to await international agreement on Arctic pollution control, the United States offered meanwhile to submit U.S.-Canadian differences over the off-shore jurisdiction to the International Court of Justice.

The U.S. position was set forth in a State Department statement following a diplomatic protest delivered to the Canadian ambassador here Tuesday.

Press reports from Ottawa indicate the Canadian government has already turned down the U.S. protest.

The U.S. diplomatic move came on the heels of introduction by the Canadian government of proposed legislation that would give Canada broad control over waters reaching 100 miles into the Arctic Ocean off Canadian shores.

The avowed aim of the Canadian legislation is to curb pollution by ships and otherwise protect the environment. .

"International law provides no basis for these proposed unilateral extensions of jurisdictions on the high seas, and the United States can neither accept nor acquiesce in the assertion of such jurisdiction," the U.S. statement said.

"We are concerned that this action by Canada, if not opposed by us, would be taken as precedent in other parts of the world for other unilateral infringements of the freedom of the seas."

The U.S. statement said if other countries followed Canada's example in claiming large ocean areas, merchant shipping would be severely hampered, naval mobility would be jeopardized and there could be grave international disputes.

At the same time, the statement said, the United States is acutely aware of the potential dangers of oil pollution to the Arctic environment.

"We believe the Arctic beyond national jurisdiction should be subject to internationally agreed rules protecting its assets, both living and non-living," the statement said.

The United States claims only a three-mile offshore territorial water for itself but is willing to recognize claims of others up to 12 miles offshore, provided ships have right of international passage through those waters.

Market Showing Downward Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped early today with declining issues on the New York Stock exchange leading gainers by a hair's breadth.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 10:30 a.m. was behind 0.66 at 781.94.

Factors which account for the market's lackluster tone include:

—The massive offering of debentures and warrants by American Telephone & Telegraph that began Monday. Apparently has drained capital from the stock market.

—Pessimism stemming from disappointing earnings reports of many companies.

—The threat of higher taxes raised Wednesday by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy. He said additional taxation might be necessary if fiscal restraint was eased.

Use Of Foliage Killer Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of spraying millions of acres in Vietnam, the Pentagon is suspending war use of the controversial defoliant 2,4,5-T.

The move was ordered Wednesday as the departments of Agriculture, and Health, Education and Welfare announced a ban on domestic use of the powerful weed killer around homes, water areas and food crops.

Tests indicated that 2,4,5-T, or Herbicide Orange as the military calls it, caused cancer in laboratory mice injected with the chemical.

Officials said newly available information "indicates that 2,4,5-T as well as its contaminant, dioxins, may produce abnormal developments in unborn animals."

The Pentagon said it has found no evidence the herbicide had caused birth defects among the South Vietnamese but said the HEW-Agriculture decision showed that 2,4,5-T warranted further scrutiny.

Arms Talks Begin In Vienna Today

VIENNA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union opened talks today to see if they can check the nuclear arms race. President Nixon told the Russians he hopes the nuclear missile arsenals of the superpowers can be first limited and then reduced.

The two delegations opened the substantive round of the strategic arms limitation talks —SALT— at a ceremony in the ornate, historic Belvedere Palace. They had arranged the negotiations at a preliminary round in Helsinki during the winter.

Chief U.S. Delegate Gerard Smith read a message from Nixon pledging his "firm commitment to the search for an early, equitable, verifiable agreement. The President said he had given Smith "authority to approach the issue in the most comprehensive manner."

One Weatherman Radical Caught

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI Wednesday arrested Linda Evans, first to be caught of 12 Weatherman radicals who have been the objects of a nationwide search in connection with Chicago rioting last October.

The 12 dropped from sight about a month ago.

Miss Evans, 22, banged her manacled wrists on the table as U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp ordered her held in $75,000 bail for a hearing Friday on charges of conspiring to incite riot in Chicago.

An FBI statement said she was specifically charged with traveling by interstate commerce from East Lansing to Chicago Oct. 8 with the intent to "organize and promote a riot" and that she spoke to an assembly at Covenant United Methodist Church in Evanston, Ill., Oct. 11 "for the purpose of inciting a riot."

She was picked up in Manhattan's East Village, hangout of many hippies and young radicals, with Thomas Niehman, 22, who was charged with assaulting an FBI agent while the arrests were being made.

Wings Had Good Season Despite Playoff Blanking

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

Who can justifiably knock the Detroit Red Wings this season, even on the tail of four straight losses to the Chicago Black Hawks who eliminated the Wings from the Stanley Cup playoffs?

What a season they had! Last year they finished fifth in the East Division of the National Hockey League, just nipping last place Chicago by one point. Detroit finished with 33 wins, 31 losees and 12 ties for 78 points.

This season, with basically the same team, the Wings finished third with a 40-21-15 record for 95 points and reached the playoffs for the first time since 1966. Ninety-five points! That's 17 more than last year and just three shy of tieing division champ Chicago.

"I'm pleased with all of them. I'm sure not going to knock them now hat they're knocked out of the playoffs," said Sid Abel, Detroit general manager-coach.

Abel didn't relish his dual job. He took over the coaching after Bill Gadsby was fired moments before the start of the third game this season.

As could be expected, Abel got another great season from Gordie Howe. The 42-year-old legend scored 31 goals and had 40 assists for 71 points—tops on the team.

Right behind him was Frank Mahovlich, the veteran forward who has found renewed hockey life in Detroit since being traded from Toronto 2½ seasons ago. He was second in team scoring, getting 70 points on 38 goals and 32 assists.

Before the season started Gadsby, now chief Wings scout, said he expected quite a bit from 22-year-old center Garry Unger. Unger responded with a fabulous 42 goals and 24 assists for 66 points.

Captain Alex Delvecchio talked of retiring but Abel said he doesn't expect the 19-year veteran to follow through, especially after a good year. Delvecchio was the third leading Wings scorer with 68 points on 21 goals and 47 assists.

Five Wings scored 20 goals or more: Howe, Mahovlich, Unger, Delvecchio, Pete Semkowski (25), Wayne Connelly (23), and Nick Libett (20).

Only Boston's Phil Esposito (43) scored more goals than Unger.

A major factor in Detroit success this season has been its ability to win on the road. The Wings collected 48 of their 95 points away from home to tie a single season NHL mark for games away. Detroit set the mark in the 1951-52 season and the Montreal Canadiens matched it in 1957-58 and 1968-69.

Howe has indicated he'll play at least one more year. And if Delvecchio stays the Wings could have another fine year next season.

The play of Unger and Libett was particularly encouraging since both have only played two full seasons. Rookie Al Karlander, who starred in college at Michigan Tech, was impressive in spots in sticking with the team after coming up from the Fort Worth farm club of the Central Hockey League.

Among the players in the minor leagues which may see a lot of action next season are Doug Volmar, Gerry Hart, Rick McCann, Fred Speck and Ed Hatoum. All were up with the parent club for a few games this season.

Defensively, Carl Brewer had a fine season after being persuaded out of retirement. It still isn't certain whether he'll be back.

Fellow defenseman Bob Baun, a hard-nosed veteran, had a good season and Dale Rolfe, acquired in a deal with Los Angeles, helped considerably.

Roy Edwards was continually sensational in the goal and teammate Roger Crozier had a good season. Edwards played in 47 regular games and had an average of 2.59 goals scored against. Crozier was in 34 with a 2.65 average.

Homer-Happy Braves Overpower San Diego

By The Associated Press

The homer-happy Atlanta Braves have Manager Luman Harris punchy but that's nothing compared to the Kayo Mike Torrez delivered over the Montreal Expos with his arm and bat.

The Braves tagged two more four-baggers Wednesday night, stretching their start of season homer streak to nine games and downing San Diego 7-5. Torrez meanwhile, limited Montreal to an eighth inning single and stroked three of his own, leading St. Louis to a 10-0 romp over the Expos.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings. Cincinnati shaded Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago dropped Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had the day off.

Orlando Cepeda tagged three hits including a homer and Clete Boyer also hit one as the Braves continued their long-ball assault on enemy pitchers. They are four games short of matching the record for homers in consecutive games at the start of a season set by the Chicago Cubs in 1954.

It was on ordinary single by Cepeda that broke the tie against the Padres in the seventh inning. Then Bob Priddy came out of the bullpen in the ninth to nail down the victory for George Stone, who gave up two homers to Nate Colbert and one to Clarence Gaston early in the game.

"We're in a rut on home run balls," said Harris, who has seen his team hit 11 homers and his pitchers surrender 13 in the first nine games. "I've seen them hit everywhere, right, center, left, domed stadium, cowpasture, it doesn't make any difference. We must be playing with those 5-X balls."

The Braves may be using the lively ball but Torrez certainly wasn't throwing one at Montreal. The tall Cardinal righthander gave the Expos nothing until Adolfo Phillips singled in the eighth for Montreal's only hit.

Meanwhile, Torrez cracked three singles and was involved in all of the Cardinals' scoring innings. His hit touched off a four-run third and he drove in a run in the fifth with another single. Then, he was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and the Cards wrapped up the victory with four more runs, three of them on Richie Allen's homer.

It was the 11th straight victory over two seasons for Torrez, a hard-throwing right-hander.

John Mayberry poled a pair of home runs and Houston pushed across a run in the 10th on Jim Beauchamp's single to beat San Francisco. Joe Pepitone also homered for the Astros while Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz connected for the Giants.

Mayberry's three-run shot in the eighth tied the score and then the rookie was hit by a pitch leading off the 10th and moved around to score on hits by John Edwards and Beauchamp.

Bobby Tolan's two-run single capped a three-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning and the Reds held on to edge the Dodgers. Jim Merritt was working on a shutout until the ninth when Andy Kosco jolted a two-run homer. After Wes Parker doubled, Clay Carroll came out of the bullpen to get the final out.

Billy Williams, shackled by an 0-for-19 slump at the start of the season, snapped out of it in a hurry with four straight hits including his 250th career homer as the Cubs beat the Phillies.

"You never can stop a hitter like Williams for long," said Chicago Manger Leo Durocher. "Billy now is liable to stay hot for another two weeks."

ABA Ends Third Season; Haywood Breaks Record

By The Associated Press

The American Basketball Association, the so-called Lively League, wound up its third regular season Wednesday night with Indiana and Denver, the East and West Division champs respectively, each posting victories.

In addition, Spencer Haywood of Denver set an ABA single game scoring record of 59 points.

The ABA playoffs, for the first four teams in each division, start Friday night. If each of the playoff series goes the full seven-game route, June will be close to busting out before the champion is crowned.

Indiana downed Miami 118-111, New York trimmed Kentucky 123-112, New Orleans defeated Dallas 154-127, Denver beat Los Angeles 152-116 and Pittsburgh thrashed Carolina 132-110.

Los Angeles' loss dropped the Stars from a third-place tie with Washington but the Stars still made the playoffs; finishing a full game ahead of New Orleans, which had led the Western Division for the first half of the season but now will miss the ABA playoffs for the first time.

Here's now the playoffs shape up:

In the East, Indiana plays Carolina and Kentucky duels New York. The West semifinals send Denver against Washington and Los Angeles aginst Dallas.

Haywood, Denver's celebrated rookie, got his league record 59 points against Los Angeles on 23 field goals and a perfect 13-of-13 from the foul line. He broke the old ABA single game high of 57 points set by Connie Hawkins of Minnesota against the New York Nets on Nov. 27, 1968.

Altogether, Haywood finished the regular season with 2,519 points. He also snared 25 rebounds to become the league's No. 1 rebounder as well as scorer. His rebounds for the regular season were 1,637.

Mike Lewis scored 26 points to lead Pittsburgh over the Cougars. The Pipers wiped out an eight-point deficit after the first period and went ahead for good on Lewis' jump shot in the second quarter at 48-46.

New York rallied from a seven-point halftime deficit to beat Kentucky, the team the Nets meet in the playoffs. New York had 6-foot-9 center Ed Johnson back in action for the first time in two weeks, Johnson, sidelined with a knee injury, came off the bench in the second half, scoring 13 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Laven Tart was high for New York while Gene Moore led Kentucky with 28.

The Nets annunced their season attendance at home, for 42 games, was 142,832, compared to 42,811 a year ago when the team played 39 home games.

Rookie Hurls Chisox To Victory Over A's

By The Associated Press

Gerald Janeski, a scholarly Chicago White Sox rookie who enjoys flying kites as a hobby, did a job on Oakland in grounding the hard-hitting A's on a masterful pitching performance.

The 23-year-old right-hander, obtained from the Boston Red Sox in spring training as a replacement in the Gary Peters deal, stifled the A's Wednesday night for his second straight major league victory and first complete game.

Janeski, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder, scattered three hits and only walked one while striking out two in the White Sox' 7-0 blanking of the A's. Janeski, 15-10 with Louisville of the American Association last year, owns two of Chicago's three virories this season.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Minnesota tripped California 8-2 and Boston stopped New York 6-2. The Washington at Baltimore twi-night doubleheader was postponed by bad weather.

Janeski, two days shy of his 24th birthday, beat Milwaukee last Friday in his major league debut.

Wednesday night, the rookie, who says he read about 30 books last year at Louisville and intends to make it 40 this year, got long-ball support off the bats of John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Les Josephson, each slamming homers, and a two-run double by Carlos May.

Roberto Pena stroked two of the hits off Janeski—a double in the third inning and a single in the eighth—and Rick Monday had a ninth-inning single.

Janeski, a sinker baller, impressed Manager Don Gutteridge in three spring outings. "I think we've got a pitcher there," Gutteridge said of his kite-flying youngster. "The more I see of him the more I like him."

Janeski figures he got a break when the White Sox obtained him from Boston and the California State College student means to make the most of it However, he misses former teammate Billy Conigliaro, now with the Red Sox. Conigliaro was his kite flying partner.

"Some people see you flying a kite and they think you're crazy," Janeski says. But who says you can't fly a kite? And anyway, Chicago should be good kite flying territory."

Unbeaten Minnesota, held to one hit through five innings, exploded for eight runs in the sixth off Angels' loser Andy Messersmith. The big inning was keyed by Brant Alyea's grand slam homer, his third blast of the year and 11th run batted in.

The Twins, winning for the fourth time, also got homers from Leo Cardenas and Cesar Tovar. Jay Johnstone connected for the Angeles, who lost for the second straight time after five straight triumphs.

Jim Lonborg cracked his second major league home run and checked the Yankees with late relief help from Sparky Lyle.

Lonborg had a three-hit shutout for seven innings before tiring and giving up both Yanks runs.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 edge in the first inning on Carl Yastrzemski's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by George Scott and increased it on Gerry Moses' scoring single and RBI by Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli before Lanborg's sixth inning homer.

Red Wings Name New Coach Today

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings get a new coach today, with the most prominent speculation put on Ned Harkness, who led Cornell University into an unbeaten hockey season.

A Cornell University spokesman said at Ithaca, N.Y., that the university, "has made substantial offers to keep Harkness here." However, he said that Harkness was in Detroit Wednesday night.

The Red Wings said that the new coach would be announced at a news conference.

The new coach will succeed Sid Abel, who will devote his full time to duties as general manager of the National Hockey League club. Abel and Red Wings president Bruce A. Norris were to introduce the new coach.

Abel took over the coaching reins at the start of the third game of the season, replacing Bill Gadsby, who was relieved as coach. Abel coached the Red Wings to third place in the NHL's East Division. However, they lost four straight games to Chicago and were eliminated from the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

The Detroit Free Press said that indications are that Harkness would get the nod. The Ithaca, N.Y., Journal also said that Harkness was "leaning heavily" toward accepting the Red Wings post.

A Red Wings spokesman refused any comment on the reports.

Among other persons who have been mentioned are Doug Barkley, coach of the Red Wings' Fort Worth club; former Red Wing Ted Lindsay, and Murray Armstrong, coach at the University of Denver.

Senior Men's Pool Champ Crowned

Pat Rogers became the 1970 Senior Men's Pool Champ last night by topping an eighteen-man field to capture the crown. Rogers set the pace in the opening round by bumping last year's Champ, John D'Antonio 2-0. Pat continued his winning ways by defeating Dennis Weber 2-1, Ken Robitaille 2-1, and then shutting out Kari Hannula 2-0 in the championship match.

Second place went to Kari Hannula, who picked up wins over Steve King 2-0, Guy Provo 2-1, and Rich Bougie 2-1, before bowing to Rogers.

Rich Bougie won the Consolation Match by defeating Ken Robitaille 2-0 for third place honors. Bougie had previously defeated Dan Gouin 2-1, and Kim Oliver 2-0, and bowed to Hannula 1-2, before besting Robitaille in the battle for third.

Ken Robitaille finished fourth on wins over Jim Bougie 2-0, and Dick Lewis 2-0; a 1-2 loss to Pat Rogers, and the Consolation loss to Rich Bougie.

Tournament action will conclude tomorrow night with the Girls Open Class Pool Matches, which get underway at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Stanley Cup Play Resumes Tonight

By The Associated Press

Boston and St. Louis, each with 3-2 series leads, try to wrap up their respective Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals tonight but the home ice advantage has prevailed in both series and the Bruins and the Blues are both on the road.

If the trend continues, however, that means New York and Minnesota will triumph, sending each series into a seventh and deciding game.

Boston and New York have already piled up a Stanley Cup record of 346 minutes in penalties, the bulk in their first four games.

The Bruins won the first two games in Boston Garden with the Rangers bouncing back to even the series with two victories in Madison Square Garden. In the fifth game, Tuesday night at Boston, the Bruins rallied on a pair of third-period goals by Phil Esposito for a 3-2 decision.

Magnificent Bobby Orr and Esposito, the Bruins' 1-2 punch throughout the season, have been Boston's mainstays in the playoffs.

For the Rangers, tonight's three periods will be the most critical ones they've faced all season long—even more so than the final regular season game when they clinched fourth place and a playoff berth in the East Division.

Minnesota will be trying to continue its season of comebacks when it meets St. Louis. The North Stars gained the playoffs with four straight triumphs in the final week of regular season play after a period earlier which saw them win only once in 34 outings.

"We've come too far to quit now," said Bill Goldsworthy, Minnesota's leading scorer.

But the Blues have different ideas. "There's no sense in prolonging it anymore," said St. Louis center Phil Goyette.

Pittsburgh and Chicago already have won Stanley Cup quarter-final series, each team wrapping it up in four games. Pittsburgh will meet the St. Louis-Minnesota survivor while the Black Hawks play the winner of the Bruins-Rangers series.

Esposito and Chicago's Bobby Hull are the leading Stanley Cup playoff scorers to date, each with nine points, followed by Orr and New York's Rod Gilbert with eight each.

Tigers Doing OK With Gutierrez

DETROIT (AP) — Near the end of last season, the Detroit Tigers, hurting at their perennially weak position of shortstop, acquired an unheard of Venezuelan, Cesar Gutierrez, from the San Francisco Giants.

Fans were surprised when manager Mayo Smith, talking about Tiger prospects, said Gutierrez would be the No. 1 shortstop, ahead of Tom Tresh.

But Gutierrez got his biggest publicity when his arrival at at the Tiger spring training camp was delayed because of a hassle with Venezuelan immigration people.

But Gutierrez is making himself known now. With 30 at bats, he is hitting for a .333 average and hopes to keep up the pace.

"Why not?" he asked in his trained English. "I always hit the ball good."

The Tigers, idle Wednesday, take on Cleveland at home today, with Earl Wilson, 0-2, scheduled to go against Dean Chance, 1-0.

"I don't do nothing different here than I do in Triple A," Gutierrez said, describing his new-found success at the plate.

"I just try to meet the ball and hit it someplace. That's the same thing I always did."

Gutierrez indicated he was tired of always being dumped down into the minors, as happened several times in his career with the Giants.

"When I came to Detroit, I think this is my last shot," he said. "And when I come to camp I want to make it a good shot. I just want to hit the ball like I always do."

Job Awarded Marine Firm

MARQUETTE — Gallagher Marine Co. of Escanaba and Engineered Buildings of Marquette will do the work on Marquette's Presque Isle Marina.

The city commission meeting Monday night, awarded contracts to the two companies as follows:

Gallagher Marine, $277,523.40 for the water portion of the project; and Engineered Buildings, $108,596 for the land portion of the project, including the central building. Engineered Buildings quoted $125,142.60, with $730 for city alternates.

Eight bids were received by the city on the project, which is to be funded 50 per cent by the federal government, 40 per cent by the state and 10 per cent by the city.

City Manager Thomas R. McNabb pointed out that the low bids by Gallagher and Engineered Buildings totaled $402,666.

State Motorists Favor Inspection, License Testing

LANSING (AP) — Michigan motorists favor an annual automobile inspection and a written test for driver's license renewal applicants, according to a poll announced by Secretary of State James Hare.

Hare said 5,365 drivers responded to the poll at 16 department offices in 14 counties over a three-month period.

He said the inspection idea was favored by 89 per cent and the renewal test by 64 per cent.

The poll also said 88 per cent felt most drivers tend to overrate their driving ability; 65 per cent felt most drivers are usually polite and helpful on the road; and more than 50 per cent felt driving too slow is more dangerous than driving too fast.

House Okays Lower Voting Age To 18

LANSING (AP)—The question of lowering the voting age to 18 will be on the ballot again this fall, if the Michigan Senate goes along with the House.

Taking only 15 minutes to dispose of the matter, the House voted 83-10 Wednesday to put the question to voters. A similar proposal was beaten at the polls four years ago.

A two-thirds majority was required in the House to approve the resolution, which calls for a constitutional amendment. There was surprisingly little debate.

Senate Action Awaited

Measures to lower the voting age are pending in the Senate.

The House also approved and recommended immediate effect for a bill to ease the problem of housing for low and moderate-income families.

The bill, which goes to the Senate, permits the State Housing Authority to make grants to local communities for land acquisition and renewal. It also establishes a fund to be used in buying property for housing developments, planning other developments and paying taxes and other charges. Other features include loan provisions and authority for development of private corporations organized "exclusively" to provide housing for low and moderate-income families.

Limited Return

These corporations would be granted a "limited" return on their investments.

Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, said in prepared remarks "our statewide housing shortage and the growing decay of our cities require that state government play a larger role in the provision of decent housing and related services."

He added:

"By now it has clearly been demonstrated that the private sector either cannot or will not build enough housing to accommodate the needs of these people. State government, therefore, has no alternative but to step up its attack on the problem and assume greater responsibility for making sure that adequate numbers of housing units are, in fact, built."

Kildee did not deliver his remarks. The House went to a vote with little comment and passed the measure 80-9.

It appeared briefly as if consideration of the 18-year-old vote resolution would be set over for another day.

Mishap Fatal

SAGINAW (AP) — Jesse G. Franco, 24, of Saginaw, was killed Wednesday at the General Motors Corp.'s nodular iron foundry when he accidently fell on a conveyor belt and was crushed.

Trailer Park Measure Due

LANSING (AP)—A bill to give trailer park residents the same protections as other renters probably will come out of committee in about 10 days, says says the sponsor.

Rep. Vincent Petitpren, D-Westland, said no opposition was presented when some three dozen witnesses appeared at a hearing of the House Judiciary Committee.

Petitpren says he hopes to tie his bill to another measure which would tax trailer homes on the basis of value, rather than the present $3 monthly fee in lieu of taxes.

Under this tactic, there would have to be approval of both measures in order for either to pass. The tax measure has received a favorable recommendation from the House Taxation Committee.

Petitpren said that based on conversations with mobile home owners, he feels "they don't object to paying their fair share of taxes as long as they have equal rights."

For many mobile home owners, the tax bill would bring a sharp increase in payments to support public services.

Petitpren argued that those who rent or lease space in a park do not now enjoy the same protection as a building tenant covered by the tenants rights act.

Trailer park management, Petitpren says, can assume complete control over utilities and roads on the property and specify which repairmen may or may not be hired. Also, he says, the management may evict a person for any number of reasons.

He estimated some 70 persons attended the Tuesday night hearing.

Reuther To Face Voting Challenge

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther's re-election to the presidency of the 1.8-million-member United Auto Workers Union is to be challenged next week by a long-time and often-defeated critic, Art Fox of Ford Local 600 of Detroit, the union's largest local.

Fox is local bargaining committeeman for the tool and die department of Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge complex in suburban Dearborn. Local 600 has 31,000 members.

Reuther's re-election last was challenged in 1949, by W. G. Grant, then Local 600 financial secretary, who lost 8,021 to 639.

Asked if he planned a campaign, now that he has opposition, Reuther said: "No. If I campaigned, it would indicate I am in trouble. I don't think I'm in any trouble."
